The following report, submitted by the Managers, was taken as read:—

2. Subject to the approval of subscribers, they have admitted to the benefits of the Fund the following families:

Total	300

3. The votes of subscribers have affirmed the Resolution passed at the last General Meeting respecting the

"Before 'Rs. 12,500' insert 'Rs. 18,750 or to,' and for 'in the former case one-half and in the latter one-quarter,' substitute 'in the first case three-quarters, in the second one-half, and in the third one-quarter.'" amendment of section 2, article 8 of the Rules by the insertion of the words noted on the margin. The votes were 117 for the amendment and 2 against it. The clause thus amended will run as follows:—

But subscribers hereafter so retiring from the service may, at their option, by making up the amount of their subscriptions with interest either to Rs. 18,750 or to Rs. 12,500 or to Rs. 6,250, and by continuing, or compounding for their contributions on their annuities at half the rates levied from subscribers in the service on their allowances, secure to their families, on the same conditions as above, in the first case three-quarters, in the second one-half, and in the third one-quarter of the amount of pensions and other allowances granted to the family of a subscriber dying in the service, or of an annuitant who has made up, on retirement, the full amount of Rs. 25,000.

The above Rule comes into operation with effect from the 1st January 1877.

With reference to the amendment of this Rule, the Financial Secretary to the Government of India demiofficially enquired whether the proceedings of the Fund go regularly to the Secretary of State and, if so, through what channel, and remarked that the amendment would require the sanction of the Secretary of State. Under the Managers' orders Mr. Chapman was informed that the Fund has no communication with the Secretary of State. In regard to the matter of sanction, it was pointed out that there had apparently been some misapprehension as to the rights of the subscribers to the Civil Fund, and that they had probably been confounded with the members of the Annuity Fund.

Subsequently, the following official correspondence passed between the Government of India and the Managers:—

No. 3441.

To

THE SECRETARY TO THE BENGAL CIVIL FUND.

SIR,

I AM directed by His Excellency the Viceroy in Council to request that six copies of the proceedings of the General Meeting of the subscribers to the Bengal Civil Fund, held on the 30th July 1877, may be forwarded for the information of the Government of India and transmission to the Secretary of State for India.

2. I am also to request that in future six copies of the proceedings of all General and Special Meetings of the subscribers to the fund may be forwarded to the Government of India for the same purpose.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT,

SIMLA;

The 20th September 1877.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

E. J. SINKINSON,

Offg. Under Secy. to the Govt. of India.

To

THE SECRETARY TO THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA,

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

SIR,

I HAVE the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter No. 3441 of 20th September last

2. In accordance with the request contained in your first paragraph, the Managers have the pleasure of forwarding six copies of the proceedings of the General Meeting of 30th July last, already published in the Gazette of India (Part III, dated 26th August 1877), page 64 as required by Rule XVI.

3. The present Managers will also, I am directed to say, have pleasure in supplying in the same form information as to the published proceedings of General Meetings of the Fund held during their tenure of office, if the supply of such information will be of service to Government; but they desire me to say that they cannot undertake in any way to bind their successors or the subscribers to the Fund, as the supply of information to Government in this form does not appear to be contemplated by the rules of the Fund.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Secretary.

CIVIL FUND OFFICE,

The 3rd January 1878.

4. The Managers submit for the consideration of the Meeting the case of Mr. R. Evans.

Under article eight of the Rules, subscribers who resign the service and wish to secure to their widows and children the full, three-quarters, half, or one-fourth benefits of the Fund, must, on retirement, make up their subscription balance to Rs. 25,000, 18,750, 12,500 or Rs. 6,250, as the case may be, and must continue their contributions on their annuities at half the rates levied from subscribers in the service. Mr. Evans resigned the service from 1st March 1877. On the 24th April last he was informed that he must at once pay Rs. 4,433-0-10 if he desired to retain an interest in the Fund by making up his balance to the sum of Rs. 6,250. He is anxious to keep up his interest, and he urges the three following circumstances which made it impossible for him to pay the money at the time specified.—(1) During his term of service, extending from 1867 to 1877, he never got beyond the grade of Assistant Magistrate at Rs. 600 a month. (2) When compelled to take leave on medical certificate in 1876, he had not completed the three years' residence after return from previous leave necessary to entitle him to the ordinary furlough allowance of £500. Instead of £500 per annum for two years, he could only claim £300 for one year. (3) His health was so bad when he returned home that he could neither raise money by insuring his life, nor increase his income by obtaining employment. Mr. Evans states that he will be prepared to pay the amount, with any fine that may be imposed within a fortnight after the decision of the subscribers is intimated to him.

The Managers recommend Mr. Evans' application to the favourable consideration of the Meeting

5. In accordance with the request of the Managers, Mr. E. F. Harrison has been in personal communication with the Actuary regarding the valuation of the assets and liabilities of the Fund. He reports that it would be impossible to place the inquiry in the hands of any one more capable of doing justice to it than Mr. Hardy. Mr. Harrison was to have had a further interview with Mr. Hardy in December, and the Managers have thought it advisable to await the result of his projected visit before taking any further steps regarding the valuation.

6. The accounts of the past year 1876-77 are submitted.

PART IV.

Bill of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Report of a Select Committee, with the Bill as amended by them, is published for general information:—

We, the undersigned Members of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to whom the Bill for the Licensing of Trades, Dealings, and Industries within the territories subject to the said Lieutenant-Governor was referred, have the honor to make the following report.

From the Secretary, Bengal Chamber of Commerce, dated 8th January 1878.
From the Honorary Secretary, British Indian Association, dated 17th January 1878.

We have considered the provisions of this Bill, and the communications regarding it, noted on the margin.

We have made the preamble to correspond with the preamble of the License Bill for the North-Western Provinces, now pending before the Council of the Governor-General for making Laws and Regulations.

We have, for the sake of clearness, divided the Bill into Parts, whereof Part I contains the preliminary provisions and interpretation clause; Part II contains the general provisions applicable to all districts, including Calcutta; Part III sets forth the provisions and procedure applicable in the districts of the interior; Part IV provides a special procedure for Calcutta; and Part V contains certain miscellaneous matters of general application.

We have provided that where a person carries on business in more than one district, he shall take out a license in each district with reference to his earnings in such district; and we have made it clear that Calcutta is, for the purposes of the Act, to be deemed to be a separate district.

We have made the minimum taxable income Rs. 100 per annum.

In Part III we have re-arranged sections 10 to 20 of the original Bill so as to make it more clear what powers the Collector may exercise in framing and amending the list of licensees, and what his powers are to be in dealing with petitions of objection.

We have provided for the recovery of fees from persons chargeable under the Act, who are employed in manufactories or under corporations, through and by means of their employers.

We have provided for an appeal from any order passed on a petition of objection by any officer subordinate to the Collector of the district.

We have removed the penalty clauses of sections 13 and 14 of the original Bill, because by section 37 of the Bill as now amended a legal obligation is imposed upon all persons to furnish information to a Collector when required in matters connected with this Act, and the needful penalties for non-compliance and for false statements are provided by Chapter X of the Indian Penal Code.

We have made the provisions of sections 113–115 and 119 of Bengal Act V of 1876 applicable to warrants of distress and sale under this Act, and have specifically exempted tools and implements of trade and agriculture from attachment and sale.

We have provided that no sums due under the Act shall be recoverable by any process of law after the expiry of three months from the last day of the year in respect of which they are payable.

We have made it clear that the exemption from house cess (under the Road Cess and Public Works Cess Acts), to be enjoyed by licensees under this Act, is not to have retrospective effect as regards instalments of house cess due on or before the 1st April 1878.

In Part IV we have provided that any person working or carrying on business in Calcutta shall be deemed to be a resident of the town for the purposes of the Act, and we have defined the limits of the town so as to include therein for such purposes the river and the fort.

We have provided a special procedure suited to the circumstances of the town and its municipal organisation both for the preparation of the lists of licensees and the disposal of petitions of objection.

We propose that in Calcutta the fees shall be recovered in the same manner as municipal rates under Bengal Act IV of 1876 and not otherwise.

In Part V, in the section regarding the disposal of fees and penalties, we have followed, as far as possible, the corresponding section in the Bill for the North-Western Provinces.

The Schedules we have very considerably modified. In Schedule A we have in class I provided for a higher grade of license fee of Rs. 500, to supplement the rate of Rs. 200 originally proposed as the maximum. We have raised the rates of fee under classes III, IV, and V to Rs. 50, 20, and 5 respectively. We have struck out class VII and redrafted the definitions of classes V and VI, providing under the last named class for two grades of fee, Rs. 2 and Re. 1.

In Schedule B we have provided for graduated fees under class I and class VI, to correspond with those under classes I and VI of Schedule A. We have added to classes I, II, III, IV, and V the names of certain trades that are not specially mentioned in the municipal schedule, but which appeared to us able to pay higher rates than those of class VI.

We have struck out the note to Schedule B as being matter more appropriate for the rules to be framed under the Act.

We have made various other verbal and formal emendations in the Bill and Schedules.

We recommend that the Bill as amended be passed.

PART II.

General Provisions applicable in all Districts.

5. Every person who, on or after the first day of April 1878, falls under any of the heads of the Schedules hereto annexed, and carries on (whether on behalf of himself or any other person) his trade, dealing, or industry in any district situated in the said territories, shall take out a license under this Act in such district and shall pay for the same the annual fee specified in the same Schedules as payable by persons of the class to which he belongs. For the purposes of this Act the Town of Calcutta shall be deemed to be a separate district.

6. Such license shall be granted by the Collector of such district or by such officer as he may appoint in this behalf; and in Calcutta by the Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners.

- (d) the place or places within such district at which the licensee intends to carry on his trade, dealing, or industry for the ensuing year;
- (e) the term for which such license shall remain in force;

8. Every such license shall have effect in such district only, and shall continue in force from the day of the date thereof until the first day of April next after the day of the granting thereof.

9. Every person to whom any such license has been granted, and who desires to continue to carry on his trade, dealing, or industry in such district after the expiration thereof, shall take out a fresh license for that purpose for the following year, to expire on the day appointed in the last preceding section, and shall renew the same so long as he desires to carry on such trade, dealing, or industry.

PART III.

Applicable to all districts except Calcutta.

10. As soon as may be after the commencement of this Act and the first day of January in every subsequent year, the Collector shall prepare a list of the persons in the district aforesaid to be licensed under this Act. Such list shall state—

- (a) the trade, dealing, or industry of each of the persons therein named;
- (b) the class and grade under which he is charged; and
- (c) the fee to be paid for his license

Such list shall be in such language as the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may direct, but a copy thereof in the language of the district shall be filed in the Office of the Collector, and shall be open to public inspection at all reasonable times without any payment.

11. The Collector may by a notice in writing require the occupier of any house, manufactory or shop to forward to him a statement in writing signed by the occupier of the names of all persons residing in such house or working in such manufactory or shop, and of their respective trades, dealings, industries, or occupations.

12. The Collector shall from time to time determine under which of the classes or grades mentioned in Schedule A hereto annexed every person required to take out a license under this Act shall be charged, and shall prepare or amend the said list accordingly.

13. A person carrying on several trades, dealings, or industries, in the same district and coming under more than one of the designations in the said Schedule, shall be chargeable only under one of the said designations at the discretion of the Collector. But each member of a firm shall be chargeable with reference to his individual share of the earnings of such firm.

14. The Collector may, subject to such rules as the local Government may lay down, remit the whole or any part of the fee payable under this Act by any person who may carry on his trade, dealing, or industry for a portion of the year only.

15. The list, or such part or parts thereof as the Collector thinks fit, shall be published in the principal bazars, and at all police-stations of all towns, and at all sub-divisional offices, police-stations, and outposts in the district, and at some conspicuous place in all villages concerned, together with a notification setting forth the Schedule of this Act applicable to the district, and directing that if any person falling under any of the classes specified in the said schedule, whether he is mentioned in such list or not, continues his trade or dealing in the said district, payment of the fee specified in the list as payable by him, or, when he is not mentioned in such list, of the fee mentioned in the said schedule as payable by persons of the class and grade to which he belongs must be made by him within sixty days of the date of the publication of the notification, and within sixty days next after the first day of April of each succeeding year.

16. When a statement in writing has been furnished to the Collector under section 11, from which it appears that any person in the employ of any other person, company, or corporation is chargeable with fees under this Act, the Collector may require the employer of such person to deduct the amount of his fee from any salary or wages due to such person, and to pay it to the Collector on his behalf.

17. Any person mentioned in the list referred to in section 10 and objecting to the class or grade in which he is charged, may, within thirty days after its publication, or within such further time as the Collector may in each case think fit, apply by petition to the Collector in order to establish his right to have his name transferred to another class or grade, or altogether removed from the list.

18. The Collector shall fix a day for the hearing of the petition, and on the day so fixed, or on such subsequent day as he may from time to time direct, shall hear the same and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

Provided that if, in the judgment of the Collector, the petitioner is able to shew that the fee which has been charged exceeds two per cent. upon his annual earnings, in his trade, dealing, or industry, within the district, such excess shall, for the purpose of section 17 be deemed a valid ground of objection, and the Collector shall thereupon order the petitioner's name to be transferred to another class or grade or to be altogether removed from the list. The Collector may also on this ground at any time reduce the amount of fee payable by any person under class V of Schedule A hereto annexed to the fee payable under class VI.

19. There shall be no appeal from an order of a Collector under section 18; but where the order is passed by any officer subordinate to a Collector, an appeal shall lie to the Collector, or to some officer specially empowered by the local Government in this behalf, whose decision shall be final. Every petition of appeal under this section shall be accompanied by a copy of the order complained of, and be presented within fifteen days of the date of such order. In computing the said period of fifteen days, the day on which the order complained of was made, and the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the same, shall be deducted.

20. The Collector may, for the purpose of enabling him to determine under which of the said classes or grades the petitioner should be charged, summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses and compel them to give evidence, and compel the production of documents by the same means, and, as far as possible, in the same manner as is provided in the case of a Civil Court by the Code of Civil Procedure.

Provided that the Collector shall not, in the course of any proceedings under this section, call for any evidence except at the instance of the petitioner, or in order to ascertain the correctness of facts alleged by him.

21. If after expiry of the period mentioned in the notification published under section 15 for payment of the amount specified therein, any person carries on his trade, dealing or industry without having taken out a license as required by this Act, he shall be liable, by order of the Collector, to pay a fine not exceeding thrice the amount payable by him in respect of such license, exclusive of the amount so payable; and on receipt of such payment the Collector shall grant him a license.

22. All sums due under section 21, and all fees payable under this Act, shall, where the amount exceeds fifty rupees, be recoverable either as if they were arrears of land revenue, or by distress and sale of the moveables of the person liable, at the discretion of the Collector. In all other cases they shall be recoverable by distress and sale of the moveables of the person liable.

The provisions of sections 113, 114, 115, and 119 of Bengal Act V of 1876 shall apply, as far as possible, to warrants of distress and sale issued by the Collector under this section; and no tools or implements of trade or agriculture shall be distrained or sold under any such warrant.

23. No sums due under this Act shall be recoverable by any process

A Bill to consolidate the Law relating to the Excise Revenue in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal.

WHEREAS it is expedient that the laws relating to the manufacture of spirits and the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors and intoxicating drugs, and the collection of the revenue derived therefrom, should be consolidated: It is enacted as follows:—

PART I.

Preliminary.

1. This Act may be cited as "The Bengal Excise Law Consolidation Act, 1877."

2. It shall come into force from such date as the Lieutenant-Governor may direct by notification in the Calcutta Gazette.

3. The enactments specified in the second schedule to this Act are hereby repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof.

This repeal shall not revive any office, authority, or thing abolished by any such enactment, or affect the validity of anything done or suffered, or any right, title, obligation, or liability accrued before the commencement of this Act.

And all rules prescribed, appointments made, powers conferred, licenses granted, and notifications published under any such enactment, and all other rules (if any) now in force and relating to the matters hereinafter dealt with, shall (so far as they are consistent with this Act) be deemed to have been respectively prescribed, made, conferred, granted, and published hereunder.

And all references made to any such enactment shall, as far as may be practicable, be deemed to be made to this Act.

And all proceedings now pending, which may have been commenced under any such enactment, shall be deemed to be commenced under this Act.

"Board" means the Board of Revenue for the provinces for the time-being subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

"Collector" includes a Deputy Collector, or other Revenue officer in independent charge of a district, a Superintendent of Excise Revenue, any covenanted or uncovenanted officer to whom the Collector may make over, with the previous sanction of the Commissioner (as he is hereby empowered to do), any of his powers or duties under this Act.

"Commissioner." means the Commissioner of a Revenue Division.

"Country spirit" means any spirit made by the native process of distillation.

"Intoxicating drugs" includes ganjah, bhang, churrua, and every preparation and admixture of the same.

"The Town." means the Town of Calcutta, and includes all places within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

Parts II and V apply to all the territories for the time-being subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, including the Town of Calcutta; Part III applies to all such territories, other than the Town of Calcutta; Part IV, save as provided in sections 84 and 102, applies only to the Town of Calcutta.

PART II.

English Distilleries.

6. It shall not be lawful for any person to construct or work a distillery after the manner in which distilleries are constructed and worked in England without a license under the signature of the Collector of the district in which such distillery is situated, or, in case the distillery is within twenty miles of Calcutta, or such other distance less than twenty miles as may from time to time be prescribed by the Local Government without a license under the signature of the Collector of Calcutta.

7. The Board may prescribe such rules (not being inconsistent with the provisions of this Act,) relative to the granting of licences under section 6, and to the management of distilleries established under this Part, and the issue of spirits therefrom, as may from time to time be judged expedient.

8. Subject to any general rules or special orders which the Governor-General in Council may from time to time issue in this behalf, the Local Government may from time to time by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, fix the excise duty leviable upon spirit manufactured at distilleries worked according to the English method at a rate not exceeding the rate fixed for imported spirit by the Indian Tariff Act, 1875, or any similar law for the time being in force. No spirit shall be removed from any such distillery, or the warehouses connected therewith, upon which the aforesaid duty has not been paid, or for the duty chargeable on which a bond has not been executed; and for all spirits removed upon payment of duty or under bond passes shall be issued by the Collector, which shall specify the quantity and strength of the spirit, the place of its destination, the person to whom it is consigned, and whether the duty has been paid or secured by bond.

9. A drawback of the duty paid on spirits manufactured after the English method and exported by sea to any port not subject to the Government of India, or to the Port of Aden, shall be allowed by the Collector of Customs at the port of exportation: Provided that the exportation shall be made within one year from the date of the payment of duty under this Part, and that the spirits, when brought to the Custom House, shall be accompanied by the pass in which such payment is certified.

10. All licensed distilleries constructed and worked after the English method and situated within twenty miles of Calcutta, or such other distance less than twenty miles as may from time to time be prescribed by the Local Government, shall be under the superintendence and control of the Collector of Calcutta, who shall exercise, with respect to such distilleries and to the spirits manufactured therein, all the powers vested in Collectors by this Act; and the Collectors of districts in which any such distilleries are situated shall have no jurisdiction with respect to such distilleries.

11. Every person who shall construct or work a distillery after the English method without a license from the Collector shall be liable for every such offence to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees; and all spirits manufactured at any such distillery, and all materials and implements collected for the purpose of such manufacture, shall be liable to confiscation.

12. Every proprietor or manager of a licensed distillery constructed and worked after the English method who shall by any act or omission contravene any rule prescribed by the Board under section 7, shall be liable for every such offence to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees; and if any such offence be committed a second time with respect to the same distillery, the license granted for the working of such distillery may be withdrawn by the Collector.

13. Every person who shall remove, or attempt to remove, from any licensed distillery constructed and worked after the English method any spirituous liquors upon which the duty has not been paid, or for the duty on which a bond has not been executed, or any spirituous liquors for which a pass has not been issued by the Collector, shall be liable for every such offence to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees; and the liquors, together with the vessels containing the same and the animals and conveyances used in carrying them, shall be liable to confiscation.

If it shall appear to the Collector that the offence was committed with the consent or knowledge of the proprietor or manager, the license granted for the construction and working of the distillery from which such liquors have been removed, or attempted to be removed, may be withdrawn.

Licenses.

14. Every person taking out a license for the retail sale of country spirits, taree (whether fermented or unfermented), or puchwai, or intoxicating drugs, shall pay to the Collector such fee, tax, or duty, as may from time to time be fixed with the sanction of the Board, or regulated in such manner as the Board may prescribe; and such fee, tax or duty shall be specified in the license, and shall be payable at such periods as the Board may direct.

15. Every person taking out a license for the manufacture of country spirits, or for the retail sale of spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs, shall execute a counterpart engagement in conformity with the tenor of the license, and shall give such security for the performance of his engagement, or make such deposit in lieu of security, as the Collector may require.

16. Except in the case of licenses for the retail sale of unfermented taree, the term of which extends only to the period of the year when the fresh juice is in request, and unless otherwise specially authorized by the Board, a license for retail sale shall be granted for the term of one year, and if continued to the holder thereof, shall be formally renewed from year to year. But it shall be incumbent on every person holding a license who may intend not to renew it to give notice of his intention to the Collector fifteen days previously to the expiration of the year; and if such notice be not given, and the license be not recalled by the Collector, the license held and engagement entered into by every such person shall remain in force as if the said license and engagement had been formally renewed.

17. The Board shall have authority to regulate the form and conditions of all licenses granted under this Act.

18. The Collector may withhold or cancel any license granted under this Act if the tax or duty therein specified be not duly paid, or in case of a violation of any other condition thereof, or of the holder being convicted of a breach of the peace or any other criminal offence, and in such cases the holder shall not be entitled to a refund of any fee, tax or duty payable under the license which he may have paid to the Collector in advance.

If the Collector desire to cancel a license for any cause other than those above specified, he shall give fifteen days' previous notice and remit a sum equal to the tax for fifteen days, or, if notice be not given, shall make such further compensation for default of notice as the Commissioner or Board shall direct. In all such cases any fee, tax, or duty already paid in advance shall be refunded.

Any person selling by retail any spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs above specified whilst such license is withheld, or after it is cancelled, shall be subject to all the penalties provided by Parts III and IV for the unlicensed sale of spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs.

19. Any licensed retail vendor may surrender his license on giving fifteen days' previous notice to the Collector and paying a sum equal to the tax for fifteen days over and above the sum payable under the license.

20. The Collector, after demand made in writing, may recover any arrears of tax or duty due on account of any license granted under this Act by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person from whom the same is due, or of his surety, or by the process described in Bengal Act VII of 1868.

PART III.—BENGAL.

Excise Administration.

21. The collection of the revenue arising from the manufacture of spirits and the sale of spirits and spirituous and fermented liquors and intoxicating drugs shall be ordinarily under the charge of the Collectors, who shall perform the duties connected therewith under the control and direction of the Commissioners and of the Board. But the Government may appoint any other person to be Superintendent of Excise Revenue in any district or place; and any person so appointed shall exercise, in such district or place, all the powers and authority vested by this Part in the Collector, and such powers and authority shall cease to be exercised in such district or place by the Collector during the continuance of such appointment.

22. The Local Government may also appoint a Commissioner or Commissioners for the control and direction of the officers having charge of the excise revenue in any district or districts; and when such appointment is made, the Commissioner of Excise shall exercise within such district or districts the powers and authority vested by this Part in Commissioners of Revenue, and the Revenue Commissioner shall cease to exercise such powers and authority in the said district or districts during the continuance of such appointment.

23. Collectors may appoint all such ministerial officers as are necessary for the collection of the excise revenue and for the prevention of smuggling, and the officers so appointed shall, in addition to their ordinary designations, be styled "Excise Officers."

24. Spirituous liquors passed from distilleries worked according to the English method, fermented liquors manufactured at a licensed brewery, and spirituous and fermented liquors imported either by land or by sea shall not be sold except under license from the Collector.

25. Every person taking out a license for the wholesale vend of spirituous and fermented liquors as aforesaid shall pay for every such license such sum as may from time to time be fixed with the sanction of the Board. The license shall be current only during the official year and in the district in which it is granted; but travelling merchants may obtain a general license, authorizing them to sell by wholesale in any district which they may visit in the course of their travel, without taking out a fresh license for that district, under such rules and restrictions as may be from time to time prescribed by the Board.

26. Every person taking out a license for the retail sale of spirituous and fermented liquors as aforesaid shall pay for every such license such fee, tax, or duty as may from time to time be fixed with the sanction of the Board, or a fee, tax, or duty adjusted or regulated in such manner and in accordance with such rules as the Board may prescribe; and such fee, tax, or duty shall be specified in the license, and shall be payable in advance or at such periods as the Board may direct. Any sale of spirituous or fermented liquors as aforesaid in less quantity than two imperial gallons or one dozen of reputed quart bottles shall be held to be a retail sale.

27. It shall not be lawful for any person to manufacture spirits after the native process, or such other spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs as the Board, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, may specify, nor to sell such spirits, liquors, or drugs, or any preparation or admixture of the same, or to cultivate plants from which intoxicating drugs are produced, except under license from the Collector.

28. All the provisions relating to the sale or possession of fermented liquors contained in the following sections of this Part shall be held applicable to the sale or possession of taree, whether in a fermented state or otherwise; and all taree, both fresh and fermented, shall be held to be included in the expression "fermented liquors" as used in the following sections of this Part:

Provided that the local Government may, on the report of the Board, pass an order suspending the operation of all the provisions relating to taree contained in this Part with respect to any district in which the consumption of taree in a fermented state is inconsiderable; and after the passing of any such order, it shall be lawful for taree to be possessed and sold without license in any such district, notwithstanding anything contained in this Part.

29. The Collector, with the sanction of the Board, may establish at any place within his jurisdiction a distillery in which spirits may be manufactured after the native process, and may from time to time fix limits within which no country spirits, except such as are manufactured at the said distillery, shall be introduced or sold without a special pass from the Collector, and within which no stills shall be constructed or worked, or spirits manufactured, except at the said distillery. He may also, with the like sanction, discontinue any distillery so established whenever its discontinuance may appear to be expedient.

30. The Board may prescribe such rules relative to the management of distilleries established under the last preceding section, to the conditions on which spirits may be manufactured in the said distilleries, and to the passes to be issued for the conveyance of such spirits to the shops of the vendors as may from time to time be judged expedient.

31. The Board may, with the sanction of the Local Government, subject to the confirmation of the Governor-General in Council, from time to time prescribe rules consistent with this Act—for regulating the mode in which fermented liquors shall be supplied to licensed vendors of the same; for subjecting the cultivation of plants from which intoxicating drugs are produced, and the preparation of the said drugs, to such restrictions and supervision as may be deemed necessary to secure the duty leviable thereon; and for granting licenses or passes to persons cultivating, preparing, storing, possessing, purchasing, or transporting the said plants or drugs.

All such rules shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and when so published, shall have effect as if they were contained in this Act.

32. Except for the supply of licensed vendors, country spirits, taree, and puchwai, and intoxicating drugs shall not be sold in larger quantities than may be fixed by the Board for each district, provided that the quantities so to be fixed shall not exceed those hereunder specified—namely, country spirits, two imperial gallons or twelve reputed quart bottles; taree or puchwai, twelve seers; ganjah or bhang, or any preparation or admixture of the same, one quarter of a seer; churru or any preparation or admixture of the same, five tolas weight; and the sale of any such quantity as is herein allowed shall be deemed to be a retail sale within the meaning of this Part.

33. The Collector may by a warrant under his hand authorize any excise officer above the rank of a peon to enter and inspect at all times, by day or by night, and may similarly authorize any excise officer to enter and inspect at all times, by day, the shop or premises in which any licensed manufacturer or retail vendor shall carry on the manufacture of country spirits, or the sale of spirituous or fermented liquor or intoxicating drugs.

34. The Collector, by a warrant under his hand, may authorize any excise officer to stop and detain all persons carrying any spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs liable to confiscation under this Part; and any excise officer so authorized may seize such liquors or drugs with the vessels, packages, or coverings in which they are contained, and the animals and conveyances used in carrying them, and may also arrest the person in whose possession such liquors or drugs are found.

35. Any excise officer above the rank of a peon may arrest any person having in his possession an unlicensed still, or any spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs liable to confiscation under this Part, or engaged in the unlawful sale of spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs, and may seize such still with the materials for working it, and all such liquors and drugs.

36. Whenever any excise officer above the rank of a peon shall have good reason to believe, from information given by any person, which information shall be taken down in writing, that spirits are unlawfully manufactured, or that any spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs liable to confiscation under this Part are kept or concealed in any house, boat, or other place, such officer may, but always in the presence of an officer of police not being under the grade of a head constable, enter into any such house, boat, or place, and in case of resistance may break open any door and force and remove any other obstacle to such entry, and may seize and carry away all stills and materials used in the manufacture of such spirits and all such liquors and drugs, and may also arrest the occupier of the house, boat, or place with all other persons concerned in the manufacture of such spirits, or in the keeping and concealing of such liquors or drugs.

37. The Local Government may invest the officers of the Police, Customs, and Revenue Departments, or of any of them, with the powers given to excise officers by the last three preceding sections with respect to the seizure of and search for spirituous and fermented liquors and intoxicating drugs, and the arrest of persons found in possession of them; and all such officers when so empowered shall be held and deemed to be excise officers within the meaning of this Part.

38. Whenever an excise officer shall make any arrest, seizure, or search under this Part, he shall, within twenty-four hours thereafter, make a full report of all the particulars of the same to his official superior, and, unless acting under the warrant of the Collector, shall carry the person arrested, or the illicit article seized, with all convenient despatch to a Magistrate for trial or adjudication.

39. The Collector may issue his warrant for the arrest of any person whom he may have reason to believe, either from information in writing or from the proceedings in any other case, to be engaged in the unlawful sale of spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs or to have in his possession any such liquors or drugs liable to confiscation under this Part.

40. Any spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs sold in contravention of the provisions of this Part, or in breach of any of the conditions of a license granted under this Act, may be seized at the time of the sale and brought before the Magistrate who adjudicates the case. As soon as the case is adjudicated, they shall be restored to the person who may have purchased them or disposed of as the Magistrate may direct.

41. The Collector may issue his warrant for the search of any house, boat, or other place in which, upon any of the grounds mentioned in section 39, he may have reason to believe that spirits are unlawfully manufactured, or that spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs liable to confiscation under this Part are kept or concealed; and such warrant may be executed by any officer not being under the rank of a head constable in the manner prescribed in section 36: provided that where there is ground to suspect that such spirits, liquors, or drugs are unlawfully concealed in any zenana, the officer charged with the execution of the warrant shall follow as closely as may be the rules for the seizure of property so concealed contained in sections 384, 385, and 386 of Act X of 1872 (the Code of Criminal Procedure).

42. Whenever any person is arrested or any articles are seized under the warrant of a Collector, the Collector, after such inquiry as he thinks necessary, shall send the person arrested or the articles seized to a Magistrate, or shall order the immediate discharge of such person or the release of such articles.

43. All police officers are required to aid the excise officers in the due execution of this Part upon notice given or request made by such officers.

Farm of Duties.

44. The Collector may, with the sanction of the Board, and under such rules as the Local Government may prescribe, subject to the confirmation of the Governor-General in Council, let in farm the duties leviable on the retail sale of spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs, or any description of such liquors or drugs, in any pergunnah or other known division of a district.

Penalties.

45. Every person who by any act or omission shall contravene any rule issued and sanctioned under the provisions of section 31 shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees.

46. 47. Every licensed retail vendor who shall sell any larger quantity of spirituous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs than is allowed to be sold by retail by the provisions of this Part, and every licensed wholesale vendor who shall make a retail sale, shall be liable

Provided that if any confiscated articles shall have been sold or may be sold by the Collector for a price which includes the duty leviable on the said article, such amount as the Collector may determine to represent such duty shall be deducted from the sale proceeds and credited to Government, and the remainder only of the price realized by the sale shall be deemed to be sale proceeds to be distributed under the order of the said Magistrate.

116. The Board may, either before or after the adjudication of the case, grant such reasonable reward, not exceeding two hundred rupees, as to them may seem fit, and may direct the same to be divided in such proportions as they may think fit between any persons (whether they be excise or police officers or otherwise) who were instrumental in the detection of the offence, the seizure of the articles in respect of which the offence was committed, or the capture of the offender; and any sum which may have been so paid to any person before the adjudication of the case may be taken into account as a part of the whole of the payment which may be awarded by a Magistrate to such person under the last preceding section.

Section 3 has been added to supply an accidental omission in the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, recently brought to notice by the Board of Trade, and owing to which a question has been raised as to whether, in certain cases, the certificate of a master, mate or engineer could be cancelled or suspended on proof of a wrongful act or default by him causing the loss or abandonment of, or serious damage to, a ship, or loss of life.

Section 4 has been added with a view to supplying a power (the want of which has recently been felt) to direct enquiry into casualties to foreign vessels occurring on the coasts of British India, and section 5 has been added at the suggestion of certain members of the mercantile community in Bombay, to compel persons recovering bales of goods, ships' stores and other property, which may have fallen overboard or otherwise got adrift in a port, to deliver up such property to the Conservator, and to regulate the right to salvage, about which it is said disputes sometimes occur.

And whereas it is also expedient to amend the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and the Indian Ports Act, 1875, in manner hereinafter appearing;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time by notification in the Gazette of India, authorize, either generally or specially, such persons as he thinks fit to sue for and recover, in manner in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, provided, any wages or expenses recoverable under the said sections of the said Acts in cases where such wages and expenses are, under the same sections, a charge upon any ship, or recoverable from any master, owner or other person, within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India.

Every person so authorized shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly in any such Court, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause 7.

2. All suits and proceedings under section one shall be instituted and carried on in the name of the Secretary of State for India in Council.

3. In sections 6, 7, 9 and 17 of the said Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, the word "misconduct" shall be deemed to include, besides drunkenness, tyranny and other similar misconduct, any wrongful act or default causing the loss or abandonment of, or serious damage to, any ship, or loss of life.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to give power to cancel or suspend any certificate granted by the Board of Trade and held by the master, mate or engineer of any ship belonging to the subject of any foreign Prince or State.

Amendment of chapter V of Act XII of 1875.

5. For chapter V of the Indian Ports Act, 1875, the following shall be substituted (namely)—

"CHAPTER V.—Of Salvage in Ports.

"If any such property is so recovered by any other person not entitled thereto nor authorized by the person so entitled to recover the same, he shall, without unnecessary delay, deliver the same to the Conservator, or to such other officer as the Local Government may appoint in this behalf, and shall be entitled to receive a reasonable sum as aforesaid in respect of the same.

"44. If the property recovered under the last preceding section, or by a Conservator acting under section fifteen, is unclaimed,

"or if the person claiming the same fails to pay the amount due to the Local Government, or to the finder of such property, in respect thereof,

"such property may be sold by public auction, if of a perishable nature, forthwith; and if not of a perishable nature, at any period not less than six months after the recovery thereof;

"and on the realization of the proceeds, the amount due to the Local Government, or to the finder of such property, for salvage, or for the expenses incurred under section fifteen, shall be deducted therefrom, and credited to the Local Government, or paid to such finder, as the case may be, and the balance shall be paid to the person entitled to the property recovered, or, if no such person appear and claim the same, shall be held in deposit for payment, without interest, to any person thereafter establishing his right to the same:

OBSERVATIONS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA ON THE BENGAL SANITARY REPORT FOR 1876.

No. 22, dated Fort William, the 28th January 1878.

From—JAMES O'KINEALY, Esq., Offg. Secy. to the Govt. India, Home Dept.,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Dept.

I AM directed to acknowledge your endorsement No. 2565, dated 15th August 1877, forwarding the report of the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal for the year 1876.

2. In reply, I am to remark that His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor has so fully reviewed and discussed the more important points in this report, that but little remains to be said by the Government of India. The Governor General in Council is glad to observe that it has been decided to abandon the system of selected areas, and that efforts will in future be directed to effecting improvement in the registration of vital statistics generally throughout the province. It is true that the collection of these statistics in Bengal is encompassed by even greater difficulties than are found to exist in other provinces, but the improvement displayed in the statistics of the year under review affords ground for hoping that eventually they may be brought to yield more valuable results than has hitherto been the case.

3. The statistics of the province do not yet afford the means of estimating with any accuracy the rate of mortality among the population, or the extent to which sickness and mortality have prevailed in different years, except perhaps in the case of cholera and small-pox. With regard to the former, it is observed that the number of deaths registered in 1876 was nearly double the number of the previous year. This greater mortality was to some extent due to the aggravated epidemic which ensued upon the general contamination of the water-supply in those districts which were inundated by the cyclone-wave in the end of October. But the epidemic was not confined to the inundated districts, or to those bordering on them, and the districts of Darjeeling, Chutia Nagpur, and also Behar all suffered more severely than in the previous year.

4. With regard to small-pox, it is observed that, although not very generally prevalent during the year, severe outbreaks occurred in several localities, in the majority of which, the Sanitary Commissioner remarks, the Act prohibiting inoculation is not in operation. The fever which in previous years occasioned such great mortality in several districts of Bengal appears to have generally subsided; but in many localities the malarial fever of the autumn months still exhibits a tendency to assume a low and fatal form—a fact apparently due to the want of proper conservancy arrangements and to foul water. Bowel-complaints appear to prevail to the greatest extent among the population of Orissa, and it is noteworthy that this fact is observed in the case of the population of the same race inhabiting the Sambalpur district of the Central Provinces.

5. In conclusion, I am to convey to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor the acknowledgments of the Government of India for the complete manner in which he has reviewed the report, which, although somewhat diffuse, has been ably drawn up by Dr. Coates, and reflects credit upon that officer.

PRACTICAL TRAINING TO THE STUDENTS OF THE CIVIL ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT OF THE PRESIDENCY COLLEGE.

No. 161 E.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in the Public Works Department (Establishment) under date the 30th January 1878.

Read Resolution of the General (Education) Department of this Government, No. 43 of the 4th January 1878, on the general report on public instruction for the year 1876-77.

RESOLUTION.—For some years past the necessity of giving practical training to the students of the Civil Engineering Department of the Presidency College has been admitted, and has been discussed by the Governments of India and of Bengal. The subject of technical education has of late received additional attention from the Government of Bengal. Not only have there been the College students to consider, but a portion of the native community has shewn an unmistakeable desire to obtain the means of acquiring practical instruction and knowledge of Engineering and mechanics.

2. A system of giving to natives a certain amount of technical instruction in the forge, carpenter's shop and brick-yard has, for nearly two years past, been established under the supervision of the Department of Public Works. The workshops of the 1st Calcutta Division and the Akra brick-yard have been used for this purpose, and a number of young men have commenced their training as practical Engineers under the instruction of officers specially selected for this duty. At first the instruction was confined to passed students of the Civil Engineering Department of the Presidency College who held scholarships for the purpose; but latterly a considerable number of passed students, who were not scholarship-holders, have asked and obtained permission to join the departmental workshops for instruction in various branches of work at their own expense. Both the stipendiary and non-stipendiary students have taken up their duties in the workshops with considerable earnestness, acquiring practical training by working with their own hands.

3. Hitherto the small existing workshop of the Department of Public Works has been provisionally used as a means of helping on an important end, which circumstances did not allow to be taken up in a more effective manner. But the Lieutenant-Governor has lately determined to establish technical scholarships in various parts of the country in connexion with certain selected schools, and to establish the means of affording thorough technical training to a certain number of those young men who desire to adopt one of the branches of Engineering as a profession.

4. The instruction hitherto given has been purely provisional and tentative, but it has established two facts, first, that there is a demand for instruction of this description; and secondly, that young natives of good family and position are perfectly willing to work with their hands, and receive instruction precisely as European apprentices would. The necessity of providing for the middle classes the means of adopting some career and some calling in life more calculated to meet their ambition than the limited range of employment now open to them, is daily becoming more thoroughly recognized both by Government and native society. It is impossible, however, to establish any great number of technical schools throughout the country, and they must be so situated that they shall be in connection with some workshops entrusted with real work to do, having a good stock of machinery and appliances, and a staff of able and expensive instructors. The attempts to establish independent technical schools have broken down from the impossibility of giving them a practical shape where they are not in connection with good independent workshops. The Lieutenant-Governor has therefore determined to establish technical scholarships in connection with selected schools, such scholarships will be held at technical schools established in connection with Government workshops.

5. Two centres will be sufficient for this purpose at present, though possibly a few scholarships may eventually be attached to Railway workshops either of the State Railways, or of the Guaranteed lines in the event of the Directors and Agents of those lines being willing to receive apprentices. One centre has already been established at Dehree in Behar, where a number of young men have been trained, and on completion of their training have readily found employment in various parts of the country. Measures have been taken to expand this centre and make it available for larger numbers. The other centre should be in Calcutta, and to attain its object it should be constituted on a well considered basis. The necessity for constructing new workshops at the Presidency makes it a convenient time to take up the subject with reference to their situation and size.

6. The Lieutenant-Governor has accordingly appointed the following gentlemen to form a Committee for the propose of considering and reporting what measures are necessary or desirable to establish a practical training institution for Engineers, taking as a nucleus the workshops and manufactories of the Public Works Department at the Presidency, and on what scale the establishment should be formed:—

Major-General J. E. T. Nicolls, R. E.	...	President.
The Hon'ble H. J. Reynolds, Esq., C. S.	...	} Members.
A. W. Croft, Esq.	...
Colonel F. T. Haig, R. E.	...
T. S. Isaac, Esq.	...
Baboo Bhudeb Chunder Mookerjee	...

7. The Lieutenant-Governor has reason to hope that a benevolent native nobleman much interested in the development of fresh spheres of action for his countrymen in the upper and middle classes, will erect a college for the accommodation of Mofussil students in connection with the institution as soon as it is established. Others would no doubt follow his example, and probably many local scholarships would be established by local beneficence in the various districts of Bengal. The Lieutenant-Governor also hopes to be able to establish scholarships for European and Eurasian lads in connection with these schools, and separate barracks would have to be built for them. In selecting a site therefore for the new workshop, the possibility of its largely increasing its scope and number of pupils should be borne in mind.

8. The Committee should also consider whether it would be desirable to remove the Civil Engineering Branch of the Presidency College to the neighbourhood of the practical training school, so as to work the two together as one institution for giving a complete technical education and training for Engineers.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded for the information and guidance of the President and each Member of the Committee.

Ordered also that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Educational and Financial Departments of this Government for information.

Ordered also that a copy of this Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette for general information.

By Order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

J. E. T. NICOLLS, Major-General, R. E.,

	2 Bankoora, " 2 "	0.95	In the beginning of the week the weather grew warmer; in the last half it was cloudy and rainy. The crops are advancing well, the rain having revived them considerably.
	3 Beerbhoom, " 2 "	0.29	Weather—seasonable. State and prospects of the crops are good.
	4 Midnapore " 2 "	0.11	Weather—growing rapidly warmer. Prospects of the crops are fair.
	5 Hooghly, " 2 "	0.19	Weather—cloudy, with drizzling rain on the 30th January and 1st February; warm in the first part of the week, but cool since the 30th January. Pulses and winter crops are doing well. Public health is normal. Cattle disease has broken out in the Dhaneshally station.
PRESIDENCY DIV.	Howrah, " 4 "	0.06	Weather—getting warmer. The rice harvest is complete. The planting of boro dhan is progressing. Sugarcane is being cut; the yield is good.
	Central Districts
	6 24-Pargunnahs, Feb. 2 '78	0.08	The first part of the week was warm, but latterly the weather was cold and cloudy. State and prospects of the crops are good. Cholera and fever are abating.
	7 Nuddea, " 2 "	0.09	The weather has been unseasonably hot, but rain has somewhat cooled the air. The crops have in most parts been stunted through drought, but on the whole the outturn is not likely to be bad. Rice is very dear.
	8 Jessore, " 2 "	0.12	Weather—fine. Friday (February 1st) was cloudy, and in the afternoon a drizzling rain fell. The winter crops are reported good throughout the district, except in Bagirhat. A little more rain would do good.
RASSAHAT AND COCH BEHAR DIV.	9 Moorshedabad, " 2 "	0.20	Weather—cloudy during the week. Fine and seasonable on the 2nd instant. The prospects of the rubber crops are generally favourable. Cholera is still prevalent in Burwa, Bharatpore, Rampore Hat and Raghunathgunge.
	10 Dinagepore, " 1 "	0.50	The rain has been general. The land is being broken up for the bhadoi crops, and the fall of rain is very seasonable for them. It has injured the mangroves.
	11 Rajshahye " 2 "	Nil	In the beginning of the week the weather was warm, after which there was a very slight fall of rain in almost all parts of the district; during the latter part it has been cold. The cutting of the winter rice is nearly finished. The prospects of the rubber crops are good. A few cases of cholera have been reported from Singra and Lalpore.
	12 Rangpore, " 1 "	0.03 Bagdo- gra 0.37	Slight rain fell in parts of the district. The cold-weather crops are doing well. Ploughing for amun sowings has commenced.
	13 Bogra, " 2 "	0.16	Weather—cloudy during the first part of the week, but now clear and seasonable. There was a small fall of rain. Nearly the whole of the amun paddy and mustard have been gathered. The cutting of sugarcane has commenced. There is still some cholera in Adaulighi and Dhoopchanchia.
	14 Pubna, " 2 "	0.04	Weather—cool and occasionally cloudy. The harvesting of kulhi and sugarcane is still going on. The prospects of amun dhan appear to be good. Fever has not as yet disappeared from the Pubna town.
	15 Dargjeeling, " 1 "	0.30	Weather—very cold and misty. There are no crops of importance on the ground. The minor crops are doing well.
	16 Jalpigoree, " 2 "	0.13	Weather—seasonable. Prospects of winter crops are good. Land is being prepared for bhadoi rice.
COCH BEHAR DIV.	Cooch Behar, Jan. 31 "	0.09 Dinbatta 0.14 Meckli- gunge a few drops on 27th Jan.	Weather—warmer than last week. The sky was cloudy for two or three days, but is now clear again. There was a slight shower of rain in some places on the 27th, and in others on the 28th January. Prospects of the tobacco and other cold-weather crops on the ground are fairly good; they would have been better if a little more rain had fallen. In some places within the jurisdiction of the Meckligunge sub-division the mustard-seed crop is reported to have been injured by small insects. New rice is selling in the Cooch Behar Bazar at Rs. 3 2 per maund. This is a very high price for the season of the year, especially as the reaping of kaimasi dhan was finished only a few days ago. Fever has almost disappeared, and there has been a change for the better in the state of public health.

No.	District, and date of return.	Rainfall at Sadler Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.

	34 Purneah, „ 2 „	0.09 Arrareah 0.19	Weather—cold and cloudy. There has been heavy rain in some parts of the district which will benefit the wheat. Mustard is being reaped; the crop is fair.
	35 Maldah, „ 2 „	1.42	Heavy rain on the night of the 27th January; otherwise weather fair. State and prospects of the crops are satisfactory. Fever is reported to be decidedly less.
	36 Sonthal Pergah, „ 3 „	Nil	Clouds and drizzle and promise of rain off and on for the last fortnight, with showers in odd places. The rubbee crops are good in most places, and are best in Godda and Rajmahal. With bad cultivation there is a great deal of very good mustard, and some flax and gram. The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.; the maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard (Newman's No. 86) formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction and movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

PART V.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 13th February 1878, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT NO. VI OF 1878.

An Act to amend the law relating to Treasure-Trove.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to treasure-trove; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

Preliminary.

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Treasure Trove Act, 1878."

Short title.

It extends to the whole of British India;

Extent.

And it shall come into force at once.

Commencement.

2. The enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the same schedule.

3. In this Act—

Interpretation-clause.

"treasure" means anything of any value hidden in the soil, or in anything affixed thereto :

"Treasure."

"Collector" means (1) any revenue officer in independent charge of a district, and (2) any officer appointed by the Local Government to perform the functions of a Collector under this Act.

"Collector."

When any person is entitled, under any reservation in an instrument of transfer of any land or thing affixed thereto, to treasure in such land or thing, he shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the owner of such land or thing.

Owner

Procedure on finding Treasure.

4. Whenever any treasure exceeding in amount or value ten rupees is found, the finder shall, as soon as practicable, give to the Collector notice in writing—

Notice by finder of treasure.

(a) of the nature and amount or approximate value of such treasure ;

(b) of the place in which it was found ;

(c) of the date of the finding ;

and either deposit the treasure in the nearest Government Treasury, or give the Collector such security as the Collector thinks fit, to produce the treasure at such time and place as he may from time to time require.

5. On receiving a notice under section four, the Collector shall, after making such enquiry (if any) as he thinks fit, take the following steps (namely) :—

Notification requiring claimants to appear.

(a) he shall publish a notification in such manner as the Local Government from time to time prescribes in this behalf, to the effect that, on a certain date (mentioning it), certain treasure (mentioning its nature, amount and approximate value) was found in a certain place (mentioning it); and requiring all persons claiming the treasure, or any part thereof, to appear personally or by agent before the Collector on a day and at a place therein mentioned, such day not being earlier than four months, or later than six months, after the date of the publication of such notification;

(4) when the place in which the treasure appears to the Collector to have been found was at the date of the finding in the possession of some person other than the finder, the Collector shall also serve on such person a special notice in writing to the same effect.

6. Any person having any right to such treasure or any part thereof, as owner of the place in which it was found or otherwise, and not appearing as required by the notification issued under section five, shall forfeit such right.

7. On the day notified under section five, the Collector shall cause the treasure to be produced before him, and shall enquire as to and determine—

(a) the person by whom, the place in which, and the circumstances under which, such treasure was found; and

(b) as far as is possible the person by whom, and the circumstances under which, such treasure was hidden.

8. If, upon an enquiry made under section seven, the Collector sees reason to believe that the treasure was hidden within one hundred years before the date of the finding, by a person appearing as required by the said notification and claiming such treasure, or by some other person under whom such person claims, the Collector shall make an order adjourning the hearing of the case for such period as he deems sufficient, to allow of a suit being instituted in the Civil Court by the claimant, to establish his right.

9. If upon such enquiry the Collector sees no reason to believe that the treasure was so hidden; or if, where a period is fixed under section eight, no suit is instituted as aforesaid within such period to the knowledge of the Collector; or if such suit is instituted within such period, and the plaintiff's claim is finally rejected;

the Collector may declare the treasure to be ownerless.

Any person aggrieved by a declaration made under this section may appeal against such declaration, within two months from the date thereof to the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority.

Subject to such appeal, every such declaration shall be final and conclusive.

10. When a declaration has been made in respect of any treasure under section nine, such treasure shall, in accordance with the provisions hereinafter contained, either be delivered to the finder thereof, or be divided between him and the owner of the place in which it has been found in manner hereinafter provided.

11. When a declaration has been made in respect of any treasure as aforesaid, and no person other than the finder of such treasure has appeared as required by the notification published under section five and claimed a share of the treasure as owner of the place in which it has been found, the Collector shall deliver such treasure to the finder thereof.

12. When a declaration has been made as aforesaid in respect of any treasure, and only one person other than the finder of such treasure has so appeared and claimed, and the claim of such person is not disputed by the finder, the Collector shall proceed to divide the treasure between the finder and the person so claiming according to the following rule (namely):—

If the finder and the person so claiming have not entered into any agreement then in force as to the disposal of the treasure, three-fourths of the treasure shall be allotted to such finder and the residue to such person. If such finder and such person have entered into any such agreement, the treasure shall be disposed of in accordance therewith:

Provided that the Collector may in any case, if he thinks fit, instead of dividing any treasure as directed by this section,

(a) allot to either party the whole or more than his share of such treasure, on such party paying to the Collector for the other party such sum of money as the Collector may fix as the equivalent of the share of such other party, or of the excess so allotted, as the case may be; or

Provided also, that when the Collector has by his declaration under section nine rejected any claim made under this Act by any person other than the said finder or person claiming as owner of the place in which the treasure was found, such division shall not be made until after the expiration of two months without an appeal having been presented under section nine by the person whose claim has been so rejected, or, when an appeal has been so presented, after such appeal has been dismissed.

When the Collector has made a division under this section, he shall deliver to the parties the portions of such treasure, or the money in lieu thereof, to which they are respectively entitled under such division.

13. When a declaration has been made as aforesaid in respect of any treasure, and two or more persons have appeared as aforesaid and each of them claimed as owner of the place where such treasure was found, or the right of any person who has so appeared and claimed is disputed by the finder of such treasure, the Collector shall retain such treasure and shall make an order staying his proceedings with a view to the matter being enquired into and determined by a Civil Court.

14. Any person who has so appeared and claimed Settlement of such dispute, may, within one month from the date of such order, institute a suit in the Civil Court to obtain a decree declaring his right; and in every such suit the finder of the treasure and all persons disputing such claim before the Collector shall be made defendants.

15. If any such suit is instituted and the plaintiff's claim is finally established therein, the Collector shall, subject to the provisions of section twelve, divide the treasure between him and the finder.

If no such suit is instituted as aforesaid, or if the claims of the plaintiffs in all such suits are finally rejected, the Collector shall deliver the treasure to the finder.

16. The Collector may, at any time after making a declaration under section nine, and before delivering or dividing the treasure as hereinbefore provided, declare by writing under his hand his intention to acquire on behalf of the Government the treasure, or any specified portion thereof, by payment to the persons entitled thereto of a sum equal to the value of the materials of such treasure or portion, together with one-fifth of such value, and may place such sum in deposit in his treasury to the credit of such persons; and thereupon such treasure or portion shall be deemed to be the property of Government, and the money so deposited shall be dealt with, as far as may be, as if it were such treasure or portion.

17. No decision passed or act done by the Collector under this Act shall be called in question by any Civil Court, and no suit or other proceeding shall lie against him for anything done in good faith in exercise of the powers hereby conferred.

18. A Collector making any enquiry under this Act may exercise any power conferred by the Code of Civil Procedure on a Civil Court for the trial of suits.

19. The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act, to regulate proceedings hereunder.

Such rules shall, on being published in the local Gazette, have the force of law.

Penalties.

20. If the finder of any treasure fails to give the notice, or does not either make the deposit or give the security, required by section four, or alters or attempts to alter such treasure so as to conceal its identity, the share of such treasure, or the money in lieu thereof to which he would otherwise be entitled, shall vest in Her Majesty, and he shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

20. If the owner of the place in which any treasure is found abets, with- in the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, any offence under section nineteen, the share of such treasure, or the money in lieu thereof to which he would otherwise be entitled, shall vest in Her Majesty, and he shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punished with imprisonment which may extend to six months, or with fine, or with both.

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

3. We have here followed the Contract Act, section 1, by inserting a clause to save all enactments not expressly repealed, such, for instance, as the Acts limiting powers of guardians and managers to make sales and leases, and the provisions of the Panjáb Tenancy Act, section 32, which have been held to restrict to occupancy-tenants the right to sublet. We have also

2. In revising this important measure we have been guided by the three principles which the Government of India desires to regulate its policy of codification, namely, first, that as little change as possible should be made in the substance of the existing law, whether established by the Legislature or declared by judicial decisions: secondly, that no additions should be made to that law, which are not either necessary or clearly expedient, and, thirdly, that interference with contracts fairly made and usages long established is, prima facie, undesirable. We have also borne in mind the great deference due to the late Indian Law Commission, by which the bulk of the Bill was framed. With these preliminary remarks we proceed to describe and justify the alterations, omissions and additions which we have made.

saved all incidents of contracts not inconsistent with the provisions of the Bill. Besides the Malabar mortgagee's option, which the Bill as introduced expressly preserved, there must be many other incidents of Native contracts with which it is desirable not to interfere. We have also saved the right to anything affixed to the soil by tenants under leases granted before the proposed Act comes into force.

CHAPTER II.—Assurances of Immovable Property.

4. We have struck out the section relating to easements, as it will more fitly come into the Bill relating to those rights, which is now in preparation.

5. Section 6 of the Bill as introduced would have often rendered persons liable to an obligation, or at least to be sued on an obligation, the existence of which was unknown to them. We think that this is obviously inexpedient, and have therefore made the section an embodiment of the well-known rule, that a contract between the respective owners of two neighbouring parcels of land, that one of them shall do or refrain from doing something on his parcel for the benefit of the other parcel, may be enforced in equity against all persons claiming the former parcel under him with notice of the contract.

6. We think that section 7 of the Bill, as introduced, should be omitted, as it would allow incidents of a novel kind to be devised and attached to property at the fancy or caprice of any owner. It would, moreover, allow the grantee's enjoyment of the property to be destroyed or materially lessened by the exercise of the right reserved.

7. We have also struck out section 9 of the Bill as introduced. The rules of construction therein referred to, besides being inapplicable in some respects to instruments executed inter vivos, are contained in the testamentary portion of the Succession Act, which does not apply to Muhammadans anywhere, and applies to Hindus only in the Presidency-towns and the Lower Provinces.

8. We have provided (section 7) rules as to the right of innocent grantees for valuable consideration without notice, of persons like the managers of the property of a minor or an undivided family, childless Hindú widows in possession of their deceased husband's property, and benámidars and other ostensible owners, who have only a restricted power of alienation. Our rules on this head are in accordance with decisions of the Privy Council and the Calcutta High Court.

9. We have redrawn section 13 of the Bill as introduced, so as to save the rights of the creditors of the person paying the consideration for a benámi transaction, and as the section will apply to benámi leases as well as to benámi sales, we have transferred it to chapter II.

CHAPTER III.—Sales.

10. We have declared (section 10) the respective liabilities of an intending seller and an intending buyer to make disclosures of defects and advantages.

11. We have introduced into section 11 clauses as to the seller's duty to produce title-deeds for examination, to answer questions respecting the property and to discharge incumbrances; as to the buyer's right to abandon the contract when the seller materially alters the property; and as to the custody and production of title-deeds after completion. We have also declared when the property vests in the purchaser, and explained when the purchase is completed.

12. Clause (a) of section 11 of the Bill as introduced, would have rendered a vendor liable for damage sustained by the purchaser owing to the loss of his bargain, and it would have made a vendor, like a mortgagor, warrant his title as against all the world. We think that in this respect his liability should be restricted, as it is in England, to acts done by himself or those through whom he claims. Section 11, clause (j), has been framed accordingly.

13. Clauses (c) and (f) of the same section, as introduced, are corollaries from the doctrine of equitable ownership and appear to us to be inconsistent with section 12, which declares that a mere contract for sale shall not transfer the property. Why, for instance, should the buyer be made liable to bear loss arising from destruction of property which is not his own? We have therefore omitted these clauses. Under any circumstances they would have been of little use in a country where, as a rule, the making of the contract is immediately followed by the completion of the purchase.

14. We have provided (section 12) for cases where, before completion, the buyer becomes insolvent. This provision is modelled on the present English law, 32 & 33 Vic., c. 71, ss. 23, 24. We have also provided for the following matters:—

- (a) the liability to the seller of the buyer of a leasehold (section 13);
- (b) the liability to the seller of the buyer of an equity of redemption (section 14);
- (c) money received under a fire-policy by the seller for damage done after the date of the contract (section 15);
- (d) joint-purchases (section 17);
- (e) the rights arising where two estates are subject to a common charge and one of the estates is sold (section 18);
- (f) the exemption of bona fide buyers of trust-property from seeing to the application of the purchase-money (section 19);
- (g) the rights of the seller where there is default on the part of the buyer and the rights of the buyer where there is default on the part of the seller (section 20).

CHAPTER IV.—Exchanges.

15. In this chapter, which corresponds with chapter V of the Bill as introduced, we have made no substantial change except the insertion of a section (22), providing (in accordance with the Code Civil, Art. 1704) that if one of the parties prove that the other was not owner of the thing given or agreed to be given to the former in exchange, the former cannot be compelled to deliver that which he has promised in counter-exchange; but when he has received the thing given to him in exchange, he may be compelled to return it.

16. We have also provided, in accordance with the same Code, Art. 1705, that the party deprived of the thing he has received in exchange by reason of invalidity of title caused by anything done by the other party or any person through whom the latter claims, may at his option sue for compensation or sue for the thing given by him.

CHAPTER V.—Mortgages and Charges.

17. We have made it clear that the mortgages here dealt with are only mortgages of immovable property and sub-mortgages. Mortgages of policies, ships, machinery, furniture, cattle and other moveable property require to be separately treated.

18. We have inserted a section (26) requiring that every mortgage shall be created by an assurance signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses. As mortgages by verbal agreement are now rarely if ever made, this will not substantially alter the present practice, and will obviously tend to prevent fraud and litigation.

19. The Bill as introduced permits the mortgagor to deposit the amount due only in the District Court. This might lead to much inconvenience, and we have modified section 28, clause (6), so as to allow the mortgagor to deposit in any Court in which he could have instituted a suit for redemption.

20. We have, in accordance with the present law, precluded (section 28) a person interested in part only of the mortgaged property from redeeming his own part only, and a person interested in part only of the mortgage-money from foreclosing his own part only.

21. We have given (section 29) the mortgagee the rights which he has under the covenants for title contained in an English mortgage-deed. When the mortgagee has a right to sue for the mortgage-money, these covenants are of no practical use during the continuance of the mortgage; but they become valuable after a foreclosure or sale.

22. We have declared (section 30) that, where the property is a lease for years and the mortgagee, while in possession, obtains a renewal, the mortgagor upon redemption shall have the benefit of the new lease.

23. We have imposed (section 32) on a mortgagor making a subsequent mortgage the duty of disclosing to the subsequent mortgagee the previous mortgages, and of giving notice to the prior mortgagees of the subsequent mortgage.

24. Although from the theoretical point of view there is much to be said in favour of discarding the distinctions between the various kinds of mortgages used in India, we think that the amount of simplicity gained would not justify the amount of disturbance created, and that, in practice, confusion and hardship would be caused if simple mortgages and mortgagees by conditional sale were allowed (as they would be by the Bill as introduced) to take possession, or if simple and usufructuary mortgages were allowed to foreclose. Moreover, any such extension of the power to foreclose would enable large classes of speculators and money-lenders to defeat the intentions with which the Legislature framed the new Code of Civil Procedure, sections 320—322, by obtaining simple mortgages and then instituting foreclosure-suits. We have therefore introduced (section 34) a clause the effect of which will be to maintain the law as it stands in this respect.

25. We have also (section 34) prohibited mortgagees from interfering with the right of the public to the continued use of undertakings, such as canals and railways, in the maintenance of which the public are interested. The remedy of such mortgagees will be to obtain a receiver of the profits of the undertaking.

26. We have provided (section 36) for the case where the parties to a mortgage have omitted to stipulate expressly for interest.

27. We are of opinion that, in the absence of an express contract to the contrary, no mortgagee should be entitled as such to take possession, and we have inserted (section 37) a clause to this effect. We have, however, allowed the mortgagee to sue for a receiver after the expiration of one year from the time when the principal has become payable, or after interest has been in arrear for six months; and we have empowered the Court, in any suit for foreclosure or sale, to appoint a receiver pending the proceedings in the suit.

28. We think that the mortgagee should be allowed to sue for the mortgage-money in four cases only, namely, (1) where the mortgagor binds himself expressly to pay the loan, (2) where the mortgagor remains in possession and allows the property to be sold for arrears of revenue, (3) where the property is destroyed by diluvion, fire or other superior force, and (4) in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, where the mortgagor is unable to give or secure possession. We have inserted a section (38) to this effect.

29. We have considered the question as to whether we should validate powers of sale in mortgages of property situate in the Mufassal, and we have come to the same conclusion as the late Sadr Diwani Adalat came to in 1842, namely, that it would not be safe to entrust Indian money-lenders with powers so liable to abuse. We have therefore framed the section (39) corresponding with section 24 of the Bill as introduced, so as to invalidate such powers except where the lender is the Government, or the property is situate in the Presidency Towns or Rangoon.

30. We have limited (section 40) the right of a mortgagee in possession to insure to cases in which the property is insurable at ordinary rates. In the case of an inflammable property, the mortgagee might, under the Bill as introduced, impose an unfair burden on the mortgagor.

31. We have provided (section 41) for accessions to the mortgaged property.

32. We have framed the section (43) corresponding with section 17 of the Bill as introduced, so as to exempt mortgagees who, under a contract in writing, take the profits of the mortgaged property in lieu of interest, from keeping accounts of their receipts.

33. Where a mortgagor in possession fails to pay arrears of revenue and the estate is consequently sold, our Courts have ruled that the mortgagee has a charge on the surplus of the sale-proceeds after payment thereof of such arrears. We have in section 45 adopted this ruling.

34. The Bill as introduced had nothing to shew that Lord Denman's doctrine in Pickard v. Sears applies to mortgages. We have therefore inserted the following:—

“46. Where, through the fraud or gross neglect of a prior mortgagee, another person has been induced to advance money on the security of the mortgaged property, the prior mortgagee shall be postponed to the subsequent mortgagee.”

35. The Bill should, we think, embody the equitable principles that a creditor who can satisfy his debt out of several funds shall so exercise his right as not to take from another creditor the fund which forms his only security, and that a fund which is equally liable with another to pay a debt shall not escape because the creditor has been paid out of that other fund alone. We have therefore inserted sections (50, 51) as to what English lawyers call marshalling securities and contribution.

36. Though the matter is one rather of procedure than of substantive law, we have inserted a rule (section 52) as to the proper parties to suits for redemption, foreclosure or sale, which will save the right of subsequent incumbrancers to redeem, and, if a decree for sale is made, conclude them.

37. We have provided (sections 54 and 60) that in suits for foreclosure and redemption, upon good cause shown, the time fixed by the Court for payment may be enlarged. We believe that this power (which is constantly exercised by Courts of equity) will be in accordance with the feelings of the people of many parts of India where, until recently, the power to redeem was held to last for ever, and even the long term of sixty years fixed by the Limitation Act is sometimes regarded as an unfair innovation.

38. We have designedly withheld power to open foreclosures.

39. We have enumerated the persons entitled to redeem as follows:—

“58. Besides the mortgagor, any of the following persons may institute a suit for redemption of the mortgaged property:—

- (a) any person (other than the mortgagee) having any interest in or charge upon the property:
- (b) any person having any interest in or charge upon the right to redeem the property.
- (c) any surety for the payment of the mortgage-debt or any part thereof:
- (d) the guardian of the property of a minor mortgagor:
- (e) the committee or other legal curator of a lunatic or idiot mortgagor:
- (f) the judgment-creditor of the mortgagor, when he has obtained execution:
- (g) a creditor of the mortgagor who has in a suit for the administration of his estate obtained a decree for the sale of the mortgaged property.

Explanation.—An easement is not an interest within the meaning of clause (a).”

40. When property is mortgaged for successive debts to successive mortgagees, we have expressly authorised (section 62) any mesne mortgagee to institute a suit to redeem the prior mortgagees and to foreclose those that are posterior to himself. We have given in the third schedule a form of the decree passed in such a suit.

41. We think that as a person having a charge has a mere right of realization, he should not be allowed to foreclose, and should be only entitled, under the proposed Act, to institute a suit for the sale of the property charged. We have framed section 68 accordingly. We have introduced a section (69) providing for the merger of charges. But the section in its present form is not to be understood as representing our final opinion on the subject.

CHAPTER VI.—Leases.

42. We have prefixed to this chapter a section (70) declaring the respective duties of proposing lessors and lessees to make disclosures of defects and advantages.

43. As the law stands, both in England and, as a general rule, in India, there is no implied warranty on the letting of land or an unfurnished house that it is fit for cultivation or occupation; there is no implied obligation on the landlord to repair the premises, and, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, the tenant is bound to keep and leave them in repair; and the landlord does not warrant his title, but merely covenants that the tenant, by paying his rent and performing his covenants, may peaceably enjoy the property during the term without interruption by the landlord or any one claiming through him. We think that the Bill should, in these respects, accord with the law as above stated, and we have therefore struck out, in section 44, of the Bill as introduced the latter half of clause (b) and the whole of clause (f), and substituted for clauses (c) and (d) a clause providing for quiet enjoyment by the lessee. But there is no doubt that, in certain parts of India and with regard to certain classes of houses, usages have become established with regard to repairs, with which it is undesirable to interfere. We have, therefore, made our provisions as to liability to repair subject to local usage.

44. Where part of the property leased is destroyed by superior force, we think that the lease should become void as to that part, that any rent or fine payable under the lease should proportionately abate, and that a proportionate part of any fine paid by the lessee should be returned. If the lessor reinstate the part destroyed, he and the lessee can come to a new agreement. We have altered clause (i) in accordance with these views.

45. We think that no lessee should, without the lessor's consent, erect any permanent structure on the property, except for agricultural purposes, and we have made provision to that effect in section 71, clause (m). Under the Bill as introduced the tenant might have erected unsightly buildings on his holding and thereby seriously injured the landlord's contiguous property.

46. We have struck out the words authorising a lessee to remove fixtures after the termination of his lease. They might have prevented the lessor from letting the property to another at the end of the term.

47. We have declared (section 71, clause r) that the power of transfer conferred on a lessee shall not be deemed to authorise an occupancy-ryot to assign his interest. This is the law in Bengal, in the absence of a special custom: the saving clause in section 2 will leave unaffected the right of occupancy-tenants in the Panjáb.

48. We have provided (section 73) for the insolvency of the lessee, and enabled the receiver of his property, with the leave of the Court, to disclaim the property leased. This provision, like the similar clause in chapter III, is founded on 32 & 33 Vic., c. 71, sections 23, 24.

49. We have declared (section 74), in accordance with the present law, that a tenancy begins on entry, and that a lessee before entry cannot sue for trespass.

50. We have stated (section 76) the various ways in which a lease may be determined: we have explained (section 77) the law as to the waiver of forfeiture or a notice to quit; and we have provided by the same section for relief against forfeiture for non-payment of rent. Power to grant such relief has long been exercised by Courts of equity on payment of arrears and the landlord's costs, and a like power was, by 23 & 24 Vic., c. 126, conferred on the Common-law Courts. Act X of 1859, section 78, and Bengal Act VIII of 1869, section 52, provide for stay of execution of a decree for ejectment on payment into Court within fifteen days from its date, and we propose to leave this procedure untouched.

51. Strong representations have been made to us that, in the case of European and East Indian married women, restraints on anticipation should continue to be allowed. We have therefore added a proviso to section 82 (corresponding with section 52 of the Bill as introduced) which will have the desired effect.

52. We think that section 83 in its present state requires further consideration. But in deference to the Indian Law Commissioners we have let the section stand as they framed it.

53. We think sections 85 and 86 (corresponding with sections 55 and 56 of the Bill as introduced) should not apply to Natives; and we have made a provision to this effect.

CHAPTER VIII.—Discretion of the Courts to deal with settled Land.

54. We think that the delicate jurisdiction which this chapter proposes to confer should be exercisable only by the High Courts. We have altered the wording of section 88 accordingly.

55. We have recast section 90 (= section 68 of the Bill as introduced) so as to restrict the privilege of appearing, &c., to persons interested in the land and to persons permitted by the Court to appear.

CHAPTER IX.—Gifts for Religious and Charitable Purposes.

56. We have exempted Natives from the operation of this chapter, which would have interfered with their religious usages: we have confined it expressly to immoveable property; and we have provided that notice of the assurances contemplated shall be given to the Local Government.

CHAPTER X.—Owners of Limited Interests.

57. It is said that Hindú law allows the person increasing by his own exertions the value of an estate a larger share in the increase than he possesses in the corpus. We have therefore saved (section 99) in such cases any benefit to which the person making the increase is entitled under his personal law.

58. We have in the section (100) relating to the discovery of the deaths of tenants for life, taken care that the Court shall not be authorised to compel the appearance in public of pardah-women.

CHAPTER XI.—Powers.

59. We have here added rules declaratory of the present law, as to the following matters :—

- (a) the revocation of appointments (section 107):
- (b) the delegation of powers (section 108):
- (c) the application of the doctrine of election to appointments (section 120):
- (d) gifts by implication to the objects of powers (section 125):
- (e) the priority of interests created under powers (section 127):
- (f) the extinguishment of powers (section 128).

CHAPTER XII.—Property held by several Persons.

60. We have, at the request of our honourable colleague Mahārājā Jotindra Mohan Tagore, declared (section 130) that nothing in the clause authorising the Court in a suit for partition, to direct a sale and distribute the proceeds, shall apply to the property of an undivided family. But we have reason to believe that, in the Hindū community of Calcutta much difference of opinion exists as to the expediency of making such declaration, and we invite the especial attention of the Local Governments to this matter.

61. We have provided (section 134) that the buyer or mortgagee of a share of undivided immoveable property takes subject to the right of the co-owners to enforce a partition, and that, when such partition is effected, his right extends only to the share allotted to his transferor.

CHAPTER XIII.—Assignments of Things in Action.

62. When the debtor receives notice of the assignment, we have provided (section 137) that he shall give effect thereto unless he resides, or the property is situate, in a foreign country, and the title of the person in whose favour the assignment is made is not complete according to the law of such country.

The First Schedule.

63. We have added to the enactments proposed for repeal, 4 Wm. & Mary, c. 16, as to clandestine mortgages, a matter provided for by section 32 of the amended Bill, Act XXXI of 1854, section 17, which is embodied in section 19 of the amended Bill, and Act I of 1877, section 13, which is inconsistent with section 12 of the same Bill. We have also, by repealing the words 'in writing' in the Specific Relief Act, sections 85 and 86, rendered those sections applicable to oral contracts.

The Second Schedule.

64. We have added forms of an exchange and an English mortgage, and for the form of lease contained in the Bill as introduced, we have substituted forms of a lease of a dwelling-house and a farm.

65. We have now enumerated the changes which we have made in the substance of the Bill. We have also made some in its wording and arrangement.

66. We recommend that the Bill as now amended be republished with this report in the Gazette of India and sent to the several Local Governments for consideration and for republication in the local Gazettes. In order to give ample time for the further discussion of so important a measure, we think that no steps should be taken to pass it into law until the Council re-assembles next November.

67. We desire, in conclusion, to express our obligations to the gentlemen who have favoured us with criticisms on the Bill. We are especially indebted to the Honourable Raymond West, a Judge of the High Court of Bombay; Mr. Grant, Officiating Judicial Commissioner of the Central Provinces; Pandit Lakshmi Nārāyana of Lucknow; Mr. J. W. Smyth, a Judge of the Panjāb Chief Court, Muttusāmi Ayyar, c. 1. E., Acting Judge of the Court of Small Causes at Madras, and Srīnivāsa Rao, a Judge of the Court of Small Causes at Madras; and Mr. Stokes desires to acknowledge some valuable remarks privately communicated to him by Sir R. Garth.

A Bill to define and amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property, and for other purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to the transfer of property, to owners of limited interests, and to powers, property held by several persons and apportionment; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Transfer of Property Act, 1878:"

Short title.

Extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. And it shall come into force on the first day of January 1879.

2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the first schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof. But nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect—

(a) the provisions of any enactment not hereby expressly repealed:
 Saving of certain Acts, incidents, rights, liabilities, &c.

(b) any incidents of any contract which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act:

(c) any right or liability acquired or incurred before this Act comes into force, or any remedy in respect of any such right or liability:

(d) the right to anything affixed to the soil by the tenant under any lease granted before this Act comes into force:

(e) any right of pre-emption acquired after this Act comes into force:

(f) any sale in execution of a decree or order or for arrears of rent or revenue:

And nothing contained in sections 85 and 86 and Chapter IX shall apply to Hindús, Muhammdans or Buddhists.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

Interpretation-clause.
 "assurance" means any non-testamentary instrument which purports or operates to create, transfer, or otherwise dispose of, whether in present or in future, any right, title or interest, whether vested or contingent, to or in immoveable property:

the person so creating, transferring or otherwise disposing, is called a grantor

"grantor" or: the person in whose favour such creation, transfer or disposition is made, is called a grantee; and the operation effected by an assurance is called a grant:

"registered" means registered in British India under the law for the time being in force regulating the registration of documents:

"affixed to the soil" means—

"affixed to the soil." (a) imbedded in the soil, as in the case of walls:

(b) permanently resting upon it, as in the case of buildings; or

(c) attached to what is so imbedded or so rests, as by means of nails, bolts, screws, cement, solder or other permanent fastening.

All words occurring in this Act and defined in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, shall have the meaning attributed to them respectively by that Act.

CHAPTER II.

OF ASSURANCES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

4. Every person competent to contract may make an assurance of immoveable property: but subject to the law for the time being in force as to the circumstances and extent in and to which he may dispose of such property.

5. An assurance may be made in the form in the second schedule hereto annexed, or in any other form which expresses an intention thereby, and without any further act on the part of the grantor, to create, transfer or otherwise dispose of any right, title or interest to or in immoveable property.

6. Unless a contrary intention appears by the assurance, it shall be deemed to pass to the grantee all the interest which the grantor is capable of passing in the object of the grant, and to comprise—

(a) standing trees and all other products of the soil;

(b) things affixed to the soil, and, in the case of machinery so affixed, the moveable parts thereof;

(c) in the case of a house, the locks, keys, bars, doors and windows.

7. The owner of immoveable property cannot give to another a title there-to higher or more free from incumbrance than his own, to all documents of title relating to the property which are in the seller's possession or power :

Provided that (1) where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (2) where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (1) the seller, and in case (2) the buyer, of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, or by any person claiming under him, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof as he may require ; and, in the meantime, the seller or the buyer, as the case may be, of the portion of greatest value, must keep the said documents safe, uncanceled and undefaced, unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident.

(f). In the absence of fraud, concealment and misrepresentation, the seller is not answerable for any defect in the property sold.

(g). Unless the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, the seller shall be deemed to contract with the buyer, first, that notwithstanding anything done by the seller or any person through whom he claims, the seller has power to grant the property to the buyer, free from incumbrances ; secondly, that the seller and all persons claiming any interest in the same through or for him, or any person through whom he claims, will on demand execute and deliver to the buyer at his expense any further assurance of the same that may reasonably be required ; and, where the property is leasehold, thirdly, that the lease is valid and subsisting and that the rent reserved thereby, the conditions contained therein and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid, performed and observed down to the completion of the purchase.

When the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, the seller shall be deemed to contract with the buyer that the seller has done no act whereby the property is incumbered or whereby he is hindered from granting it.

EXPLANATION.—A purchase is completed within the meaning of this chapter when possession of the property is delivered to the buyer. When the transfer is made by assurance, such delivery takes place when the assurance is executed by the seller and (if its registration be required by law) registered. When the transfer is not made by assurance, such delivery takes place, in the case of an incorporeal right, when the parties consent to the delivery, and, in the case of other immoveable property, when the buyer becomes capable of exercising physical control over it and determines to exercise such control on his own behalf, or on behalf of the person whom he represents.

12. A contract for, or relating to, the sale of immovable property, shall not have the effect of creating any interest in, or charge on, such property ; but the only right of any person under the contract shall be to apply for specific performance, or for compensation, or for both, according to the rules laid down in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, the Specific Relief Act, 1877, and section twenty.

13. If, before completion of the purchase, the buyer is declared insolvent, the receiver of his property appointed under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 551, may, if the contract is unprofitable, by writing under his hand disclaim the same, and thereupon the contract shall be deemed to be determined from the date of the declaration : provided that the receiver shall not disclaim such contract in cases where an application in writing has been made to him by any person having any interest in the property, requiring him to decide whether he will disclaim or not, and the receiver has, for a period of not less than twenty-eight days after the receipt of such application or such further term as may be allowed by the Court, declined or neglected to give notice whether he disclaims the contract or not.

Any person injured by the operation of this section shall be deemed a creditor of the insolvent to the extent of such injury and may prove the same as a debt under the insolvency.

14. As between the seller and buyer of leasehold property, the buyer is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, bound to pay the rent reserved by the lease and accruing due after completion of the purchase, to perform the contracts by the lessee, and to indemnify the seller and his legal representative against all claims for non-payment of such rent or breach or non-observance of such covenants.

15. As between the seller and buyer of a right to redeem mortgaged property, the buyer is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, bound (a) to pay to the mortgagee or his legal representative the principal sum which, on completion of the purchase, is owing on the security of the mortgage, and all interest for the time being due for the same, when payment thereof, respectively, is lawfully demanded, and (b) to indemnify the seller and his legal representative against the payment thereof, and against all claims for non-payment thereof, respectively.

16. If at the date of the contract the property is insured against loss or damage by fire, the buyer, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the seller may actually receive under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in reinstating the property.

17. When two or more persons purchase any immoveable property, with separate funds belonging to them respectively, they shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be interested in such property in proportion to the shares of the purchase-money which they respectively advanced.

18. When two properties are subject to a common charge, and one of the properties is sold, the buyer is, as against the seller and his legal representative, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to have the charge satisfied out of the other property, so far as such property will extend.

19. When any property is sold, the proceeds of which are subject to any trust, the bond fide buyer of the property is not bound to see to the application of the purchase-money to the purposes of the trust.

20. When the buyer fails to perform any duty imposed on him, as such, by this Act or any other law for the time being in force, the seller may, notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, section 56, sue the buyer for compensation for such non-performance.

When the seller fails to perform any duty imposed upon him, as such, by this Act or any other law for the time being in force, the buyer may either sue under the Specific Relief Act, 1877, to have the contract rescinded, or may affirm it and sue for compensation for its non-performance. In the latter case, the buyer may recover his expenses reasonably incurred, after the contract was entered into, in relation to the attempted purchase; and in each case he may recover his deposit (if any) with interest thereon.

CHAPTER IV. OF EXCHANGES.

21. When two persons contract to mutually give one thing for another, neither thing or both things being money only, the contract is called a contract of exchange.

22. If one of the parties prove that the other was not owner of the thing given or agreed to be given to the former in exchange, the former cannot be compelled to deliver that which he has promised in counter-exchange; but when he has received the thing given to him in exchange, he may be compelled to return it.

The party deprived of the thing he has received in exchange by reason of anything done by the other party or any person through whom the latter claims, may, at his option, sue for compensation or sue for the thing given by him.

23. Save as otherwise provided in this chapter, each party has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a seller as to that which he gives, and has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a buyer as to that which he takes.

24. On an exchange of money, each party thereby warrants the genuineness of the money given by him.

CHAPTER V.

OF MORTGAGES AND CHARGES.

25. When, for the purpose of securing money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan or an existing or future debt, one person transfers to another a right over specific immovable property, the transfer is called a mortgage, the transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee, the money of which payment is secured is called the mortgage-money, and the assurance by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

For the purposes of this chapter, any person entitled as heir, legatee, assignee, lessee or otherwise than as a mortgagee to the interest of the transferor in the property subject to the mortgage, or any part of such interest, is a mortgagor; and any person entitled as heir, legatee, assignee or otherwise to the interest of the transferee under the mortgage, or any part thereof, is a mortgagee.

Where the mortgagor transfers the property to the mortgagee conditionally upon the non-payment of the mortgage-money at a certain date, the transaction is called an English mortgage.

Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the property to the mortgagee, and authorises him to retain such possession and to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the interest, or the principal and interest, of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage.

Where the mortgagor binds himself personally to repay the mortgage-money, and pledges the property as collateral security for the repayment, but does not deliver possession of the property, or contract that in default of payment of the principal and interest at a certain date the property shall pass to the mortgagee, the transaction is called a simple mortgage.

Where the mortgagor not so binding himself and not delivering possession of the property, contracts that, on default of payment of the principal and interest at a certain date, the property shall pass to the mortgagee, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale.

26. A mortgage can be effected only by an assurance signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses.

27. The deposit of title-deeds with intent to create a mortgage on the property comprised therein, but without actual transfer of such property, shall be deemed to be only evidence of a contract to execute a mortgage of the property.

Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagor.

28. A mortgagor has the following rights as against the mortgagee:—

(a) at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable, or has been paid, and before an order absolute has been made foreclosing his right to redeem the mortgaged property or the property is duly sold in pursuance of a decree or under a power conferred by the mortgage-deed, he may, on payment or tender of the mortgage-money remaining due, require the mortgagee to re-grant the property to him, or to execute an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of his ownership or other interest granted to the mortgagee has been extinguished.

(b) at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable and before such suit is barred, he may, tender to the mortgagee at a proper time and place, or deposit in any Court in which he might have instituted a suit for redemption of the mortgaged property, to the account of the mortgagee, the whole amount for the time being due on the mortgage.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorise a person interested in part only of the mortgaged property to institute a suit for the redemption of his own part only, except where there is but one mortgage and the mortgagor's interest in part of the property becomes vested in such mortgagee.

29. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagor shall be deemed to contract with the mortgagee, first, that the mortgagor has power to grant the property to the mortgagee, free from incumbrances; secondly, that the mortgagor and every person claiming any interest in the same will on demand (at the cost until foreclosure or sale of the mortgagor and afterwards of the person requiring the same) execute every such assurance of the same that may reasonably be required; and, where the property is leasehold, thirdly, that the lease is valid and subsisting, that the rent reserved thereby, the conditions contained therein, and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid, performed and observed down to the execution of the mortgage-deed; and that the mortgagor will, so long as the security exists, pay the rent reserved by the lease, perform the conditions contained therein and observe the contracts binding on the lessee and indemnify the mortgagee against all claims sustained by reason of the non-payment of the said rent or the non-performance or non-observance of the said conditions and contracts.

30. Where the mortgaged property is a lease for a term of years, and the mortgagee, while in possession of the property, obtains a renewal of the lease, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, have the benefit of the new lease.

31. A mortgagor in possession of the mortgaged property must not commit waste thereon, if the security is insufficient or will be rendered insufficient by such waste.

Explanation.—A security is insufficient within the meaning of this section unless the value of the mortgaged property exceeds by one-third, or, if consisting of buildings, exceeds by one-half, the mortgage-money.

32. A mortgagor proposing to make a second or other subsequent mortgage of the mortgaged property shall before effecting the mortgage, give the second or other subsequent mortgagee notice in writing under his hand of the prior mortgage or mortgages, and a mortgagor making a second or other subsequent mortgage of the mortgaged property shall, as soon as may be, give the prior mortgagee or mortgagees like notice of such mortgage.

A mortgagor failing to give any notice required by this section, in addition to any other liability resulting from such failure, shall, when the accounts are taken in pursuance of a decree made under this chapter, be debited with the loss, if any, occasioned by such failure.

33. If the owner of two or more properties creates separate mortgages on them by separate assurances, each mortgage may be dealt with irrespectively of the other, though the mortgages are created in favour of the same mortgagee.

Illustration.

A, the owner of farms Z and Y, mortgages Z to B for Rs. 1,000. A afterwards mortgages Y to B for Rs. 1,000, making no stipulation as to any additional charge on Z. A may institute a suit for the redemption of the mortgage on Z alone.

Rights and Liabilities of the Mortgagee.

34. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagee may, at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable to him, and before a decree has been made for the redemption of the mortgaged property, or the mortgage-money has been paid, institute against the mortgagor (1) a suit for a foreclosure of his right to redeem the property with or without possession thereof, or (2) a suit for a sale of the property, or (3) a suit for such foreclosure or sale.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed—

(a) to authorize a simple mortgagee to institute a suit for a foreclosure, or an usufructuary mortgagee to institute a suit for a foreclosure or sale, or a conditional mortgagee to institute a suit for a sale;

(b) to authorize the mortgagee of a railway, canal or other work in the maintenance of which the general public are interested to institute a suit for a foreclosure or sale; or

(c) to authorize a person interested in part only of the mortgage-money to institute a suit relating only to a corresponding part of the mortgaged property: but he may institute any of the suits mentioned in that clause, which, under this Act, he is authorized to institute, relating to the whole of the mortgaged property, making the other mortgagees, if they cannot or will not join as plaintiffs, defendants.

35. Where the mortgagor deposits money in court under section twenty-eight, the Court shall forthwith cause written notice of the deposit to be served on the mortgagee, and the mortgagee may, on depositing the mortgage-deed in the same court and on filing a written statement (verified in manner prescribed by law for the verification of plaints) of the amount due to him under the mortgage, apply for and receive in payment of such amount the money so deposited.

36. When the mortgagor and mortgagee have contracted as to the payment of interest on the principal money for the time being due to the mortgagee under the mortgage, interest shall be payable in accordance with such contract: Provided that, where the mortgagor has tendered or deposited in court under section twenty-eight the whole amount due to the mortgagee, such interest shall cease from the date of the tender or from the earliest time when the mortgagee could take such amount out of court, as the case may be.

Where no such contract has been entered into, the mortgagee is entitled to interest on such principal money at the rate of six per cent. per annum.

37. In the absence of an express contract to the contrary, no mortgagee shall be entitled as such to take possession of the mortgaged property; but at any time after the expiration of one year from the time when the principal money has become payable according to the terms of the mortgage-deed, or after any interest thereon has been in arrear for six months, he may institute a suit for the appointment of a receiver of the rents and profits of the whole or any part of the same.

In any suit for a foreclosure or sale, the Court may, if it think fit, appoint such a receiver pending the proceedings in the suit.

38. No mortgage shall be deemed to imply a debt for the recovery of which a suit will lie against the debtor; but the mortgagee may sue the mortgagor for the mortgage-money—

(a) where the mortgagor expressly binds himself to repay the same:

(b) where the mortgagor remains in possession of the property and fails to pay arrears of revenue due in respect thereof, and the property is consequently sold:

(c) where the property is destroyed by diluvion, fire or other superior force:

(d) in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, where the mortgagor fails to deliver to the mortgagee possession of the property or to secure the possession thereof to him without disturbance by the mortgagor or any other person.

39. A power conferred by the mortgage-deed on the mortgagee to sell or concur in selling the mortgaged property, or any part thereof, is invalid, except where the mortgagee is the Secretary of State for India in Council, or the mortgaged property is situate within the town of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay or Rangoon.

Act No. XXVIII of 1866, section 6, is repealed so far as it is inconsistent with this section.

40. If, at the date of the mortgage, the mortgaged property is insured against loss or damage by fire, the mortgagee, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the mortgagor may actually receive under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be laid out in reinstating the property.

41. If, after the date of the mortgage, any accession is made to the mortgaged property, the mortgagee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, shall, for the purposes of the security, be entitled to such accession.

Illustrations.

(a) A mortgages to B a certain field bordering on a river. The field is increased by alluvion. For the purposes of his security, B is entitled to the increase.

(b) A mortgages a certain plot of building land to B and afterwards erects a house on the plot. For the purposes of his security, B is entitled to the house as well as the plot.

42. When, during the continuance of the mortgage, the mortgagee takes possession of the mortgaged property, he has the following rights and liabilities:—

(a) he shall manage the property as a person of ordinary prudence would manage it if it were his own;

(b) he shall use his best endeavours to collect all rents and other profits arising out of the property;

(c) he shall, in the absence of an express contract to the contrary, out of the income of the property pay the Government revenue and all other charges of a public nature accruing due in respect thereof during such possession;

(d) he may spend such money as is necessary (1) for the due management of the property and the collection of the rents and other profits arising out of the same, (2) for its preservation from destruction, deterioration, forfeiture or sale, (3) for supporting the mortgagor's title to the property, (4) for making his own title thereto good against the mortgagor, and (5), when the mortgaged property is a renewable leasehold, for the renewal of the lease; and may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, add such money to the principal money secured, at the same rate of interest;

(e) he may eject the tenants (if any) in occupation of the property under leases made without the mortgagor's consent after the completion of the mortgage;

(f) where the property is by its nature insurable at ordinary rates, he may insure and keep insured against loss or damage by fire the whole or any part of such property, and add the premiums paid for any such insurance to the principal money secured, at the same rate of interest; and, in case of such loss or damage, shall apply any money which he may actually receive under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, in reinstating the property;

(g) he shall, in the absence of an express contract to the contrary, keep accurate accounts of all sums received and spent by him as mortgagee and, at any time during the continuance of the mortgage, give the mortgagor, at his request and cost, true copies of such accounts and of the vouchers by which they are supported;

(h) his receipts from the mortgaged property, after deducting the expenses mentioned in clauses (c), (d) and (f), shall be debited against him in reduction of the amount (if any) from time to time due to him on account of interest on the principal sum secured by the mortgage, and, so far as such receipts exceed any interest due, in reduction of such principal sum.

43. Nothing in section forty-two, clauses (g) and (h), applies to cases where there is an express contract in writing between the mortgagee and the mortgagor that such receipts, after deducting the said expenses, shall, so long as the mortgagee is in possession of the mortgaged property, be taken in lieu of interest on the principal sum secured by the mortgage.

44. A mortgagee in possession of the mortgaged property must not commit waste thereon.

45. When a mortgagor in possession of the mortgaged property fails to pay arrears of revenue due in respect thereof, and the property is consequently sold, the mortgagee has a charge on the surplus, if any, of the proceeds, after payment thereof of the said arrears.

Priority.

46. Where, through the fraud or gross neglect of a prior mortgagee, another person has been induced to advance money on the security of the mortgaged property, the prior mortgagee shall be postponed to the subsequent mortgagee.

47. If a mortgage made to secure the balance of a running account expresses the maximum to be secured thereby, a subsequent mortgage on the same property shall, if made with actual knowledge of the prior mortgage, or if the instrument effecting the prior mortgage is registered, be postponed to the prior mortgage in respect of all advances or debits not exceeding the maximum, though made or allowed with notice of the subsequent mortgage.

Illustration.

A mortgagee Sultánpur to his bankers, B & Co., to secure the balance of his account with them to the extent of Rs. 10,000. A then mortgages Sultánpur to C, to secure Rs. 10,000; and C gives notice thereof to B & Co. At the date of the second mortgage, the balance due to B & Co. does not exceed Rs. 5,000. B & Co. subsequently advance to A sums making the balance of the account against him exceed the sum of Rs. 10,000. B & Co. are entitled, to the extent of Rs. 10,000, to priority over C.

48. No mortgagee paying off a prior mortgage, whether with or without notice of an intermediate mortgage, shall thereby acquire any priority in respect of his original security. And, except in the case provided for by section forty-seven, no mortgagee making a subsequent advance to the mortgagor, whether with or without notice of an intermediate mortgage, shall thereby acquire any priority in respect of his security for such subsequent advance.

49. Any second or other subsequent mortgagee may, at any time before a sale of the mortgaged property has taken place under this chapter, tender to the next prior mortgagee the amount due to him on account of his mortgage. Such mortgagee is bound to accept such tender and to give a receipt for the sum due, and on such receipt being registered, the person making the tender shall acquire, in respect of the property, all the rights and powers of the mortgagee to whom he has made such tender.

50. If the owner of two properties mortgages them both to one person and then mortgages one of the properties to another person without actual knowledge of the former mortgage, the second mortgagee is entitled to have the debt of the first mortgagee satisfied out of the property not mortgaged to the second mortgagee, so far as such property will extend; but not so as to prejudice the rights of the first mortgagee or of any other person having an incumbrance on either property.

51. Where several properties, whether of one or several owners, are mortgaged to secure one debt, the several properties shall contribute rateably to the debt secured by the mortgage, after deducting from the value of each property the amount of any other incumbrance to which it is subject.

Where of two properties belonging to the same owner, one is mortgaged to secure one debt, and then both are mortgaged to secure another debt, and the former debt is paid out of the former property, each property shall contribute rateably to the latter debt, after deducting the amount of the former debt from the value of the property out of which it has been paid.

Nothing in this section applies to a property liable under section fifty to the claim of the second mortgagee.

Suits for Redemption, Foreclosure or Sale.

52. Subject to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, section 487, all persons having an interest either in the right of redemption or in the security ought to be joined as parties to any suit under section twenty-eight or thirty-four, and the first or any subsequent mortgagee who institutes a suit for foreclosure or sale ought to make every mortgagee and other incumbrancer whose security is subsequent to his own, a party to the suit.

Foreclosure and Sale.

53. In a suit for foreclosure, or foreclosure or sale, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court shall pass a decree, ordering that an account be taken of what will be due to the plaintiff for principal and interest on the mortgage and for his costs of the suit, on the day next hereinafter referred to, or declaring the amount so due at the date of such decree.

And ordering that, upon the defendant paying to the plaintiff or into court the amount so due, on a day within six months from the date of declaring in court the amount so due, to be fixed by the court, the plaintiff shall deliver up to the defendant, or to such person as he appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall transfer the mortgaged property to the defendant free from all incumbrances created by the plaintiff or any person claiming under him, or, where the plaintiff claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims; and shall, if necessary, put the defendant into possession of the mortgaged property; but that, if such payment is not made on or before such day, the defendant shall be absolutely foreclosed of all right to redeem such property.

54. If payment is so made of such amount and of such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section sixty-four, the defendant shall (if necessary) be put into possession of the mortgaged property.

If such payment is not so made, the plaintiff may apply to the Court for an order absolute for the foreclosure of the said mortgage, and the Court shall then pass an order absolute that the defendant to be foreclosed of all right to redeem the mortgaged property, and may, if necessary, deliver possession of the property to the plaintiff; and thereupon the defendant's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished.

Provided that the Court may, upon good cause shown, from time to time postpone the day appointed for such payment.

In the Code of Civil Procedure, Schedule IV, No. 129, for the words "Final Decree", the words "Order absolute" shall be substituted.

55. In a suit for a sale under this chapter, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court shall, and in any other suit by the mortgagee under this chapter, if the plaintiff succeed the Court may at his instance, pass a decree ordering as provided in the first and second paragraphs of section fifty-three, and also ordering that in default of the defendant making payment as therein mentioned the mortgaged property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale (after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale) be paid into court and applied in payment of what is so found due to the plaintiff and that the balance, if any, be paid to the defendant or other persons entitled to receive the same.

When the mortgagee sues only for a foreclosure, if the Court considers that he will not be damaged by such sale and if the defendant furnishes such security, if any, as the Court thinks sufficient for the payment of the balance due for the time being by him on the mortgage, the Court may, at the instance of the defendant, pass a like decree.

Any decree under this section may also direct the defendant to pay any balance remaining due to the plaintiff upon the mortgage after the proceeds of sale have been dealt with as above provided.

56. If in any case under section fifty-five the defendant makes payment as mentioned in section fifty-four, he shall (if necessary) be put in possession of the mortgaged property; but if such payment is not so made, the plaintiff or the defendant, as the case may be, may apply to the Court for an order absolute for sale of the mortgaged property, and the Court shall then pass an order that such property, or a sufficient part thereof, be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale be dealt with as is mentioned in section fifty-five; and thereupon the defendant's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished.

57. When the nett proceeds of any such sale are insufficient to pay the amount due for the time being on the mortgage, the balance, if payable according to the contract between the parties by the defendant otherwise than out of the property sold, may be recovered either (if the Court thinks fit) in the same suit in the same manner as under a decree for money, or by any other legal process open to the mortgagee.

Redemption.

58. Besides the mortgagor, any of the following persons may institute a suit for redemption of the mortgaged property:—

- (a) any person (other than the mortgagee) having any interest in or charge upon the property;
- (b) any person having any interest in or charge upon the right to redeem the property;
- (c) any surety for the payment of the mortgage-debt or any part thereof;
- (d) the guardian of the property of a minor mortgagor;
- (e) the committee or other legal curator of a lunatic or idiot mortgagor;
- (f) the judgment-creditor of the mortgagor, when he has obtained execution.
- (g) a creditor of the mortgagor who has in a suit for the administration of his estate obtained a decree for sale of the mortgaged property.

Explanation.—An easement is not an interest within the meaning of clause (a).

59. In a suit for redemption, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court shall pass a decree ordering that an account be taken of what will be due to the defendant for principal and interest on the mortgage, and for his costs of the suit, on the day next hereinafter referred to, or declaring the amount so due at the date of such decree; and ordering that upon the plaintiff paying to the defendant or into court the amount so due on a day within six months from the date of declaring in court the amount so due, to be fixed by the Court, the defendant shall deliver up to the plaintiff, or to such person as he appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall (if such property has been transferred to the defendant) re-transfer it to the plaintiff free from the mortgage and from all incumbrances created by the defendant or any person claiming under him, or, when the defendant claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims, and shall, if necessary, put the plaintiff into possession of the mortgaged property; but that if such payment is not made on or before such day, the plaintiff shall be absolutely foreclosed of all right to redeem such property.

60. If payment is made of such amount and of such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section sixty-four the plaintiff shall, if necessary, be put into possession of the mortgaged property.

If such payment is not so made, the defendant may apply to the Court for an order absolute for the foreclosure of the said mortgage, and the Court shall then pass an order absolute ordering the plaintiff to be foreclosed of all right to redeem the mortgaged property, and may, if necessary, deliver possession of the property to the defendant; and thereupon the plaintiff's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished:

Provided that the Court may upon good cause shewn, from time to time, postpone the day appointed for such payment.

Redemption and Foreclosure.

61. When property is mortgaged for successive debts to successive mortgagees, any mesne mortgagee may institute a suit to redeem the interests of the prior mortgagees and to foreclose the rights of those that are posterior to himself and of the mortgagor.

The decree in such suit may be in the form set forth in the third schedule hereto annexed, with such variation as the circumstances of each case require.

62. If the mortgagee fail to perform any of the duties imposed upon him by section forty-two, he may, when accounts are taken in pursuance of a decree made under this chapter, be debited with the loss, if any, occasioned by such failure.

Costs.

63. The mortgagee is ordinarily entitled to receive or add to his debt his costs properly incurred of any suit under this chapter.

Costs of mortgage.

But such costs, or any part thereof, may be disallowed if the mortgagor has paid or tendered to the mortgagee, or has deposited in court, the whole amount due to him under the mortgage, and if the mortgagee has unreasonably refused to accept such tender or to take such money out of court in discharge of his claim, or if he has prevented a mortgagor willing and able to make such payment, tender or deposit from making it by refusing or neglecting to give him proper information as to the state of the accounts required to be kept under section forty-two.

64. In finally adjusting the amount to be paid to a mortgagee in case of a redemption or a sale by the Court under this chapter, the Court shall, unless the conduct of the mortgagee has been such as to disentitle him to costs, add to the principal debt such costs of suit as have been properly incurred by him since the decree for foreclosure, redemption or sale up to the time of actual payment.

Costs of mortgage subsequent to decree.

Sale of Property subject to prior mortgage.

65. If any property the sale of which is directed under this chapter is subject to a prior mortgage, the Court may, with the consent of the prior mortgagee, order that the property be sold free from the same, giving to such prior mortgagee the same interest in the proceeds of the sale as he had in the property sold.

Application of proceeds.

66. Such proceeds shall be brought into Court and applied as follows:—

first, in payment of all expenses incident to the sale or properly incurred in any attempted sale;

secondly, if the property has been sold free from any prior mortgage, in payment of whatever is due on account of such mortgage;

thirdly, in payment of all interest due on account of the mortgage in consequence whereof the sale was directed, and of the costs of the suit in which the decree directing the sale was made;

fourthly, in payment of all principal moneys due on account of that mortgage; and fifthly, the residue (if any) shall be paid to the person proving himself to be interested in the property sold, or if there be more such persons than one, then to such persons according to their respective interests therein or upon their joint receipt.

67. If property subject to a mortgage, or the right to receive mortgage-money, be transferred to a third person, the transferee has all the rights and powers of his transferor, under the mortgage, and is subject to the liabilities existing between his transferor and the mortgagor or mortgagee, as the case may be.

Rights and powers of transferee of mortgage-debt or mortgaged property.

Where such a transfer is made for the purpose of securing money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan or an existing or future debt, the original mortgage-debt, if recovered by either the transferor or the transferee, is applicable, first, in payment of the costs of such recovery, secondly, in or towards satisfaction of the amount for the time being secured by the transfer; and the residue, if any, belongs to the transferor.

Charges.

68. If by any assurance other than a mortgage-deed, or by any will, or under the provisions of this or any other Act, or by operation of law, certain immoveable property of one person is made security for the payment of certain money to another, the latter person is said to have a charge on the property, and all the provisions hereinafore applied to a mortgagor shall apply to the owner of such property, and all the provisions hereinbefore applied to a mortgagee instituting a suit for the sale of the mortgaged property shall apply to the person having such charge.

Charges.

69. Where a person is or becomes absolutely entitled to immoveable property, of a charge or other incumbrance on which he is also the owner, the charge or incumbrance shall be extinguished, unless by an instrument in writing, registered he expressly declares that it shall be kept on foot.

Merger of charges.

CHAPTER VI.

OF LEASES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

70. A person proposing to let immoveable property need not disclose

• Disclosures required from proposing lessor and lessee. defects therein which the lessee might with ordinary care discover; but the proposing lessor must not conceal, or attempt to conceal, such defects, and he must disclose to the lessee all other defects therein of which the former is, and the latter is not, aware.

When the proposing lessee stands, or has stood, as regards the property, in a fiduciary relation to the lessor, he must disclose to the lessor any fact which increases the value of the property itself, and of which the former has, during the existence of such relation, become aware. Save as aforesaid, a person proposing to take a lease of immoveable property need not disclose any fact unknown to the lessor which increases such value.

71. In the absence of a contract in writing or

Rights and liabilities of lessor and lessee. local usage to the contrary, the lessor and the lessee, as against one another, respectively, possess the rights and are subject to the liabilities mentioned in the eighteen rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property leased:—

(a.) The lessor is bound to put the lessee in possession of the property leased;

(b.) The lessor shall be deemed to contract with the lessee that the latter paying the rent reserved by the lease and performing the contracts by the lessee may hold the property leased during the time limited by the lease without interruption by the lessor or his assigns, or any person lawfully claiming through him or them;

(c.) In the absence of fraud, concealment or misrepresentation, the lessor is not answerable for any defect in the property leased which the lessee could not with ordinary care have discovered;

(d.) During the continuance of the lease, the lessee is entitled to the enjoyment of all easements appendant to the property leased at the time when the lease was made until such easements are extinguished;

(e.) The lessee is bound to keep, and on the termination of the lease to restore, the property leased in as good condition as it was in at the time when he was put in possession, subject only to reasonable wear and tear:

(f.) If by fire, tempest or flood, or violence of an army or of a mob, or other superior force, any part of the property leased be wholly destroyed or rendered substantially unfit for the purposes for which it was let, the lease shall be void as to that part, and any rent or fine payable under the lease shall proportionately abate, and a proportionate part of any fine paid by the lessee shall be returned by the lessor:

If the injury be occasioned by the wrongful act or default of either party, such party shall not be entitled to avail himself of the benefit of this provision:

(g.) In case the lease is rescinded for the default of the lessee, he is bound to pay the rent up to the time of such rescission, and also to make compensation for any other loss resulting from his default; but in estimating such compensation, the Court shall take into account the fine (if any) paid under the lease:

(h.) If the lessor neglects to make, within a reasonable time after notice, repairs which he is bound to make, the lessee may make the same himself, and deduct the expense of such repairs from the rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(i.) If the lessor neglects to make any payment which he is bound to make, and which, if not made by him, is recoverable from the lessee or against the property leased, the lessee may make such payment himself, and deduct it from his rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(j.) Every lessee who becomes aware of any proceeding to recover the property leased to him or any part thereof is bound to give notice thereof to the lessor with reasonable diligence; and, in default of so doing, he is liable to make compensation to the lessor for any loss or expenses occasioned by such omission:

(k.) The lessee is bound to give notice to the lessor, within a reasonable time, of any encroachment made upon, or any interference with the lessor's rights concerning, the property leased, which may come to his knowledge; and, in default of so doing, he is liable to make compensation to the lessor for any loss or expenses occasioned by such omission:

(l.) The lessee may use the soil and its products for all purposes of enjoyment as a reasonable owner would use them: but he may not fell timber, pull down or damage houses, open mines, or commit any other waste:

(m.) No lessee of immoveable property shall, without the lessor's consent, erect any permanent structure thereon, except for agricultural purposes; and no such lessee who erects thereon any building, engine or machinery for agricultural purposes shall remove the same without first giving to the lessor or his agent one month's previous notice in writing of his intention so to do, and thereupon the lessor or his agent may elect to purchase the thing so proposed to be removed, and the lessee's right to remove the same shall thereby cease, and the same shall belong to the lessor, and the value thereof shall in case of dispute be ascertained and determined by two referees, one to be chosen by each party, or by an umpire to be named by such referees, and shall be paid or allowed in account by the lessor:

(n.) Subject to the provisions of clause (m), the lessee has a right to remove at any time during his possession of the property leased, all things which he has affixed to the soil: but he is liable to make compensation to the lessor for all damage caused to the property by such removal:

(o.) On the determination of the lease, the lessee is bound to put the lessor into possession of the property leased:

(p.) When a lease of uncertain duration determines by any means except the fault of the lessee, he or his legal representative is entitled to all the crops planted or sown by the lessee and growing upon the land for the season current when the lease determines, and to free ingress and egress to reap and carry them:

(q.) If the lessor transfers the property leased, or any part thereof, or any part of his interest therein, the transferee shall possess all the rights and, if the lessee so elects, be subject to all the liabilities, of the lessor as to the property or part transferred so long as he is the owner of it; but the lessor shall not by reason only of such transfer cease to be subject to any of the liabilities imposed upon him by the lease, unless the lessee elects to treat the transferee as the person liable to him: Provided that, if the lessee pay rent to the lessor without having reason to believe that such transfer has been made, he shall not be liable to pay such rent over again to the transferee:

Where only a part of the property leased is transferred by the lessor, he may determine what proportion of the rent reserved by the lease is payable in respect of the part so transferred:

(r.) The lessee may transfer, absolutely or by way of mortgage, the whole or any part of his interest in the property, and any transferee of such interest or part may again transfer it. The lessee shall not, by reason of such transfer, cease to be subject to any of the liabilities attaching to the lease, unless the lessor elects to treat the transferee as the person subject to such liabilities. Subject as aforesaid, each successive transferee, so long as he is entitled to the property leased, possesses all the rights, and is subject to all the liabilities, of the lessee.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorise a tenant having a right of occupancy to assign his interest as such.

72. A tenancy begins when the lessee enters, under the lease, into possession of the property leased, and until he so enters, he cannot sue for compensation for a trespass thereon.

73. When the lessee is declared an insolvent, the receiver of his property appointed under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 351, may, with the leave of the Court, by writing under his hand, disclaim the property leased, and thereupon the lease shall be deemed to be surrendered from the date of the declaration, and the Court may order the property to be delivered up to the lessor or make such other order as to the possession thereof as may be just:

Provided that the receiver shall not disclaim such property in cases where an application in writing has been made to him by any person interested therein, requiring him to decide whether he will disclaim or not, and the receiver has for a period of not less than twenty-eight days after the receipt of such application, or such further time as may be allowed by the Court, declined or neglected to give notice whether he disclaims the property or not.

On the application of any person interested in the property, the Court may direct possession thereof to be delivered to him, or make such other order as to possession thereof as may be just.

Any person injured by the operation of this section shall be deemed to be a creditor of the insolvent to the extent of such injury, and may accordingly prove the same as a debt under the insolvency.

74. In the absence of a contract in writing or local usage to the contrary, a lease of property for purposes of cultivation shall be a lease from year to year terminable by six months' notice expiring with the end of a year of the tenancy; and a lease of property for any other purpose shall be a lease from month to month, terminable by fifteen days' notice expiring with the end of a month of the tenancy.

Every notice under this section must be in writing signed by or on behalf of the party giving it and tendered or delivered to the party who is intended to be bound by it, or affixed on a conspicuous part of the property.

75. Where the time limited by a lease is expressed as commencing from a particular day, in computing that time such day shall be excluded. Where no day of commencement is named, the time so limited begins from the making of the lease.

Where the time so limited is a year or a number of years, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, the lease shall last during the whole anniversary of the day from which such time commences.

Where the time so limited is expressed to be determinable before its expiration at the option of the parties or one of them, the lessee, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, shall have such option.

76. A lease determined—

- (a) by efflux of the time limited thereby;
- (b) by rescission;
- (c) by surrender in express terms;
- (d) by surrender by operation of law, that is to say, in case the lessee accepts from the lessor a new lease of the property leased, to take effect during the continuance of the existing lease;
- (e) by forfeiture, that is to say, (1) in case the lessee breaks an express condition which provides that, on breach thereof, the lessor may re-enter, or the lease shall become void; or (2) in case the lessee renounces his character as such either by setting up a title in a third person or by claiming title in himself;
- (f) on the expiration of a notice to quit duly given to the lessee.

77. A forfeiture or notice under section seventy-six clause (e) or (f), is waived by receipt of rent which has become due since the breach or the expiration of the notice, or by distress for such rent, or by any other act on the part of the lessor showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting.

Where a lease has determined by forfeiture for non-payment of rent and the lessor sues to eject the lessee, if, at the hearing of the suit, the lessee pays or tenders to the lessor the rent in arrear, together with interest thereon and his full costs of the suit, or gives such security as the Court thinks sufficient for making such payment within fifteen days, the Court may, in lieu of making a decree for ejectment, pass an order relieving the lessee against the forfeiture; and thereupon the lessee shall hold the property leased as if the forfeiture had not occurred.

Nothing in this section applies to suits under Act No. X of 1859, or Bengal Act No. VIII of 1869.

78. If a lessee or sub-lessee of property remains in possession thereof after the determination of the lease, and the lessor or his legal representative accepts rent from the lessee or sub-lessee, or otherwise assents to his continuing in possession, the lease is, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, renewed from year to year or from month to month, according to the purpose for which the property is leased, as specified in section seventy-four.

Illustrations.

- (a.) A lets a house to B for five years. B sub-lets the house to C at a monthly rent of Rs. 100. The five years expire, but C continues in possession of the house and pays the rent to A. C's lease is renewed from month to month.
- (b.) A lets a farm to B for the life of C. C dies, but B continues in possession with A's assent. B's lease is renewed from year to year.

CHAPTER VII. OF SETTLEMENTS.

79. "Settlement" means, in this chapter, any disposition in writing of moveable or immovable property—

- (a) which is not testamentary, and is not founded on any consideration, or
 - (b) which is made in consideration of marriage, or
 - (c) which is made for the purpose of dividing property of the settlor among his family or those for whom he desires to provide,
- but does not include a gift made by a Hindû, Muhammadan or Buddhist.

80. A settlement, whether made for a consideration or not, is binding on the settlor and those claiming under him.

81. A settlement made for the purpose of depriving present or future creditors or other persons of their demands against the settlor, is void against all present and future creditors of the settlor and their successors in interest, and against any person upon whom his property devolves in trust for the benefit of his creditors.

Nothing in this section affects the rights of persons who have acquired, in good faith and for consideration, any interest under the settlement.

82. A condition or limitation in a settlement or will, restraining any person from parting with or disposing of his interest, is void:

Condition restraining alienation of interest.

provided that property may be settled or bequeathed for the benefit of a married woman who is not a Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist, so that she shall not have power to deprive herself of the income thereof in anticipation.

83. A condition or limitation contained in a settlement or will, making an interest thereby reserved or given to or in trust for any person to cease on his becoming insolvent, or endeavouring to transfer or dispose of the same, is void.

Condition making interest determinable on insolvency or alienation.

84. If, by a settlement, property be given to a person then living in general terms, without indicating the time when it is to be paid or delivered, such person has a vested interest therein from the day of the execution of the settlement, and if he dies without having received it, it shall (subject to any legal disposition thereof which he may have made) pass to his legal representative.

Vesting of gift in general terms.

85. Where, by the terms of a settlement, property is given to a person not in existence, but he is not entitled to possession of it immediately upon his birth, a right to receive it at the proper time shall, unless a contrary intention appears by the settlement, become vested in such person upon his birth, and shall (subject to any legal disposition thereof which he may have made) pass to his legal representative if he dies before that time, and without having received it. And in such cases it is from his birth said to be vested in interest.

Vesting in interest of gift to unborn person not entitled to possession immediately on birth.

86. The provisions of the Indian Succession Act, 1865, sections 100 to 104, both inclusive, 107 and 108, 111 to 127, both inclusive, and 167, shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to gifts contained in settlements.

Application of sections of Act X of 1865 to gifts contained in settlements.

87. Whenever a person becomes entitled in possession, by virtue of a settlement, to money or any other property yielding income, he shall be entitled to receive the interest or income thereof from that time.

Right to income of property coming into possession under settlement.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF THE DISCRETION OF THE COURTS TO DEAL WITH SETTLED LAND.

88. If any person having, under a settlement or will, a limited interest in possession in any land, apply under this section to the High Court within the limits of whose appellate civil jurisdiction such land or any part thereof is situate, the Court may, if it deem it just and expedient to do so,—

Power exercisable by Court on application of person interested in possession in settled land.

(a) make such leases of the whole or any part of the land for such terms of years, for such rents, with such powers, and with such conditions, reservations and exceptions as the Court thinks fit;

(b) make such sales of the whole or any part of the land, for such sums, payable either at once or periodically, with such powers, and with such conditions, reservations and exceptions as the Court thinks fit;

(c) appropriate any part of the land for the formation of streets, roads, gardens or other open spaces, tanks, sewers, drains or water-courses, and authorize the erection of buildings and works thereon;

and generally deal with the land in any way the Court may think just and beneficial to the persons interested therein.

89. Every such application shall be in writing, and notice thereof shall be served through the Court on all trustees under the settlement or will, and on any other persons who in the opinion of the Court ought to be so served, and shall be published in such newspapers as the Court may direct.

Service of notice and advertisement of application.

90. The Court shall permit any person interested in the land, and may in its discretion permit any other person, to appear and be heard in opposition to, or in support of, any such application, on such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit.

Appearance to oppose or support application.

91. The Court may order the costs of all or any parties to any such application to be paid out of any principal money receivable on account of any dealing with the land which is the subject of the application, or to be a charge on such land or on any other land belonging to the same owners.

Costs of application.

92. Every lease made under section eighty-eight shall take effect in possession; and on every such lease shall be reserved the best rent that can be reasonably obtained, to be made payable half-yearly or oftener without taking any fine or other benefit in the nature of a fine.

Leases under section 88.

93. All or any part of the proceeds of any lease, sale or disposition under section eighty-eight may, if the Court think fit, be paid into court.

Payment into court of money receivable under section 88.

94. The Court shall declare what parts of such proceeds so received shall be considered as income, and may direct the same to be paid to the person for the time being entitled in possession to the land dealt with; and the residue of such money shall be applied as the Court shall direct in one or more of the manners following:—

Power to direct payment of income to person entitled.

(a) the payment of the amount due in respect of any charge on the land dealt with;

(b) the purchase of other property or the investment in securities for the benefit of the persons interested in the land dealt with;

(c) the payment to any person becoming absolutely entitled to the land dealt with.

EXPLANATION.—In this section the term “securities” means—

(d) promissory notes, debentures, stock and other securities of the Government of India;

(e) bonds, debentures and annuities charged by the Imperial Parliament on the revenues of India;

(f) stock or debentures of, or shares in, Railway or other companies, the interest whereon has been guaranteed by the Government of India; and

(g) debentures or other securities for money issued by or on behalf of any municipal body under the authority of any Act of an Indian legislature.

CHAPTER IX.

OF GIFTS FOR RELIGIOUS AND CHARITABLE PURPOSES.

95. No person having a nephew or niece, or any nearer relative, shall have power to give any immovable property to religious or charitable uses, unless by an assurance executed not less than twelve months before his death, and registered.

Gift to charitable uses by person having certain relatives.

96. Subject to the provisions of the last preceding section, immovable property may be assured in perpetuity for the benefit of the public in the advancement of religion, knowledge, commerce, health, safety or any other object beneficial to mankind. Provided that notice of such assurance shall be given, as soon as may be after its execution, to the Local Government and that no such assurance shall take effect until it has been sanctioned by some public authority to be designated by the Local Government by notification in the official Gazette.

The grant or refusal of such sanction may be notified by an entry in the book in which the assurance is registered, and the registering officer shall make such entry on receiving from the public authority aforesaid a written order in this behalf.

If no such order is made within two years next after the time when the property becomes applicable for the benefit of the public, it shall be deemed that sanction has been granted.

If such sanction is refused, the property shall devolve as if no such assurance had been made.

CHAPTER X.

OF CERTAIN RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF OWNERS OF LIMITED INTERESTS.

97. A person having a limited interest in any immovable property is not, as such, entitled to do or omit any act the doing or omitting of which is destructive or permanently injurious to such property.

Explanation.—No act done in the reasonable use and enjoyment of property is destructive or injurious within the meaning of this section, though it may exhaust the substance of the property.

Illustrations.

(a). A is a tenant for life of land on which a dwelling-house stands. He is not entitled, as such, to pull down the house. Nor must he suffer it to fall for want of necessary repairs.

(b). A is a tenant for life of land in which coal lies. He is entitled, as such, to work and use the coal.

(c). A is tenant for life of land planted with trees. He is entitled as such to cut the trees at maturity, but is not entitled, as such, to cut them when immature, except for the purpose of thinning out or otherwise benefiting the plantation.

Save as aforesaid, such person or his legal representative has the same right as a lessee to remove, during the continuance of such interest or within a reasonable time afterwards, all things which he has affixed to the soil in which he had such limited interest, and all crops growing upon the land for the season current when such limited interest determines.

98. A person having a limited interest in possession in any immovable property, is bound to discharge all taxes and other public periodical charges to which such property is liable and, to the extent of the rents and profits of the property which without his wilful default he might have received, all periodical payments accruing due on account of any mortgage or charge thereon taking effect during the continuance of his interest in priority to such interest.

99. Every advantage or increase of value accruing (accidentally or through the exertions of any one having a limited interest) to any immovable property in which successive interests exist, belongs, in the absence of any personal law to the contrary, to all the persons having any interest in the property, in the same shares and manner as they are entitled to the property.

100. Any person claiming any immovable property after the death of any minor, married woman or other person, and having reason to believe that such minor, married woman or other person is dead, and that his or her death is concealed by his or her guardian, husband or any other person, may once a year move the High Court to order the person concealing or suspected to conceal such person to produce him or her at such time and place, and before such persons (if any), as the Court may direct. And the High Court, if it think fit, shall make such order, and in case of disobedience thereto by the person in possession of the property, the person so claiming the same may, by order of the Court, enter thereon, and receive the profits thereof as if the person so concealed or suspected to be concealed were dead.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize the High Court to compel the production in court of women who, according to the customs and manners of the country, ought not to be compelled to appear in public.

101. Nothing in this chapter applies to mortgagees or lessees.

CHAPTER XI.

OF POWERS.

102. A person may be authorized to determine, with or without the consent of others, the disposition of property otherwise than by virtue of his ownership. A person so authorized is said to have power to appoint such property.

The person who gives the power is called the donor, the person to whom the power is given is called the donee, and the persons for whose benefit the power is to be exercised are called the objects of the power. A person to whom any property is appointed is called an appointee.

Illustrations.

(a). A grants land to B for B's life, with remainder to such of B's children as B shall appoint. B appoints to C and D, two of his children, in equal shares. A is the donor of the power, B the donee, B's children the objects, and C and D the appointees.

(b). A, the absolute owner of certain land, grants it to B to such uses as C, with the consent of D, shall by assurance appoint. C with D's consent appoints part of the land to E absolutely, and the rest to F for seven years. Here C is the donee and also the object of the power, and E and F are the appointees.

A power authorising the donee to appoint to whomsoever and for whatsoever interest he pleases, is called a general power.

A power restricted in respect either of its objects or the interests that may be conferred under it, is called a special power.

Where the donee has neither a present nor a future interest in the property, the power is called a collateral power:

Rules as to all Powers.

103. Where a power is vested in several donees, all who are living must unite in its execution; but in case any one or more of them die during the continuance of the power, it may be exercised by the survivors or the survivor, unless a contrary intention appears by the instrument creating the power.

104. The donor may direct that the power shall be exercised by will only, or by non-testamentary instrument only.

If he directs that the power shall be exercised by will only, it must be exercised by will duly executed according to the provisions of the Indian Succession Act, 1865, or according to such other law as at the time of the execution of the power may be applicable to a will executed by the donee.

If he directs that the power shall be exercised by non-testamentary instrument only, it must be exercised by such an instrument and registered.

If he imposes no such restriction on the exercise of the power, it may be exercised either by such will or by such assurance as lastly hereinbefore mentioned.

105. When the power is not properly exercised, no Court shall in any case compel the person in possession of the property to which the power relates to deliver the property as if the power had been properly exercised, or shall otherwise aid the defective execution, except as provided in the Specific Relief Act, 1877 chapter three.

106. All appointments made in the manner directed by section one hundred and four shall be deemed to be executed and attested in proper form, notwithstanding that some other mode of execution or attestation has been prescribed by the donor.

107. An appointment made by will may be revoked by a subsequent will; but it is not revoked by more general words of revocation of all former wills, without a new appointment.

An appointment made by a non-testamentary instrument is irrevocable except where power to revoke the appointment is expressly reserved by such instrument.

108. A power exercisable by will only cannot be delegated.

A special power involving the exercise of personal discretion by the donee cannot be delegated.

A power to do an act merely ministerial and involving no personal discretion may be delegated.

Illustrations.

(a). A has power under a settlement to dispose of an estate in such proportions as he thinks fit among the issue of his marriage with B. A by his will purports to delegate this power to B, to exercise as she thinks fit. The attempted delegation is void, and the dispositions, if any, in default of appointment take effect.

(b). A, the donee of a power to appoint to his children, determines to exercise it in favour of the objects equally. With this view he causes an instrument of appointment to be prepared. A may appoint an attorney to execute this instrument.

109. Where a power is to be exercised with the concurrence where consent of several persons, all who are living must concur in the consent, but in case any one or more of them die during the continuance of the power, the consent of the survivors or the survivor is sufficient, unless a contrary intention appears by the instrument creating the power.

Consent to the exercise of a power must be given during the donee's lifetime by a non-testamentary instrument registered.

Consent to the exercise of a power need not be given by the instrument by which the power is exercised, but if it is given by a different instrument, such instrument must be executed at a time not later than the time at which the donee of the power executes the instrument by which he exercises the power.

110. If a person disposes of property in such manner as is authorized by a power vested in him, such disposition shall take effect under the power, notwithstanding that the power is not mentioned or referred to in the instrument of disposition.

Illustration.

Land is settled upon A for life with a special power to charge, by a non-testamentary instrument, portions in favour of his children. Subsequently, a general power to dispose of the land by any instrument is vested in A. He executes an assurance, by which he directs that a sum of money shall be raised out of the land and settled on his son B for life, with remainder to B's wife and children. Such an appointment cannot take effect under the special power, but may be treated as a valid exercise of the general power.

111. The donee of a power need not exercise it entirely and at once by a single instrument, but he may from time to time exercise any unexhausted part thereof at his discretion.

If the donee has purported to exercise his power in such a manner that his appointment is void, the power is, to that extent, unexhausted.

Illustrations.

(a). A has a general power. He may appoint the property at one time to B for his life and at another to C absolutely.

(b). Trustees under a settlement, having power to lend Rs. 10,000 to A, the tenant for life, lend the money accordingly. A repays it. The trustees may again lend Rs. 10,000 to A.

(c). A has power to raise Rs. 10,000 by sale or mortgage of Sultānpur. A exercises the power by mortgaging Sultānpur. He may afterwards exercise the power by selling Sultānpur in order to pay off the mortgage.

112. Where a power given by any instrument is void in its creation, no disposition or gift made by the same instrument shall be deemed void merely because it is intended to take effect after the interests to be appointed under the power or in default of any such appointment.

Illustration.

A marriage-settlement provides that the settled property shall belong to the husband and wife successively for their lives; that after the death of the survivor of them, it shall go to such of the children of the marriage, and in such shares, as the husband and wife shall jointly appoint, the interest of each such child to become vested in him on his attaining the age of twenty-five years; and that in the event of there being no child of the marriage who shall attain that age, or in default of appointment, the property shall belong to the husband or his legal representative.

Here the power to appoint the property is, under section eighty-six, void in its creation; but the ultimate interest given to the husband takes effect.

General Powers.

113. If the donor confers on the donee a general power, the donee shall, so far as regards his power of disposition, his creditors and all persons who contract with him for lawful consideration to obtain any interest in the property comprised in the power, be deemed to be the absolute owner of such property for such interest therein as the donor could dispose of.

This rule is to take effect notwithstanding that the donor has prescribed some particular method for executing the power.

Illustrations.

(a). A, the absolute owner of land, settles it on B for life with remainder to such purposes as B—shall appoint, or shall by deed appoint, or shall by will appoint, or shall by deed or will appoint, and, in case B dies without making any such appointment, on C absolutely.

If B—grants the land by assurance, or bequeathes it, or contracts to sell it, or incurs debt,

the property is liable, in the hands of either B or C, as the case may be, to the claims of B's grantees, legatees, purchaser or creditors, as the case may be.

If B dies having made no disposition of the property, C is entitled to it, subject to any claims which B's creditors may establish against it.

(b). A confers on B a general power, exercisable by a non-testamentary instrument, to appoint certain land. B appoints the land to certain persons in such shares as C shall fix. This appointment is valid.

114. If the donor confers on the donee a general power, and makes no disposition of the property in case of non-appointment, the donee shall be considered as the absolute owner of the property or such interest therein as the donor could dispose of.

Illustration.

A, the absolute owner of property, settles it on B for life with remainder to such purposes as B shall appoint, and makes no gift over in default of appointment. B dies without making any disposition of the property. The property vests in the representatives of B, and does not revert to A or his representatives.

Special Powers.

115. If the donee has only a special power, he cannot confer any interest in the property comprised therein which could not have been conferred by the donor at the time of the creation of the power.

Illustrations.

(a). A settles a fund upon B for life with remainder to such purposes as B shall appoint. After the settlement is made C is born. B then appoints the fund to C for life with remainder to C's children absolutely. The appointment is valid, though C has no children at the time.

(b). A settles a fund upon B for life with remainder to his children as he shall appoint. At the date of the settlement B has no child, but afterwards has a son C. B then appoints to C for his life, with remainder to his children. Such interest could not have been conferred by A, and B's appointment is void.

116. Where the donee of a special power purports, in exercise of the power, to appoint to objects authorized by the power and also to objects not so authorized, the appointment in favour of the authorized objects shall take effect if their interests are independent of those of the unauthorized objects.

Illustration.

Property is settled on A for life, and after his death on such of his children as he shall appoint, and in default of appointment to all A's children equally. A appoints that the property shall go after his death to his widow for her life, and after her death to two of his sons, C and D, in equal shares. There are five children of A. The appointment in favour of A's widow is invalid, and the rents and profits of the property during her life will go to all the five children in equal shares, but after her death to C and D absolutely.

117. Where the donee of a special power purports, in exercise of the power to confer a larger interest than is authorized thereby, such appointment shall, if the appointee so elect, be void only for the excess, and good for the residue, if they can be separated.

Illustrations.

(a). A has a life-interest in Rām-nagar, with power to grant leases thereof for 30 years. A makes a lease of Rām-nagar for 50 years. Such lease is good for 30 years only.

(b). A having a life-interest in Rām-nagar and Sultānpur, with power to grant leases of Rām-nagar for 21 years, grants a lease comprising both Rām-nagar and Sultānpur for 21 years. After A's death the lessee may, if he thinks fit, elect to retain the lease as a lease of Rām-nagar only, till the end of the 21 years.

(c). A having power to charge Rām-nagar with Rs. 7,000 charges it with Rs. 8,000. The appointment is good for the Rs. 7,000, but not for the residue.

118. Where, by an appointment under a special power, interests authorized and also interests unauthorized are created, and the interests authorized cannot be distinguished from those unauthorized, the whole is void.

Illustrations.

(a). A fund is settled on A during his life, and after his death on his children as he shall appoint. A appoints the annual income for the benefit of his son B and B's wife and children, in such manner as trustees shall think fit. The appointment is wholly void.

(b). Under a similar settlement, A having legitimate children by B, his wife, and others by C and D, his concubines, appoints the property to be divided among his children by B, C and D, the shares of the sons to be double those of the daughters. Here the interests authorized and unauthorized cannot be distinguished, and the appointment is wholly void.

119. When a person exercising a special power annexes to the gift a condition or qualification which is not authorized by the power, the gift is good and the condition or qualification only is void.

Illustrations.

(a). A, having a power to appoint a fund among his children, gives a part of it to his son B on condition that B shall settle it on B's children. The condition is void, and the gift is absolute.

(b). A, having a power to appoint a fund to a limited class of objects of whom B is one, appoints it to B, adding a condition that B shall release a debt owing to him by A, and also pay Rs. 1,000 to C. The appointment is good; but the condition is void.

120. Where the donee of a special power purports, in exercise of the power, to appoint to persons not objects of the power, and by the same instrument gives to the persons entitled, in default of appointment, to the property comprised in the power benefits out of other property, the persons so entitled shall elect either to confirm such appointment or to dissent from it, and in the latter case they shall relinquish the benefits so given to them.

The rules contained in the Indian Succession Act, 1865, sections 173 to 177, both inclusive, shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to elections under this section.

121. If a beneficial interest in immoveable property, and also a power to let it, are given to the same person, and he grants his interest in the property, he may enter into a contract not to exercise his power.

122. Save as provided by section one hundred and twenty-one, an agreement or undertaking not to exercise a power which is given for the benefit of persons other than the donee is void.

123. Where a power given for the benefit of persons other than the donee is exercised with a view to the benefit, direct or indirect, of the donee, in any mode not intended by the donor, the appointment is void.

Illustrations.

(a). A, having power to appoint a fund in favour of any of her children, appoints the whole fund absolutely to one child, who has previously entered into an agreement with her to give one-half of the fund to A's husband absolutely. The appointment is void.

(b). A, having power to appoint a fund in favour of any of his children, appoints a portion of the fund to his son C, a minor, whom he knows to be suffering from a mortal disease; A being the person entitled to C's property in the event of his death. The appointment is void.

(c). A, having power to grant leases of certain settled land, exercises the power in favour of B in consideration of Rs. 1,000 paid to A by B as a fine or premium. The lease is void, and A holds the Rs. 1,000 in trust for the persons interested under the settlement.

124. If the instrument by which a power of appointment in favour of specified objects is created does not provide for the event of no appointment being made, the property belongs (subject to any appointment that may have been made) in equal shares to the said objects.

Illustration.

A settles property on B for life with remainder to B's children as he shall appoint, and makes no disposition in default of appointment. B has two children, C and D, and appoints Rs. 1,000, part of the property, to C. Then C dies. Then B dies without making any further appointment. After paying Rs. 1,000 to C or his representative, the residue of the property is divisible in equal moieties between D and the representative of C.

125. Where there is a power of appointment in favour of a certain class of objects, and there is also a disposition of the property comprised in the power in the event of there being no objects, if the power is not exercised and there are objects, the property belongs to them in equal shares.

126. Under a power of appointment in favour of several objects, an appointment of the whole property to one or more of such objects exclusively of the others is valid:

Provided that, where the assurance creating the power declares the minimum amount or value of the share from which no object of the power is to be excluded, the appointment shall be invalid so far as it excludes any such object from any such share, and no farther.

127. Interests authorized to be created under a power take effect when created as if they had been created by the original instrument conferring the power, unless where a contrary intention is expressed therein.

128. A power given to the owner of a limited interest in the property comprised in the power is extinguished when he becomes the absolute owner of such property.

When the exercise of a power given to the owner of a limited interest in property would derogate from a previous grant of such interest by the donee, the power shall be deemed to have been extinguished by such grant.

Illustrations.

(a) Z, tenant for life of certain land with power to charge it with a jointure for his wife, becomes absolute owner of the land. The power is extinguished.

(b) A, tenant for life of certain land with power to grant leases thereof in possession, grants his life-interest in the land to B. The power is extinguished.

CHAPTER XII.

OF PROPERTY HELD BY SEVERAL PERSONS.

129. On the death of one of two or more persons entitled to property in their own right, his share shall become vested in his legal representative, unless the property is held under an instrument which expressly provides that on the death of one, his share shall accrue to the survivor or survivors.

Nothing in this section applies to property belonging to an undivided family.

Illustration.

A and B jointly advance money on mortgage, A contributing one-third. A dies intestate. A's third belongs to his legal representative.

130. When immoveable property is held in possession by co-owners, any one of them may institute a suit in the proper Court, and such Court may direct a partition of the property to be made among the co-owners, and for the purposes of partition may, in order to equalise the value of the shares, direct any money to be paid by one to another or to be charged on one share in favour of another.

If it appear to the Court that a sale of the property and a distribution of the proceeds would be more beneficial for the persons interested than a division of the property between them, the Court may, on the application of any such person, direct a sale of the property.

Nothing in the second clause of this section shall be deemed to authorise the Court to direct a sale of the property of an undivided family.

131. On any sale under the last preceding section, the Court may, if it think fit, allow any of the persons interested in the property to bid at the sale, on such terms as to setting-off or accounting for the purchase-money or any part thereof, or as to any other matters, as to the Court seems reasonable.

132. All sums of money paid under the two last preceding sections may, if the Court think fit, be paid into court.

133. Nothing in this chapter shall affect any local law for the time being in force relating to the partition of estates paying revenue to Government.

134. When undivided immoveable property is held in possession by co-owners and one of them transfers his share or any interest therein, by sale, mortgage or otherwise, the transferee takes the share or interest subject to the right of the other co-owners to enforce a partition of the property; and when such partition is effected, the right of the transferee as such, in the absence of a contract to the contrary by the co-owners, extends only to the share allotted to himself or to his transferor.

135. When one co-owner of immoveable property commits, or threatens to commit, waste on the same without the consent of the other joint-owner, that other may institute a suit to recover compensation for the injury caused to him by the waste, or to obtain an injunction to stay the waste, as the case may require.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF ASSIGNMENTS OF THINGS IN ACTION.

136. No assignment of, or charge on, any debt, or any beneficial interest in moveable property, shall have any operation against the debtor or against the person in whom the property is vested, until express notice of the assignment or charge is given to him, unless he is a party to such assignment or charge; and every dealing by such debtor or person, not being a party to, and not having received express notice of, an assignment or charge, with the debt or property shall be valid as against such assignment or charge.

Illustrations.

(a) A owes money to B, who assigns the debt to C. B then demands the debt from A, who, having no notice of the assignment, pays B. The payment is valid, and C cannot sue A for the debt.

(b) A has jewels deposited with B, a jeweller. A mortgages them to C. A then executes an instrument assigning them to D, who takes it to B and gets the jewels from him before he, B, has received any notice of C's mortgage. B is justified in handing the jewels to D, and C has no remedy against D.

137. Every such notice must be in writing signed by the person making the assignment or charge, or by his agent duly authorized in this behalf.

138. On receiving such notice, the debtor or person in whom the property is vested shall give effect to the assignment or charge, unless where the debtor resides, or the property is situate, in a foreign country and the title of the person in whose favour the assignment or charge is made is not complete according to the law of such country.

139. The person to whom a debt or charge is assigned shall take it subject to all the liabilities to which the assignor was subject in respect thereof at the date of the assignment.

Illustration.

(a). A debenture is issued in fraud of a public company to A. A sells and transfers the debenture to B, who has no notice of the fraud. The debenture is invalid in the hands of B.

140. Nothing in this chapter applies to debts secured by negotiable instruments.

OF APPORTIONMENT.

141. All rents, annuities, pensions, dividends and other periodical payments shall, upon the determination by death or otherwise, of the interest of the person entitled to receive such payment, be apportioned as if they had been made to accrue due from day to day, but to be payable on the days appointed for the payment thereof.

Nothing in this section shall affect any express provision in any instrument binding on such person.

HIS HONOR THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF BENGAL, presiding,
 The Hon'ble H. J. REYNOLDS,
 The Hon'ble A. MACKENZIE,
 The Hon'ble S. C. BAYLEY,
 The Hon'ble BABOO ISSER CHUNDER MITTER, RAI BAHADOOR,
 The Hon'ble BABOO KRISTODAS PAL, RAI BAHADOOR,

 The Hon'ble RAJAH PRAMATHA NATHA ROY, BAHADOOR.

POWERS OF SETTLEMENT OFFICERS AS TO ENHANCEMENT OF RENT.

THE HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS postponed the motion, which stood in his name, that the Bill to define and limit the powers of settlement officers in respect to the enhancement of rent be further considered and passed.

LICENSE TAX ON TRADES, DEALINGS, AND INDUSTRIES.

The HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE moved that the report of the Select Committee on the Bill for licensing trades, dealings, and industries within the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill, and that the clauses of the Bill be considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The motion was agreed to.

On the motion of the HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE the following paragraph was added to section 1 :—

"Parts I, II, and V of this Act apply to all the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal including the town of Calcutta; Part III Application. applies to all such territories except the town of Calcutta; and Part IV applies only to the town of Calcutta."

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL moved the insertion, after the word "land" in line 6 of section 4, of the words "or to any person who may receive rent in agricultural produce." The object of the amendment, he said, was to exclude persons who depended for their livelihood upon agriculture or the rent of land. But as the words of the section stood the receiver of rent did not come within the scope of the section. In many cases the rent of land was paid in kind, and the rent-receiver had to sell the produce so received by him in order to realize his rent. He might not keep a shop or stall for the sale of such produce, but he had nevertheless to sell the produce; and in the same spirit in which the cultivator who had to sell the produce of his cultivation was not taxed under this Bill, the rent-receiver who had to sell the produce which he received from the cultivator in payment of rent should not be taxed. It was in that view that this amendment was proposed.

After a slight discussion, on the suggestion of the HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE the following words were added to section 4, in lieu of the words proposed by the mover of the amendment :—

"or to any receiver of rent in kind in respect of the sale of produce received as such rent."

On the motion of the HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE the following words were added to section 10 :—

"The local Government shall have power to declare what shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the language of the district."

THE HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE moved the insertion, after the word "person" in line 1, section 13, of the word "firm," and also the omission of the last sentence of the same section, "but each member of a firm shall be chargeable with reference to his individual share of the earnings of such firm," and the substitution for it of the following words :—

"And in the case of a firm, payment by any one of the partners shall, for the purposes of this Act, be considered payment by the firm."

He said that, when he introduced the Bill, he stated that the tax was not to be a tax upon households, firms, or partnerships, but upon individuals. That principle had been adopted originally to avoid complications in the interior, where the fact of partnership was often difficult to settle, being a matter rather of status than of contract. The Select Committee had adopted and retained the principle, because it had the practical effect of making the tax upon licensees of the first class assimilate in weight of incidence to the tax upon licensees of the lower grades. Objections had, however, been taken to the provision within the last few days, on the ground that it tended to convert a license into an income tax. The Council would gather from what he said at its last meeting that he did not personally feel pressed by the arguments adduced, depending for their value, as they did, upon the special meaning to be attached to the terms "license tax" and "income tax;" but the Government deemed it desirable to keep this Bill, as a Government measure, upon the basis of those passed for Upper India in the Supreme Council, at least so far as this point was concerned, and therefore he brought forward this amendment.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said he did not object to the amendment, but he submitted that it would be consistent if the same principle were extended to payments by Hindu joint families. The inequality in the incidence of the tax was made still more apparent than before by the provision now proposed to be introduced. A person who carried on business in joint partnership would now avoid personal liability by means of one payment for all the members of the firm, and the reason for the introduction of this provision was that the capital with which they traded was joint. Now, poor artisans whose sole capital was their skill and labour, though they might form members of a joint undivided family, would have to pay under the law a personal tax—that was to say, a fee for each member of the family, though their individual gains went to a common stock, and the joint family was supported with the earnings of all the members of it. When the principle of personal liability was introduced in the Bill and also discussed in Select Committee, he understood the reason to be that by recognising the personal liability of the higher classes of merchants and traders who would be liable to the rates, the tax would comparatively fall much more lightly on the poorer than on the richer classes, and the inequality in the incidence of the tax would thus be adjusted. It was, however, now proposed, with regard to the higher classes of assesses, to withdraw the principle of personal liability, but it remained intact as regarded the poorer classes. It was true that the artisans, though forming members of a joint family, might carry on individually their own separate industries. But as members of a joint family, he submitted that they occupied the same position which the partners of a firm did. And it being considered just to recognise the principle of joint liability in the case of a partnership firm, he thought it would be equally just to recognise the same principle of joint liability in the case of members of a joint undivided family. He believed that this principle was recognised by the last Income Tax Act; and holding as he did that it was a correct principle, he desired to see it recognized in this Bill; he would therefore move the insertion of the words “or joint family” after the word “firm” in the first and third lines of the amendment moved by the hon’ble mover of the Bill.

The HON’BLE MR. JENNINGS observed that the amendment of the hon’ble mover seemed to meet the difficulty which had been felt in reference to the assessment of the individual members of a partnership firm, and for his part he would give it his unqualified approval.

The HON’BLE MR. BROWN said he thought the hon’ble member might be congratulated upon having removed a very objectionable feature from the Bill. The provision under which each member of a firm would have been chargeable with reference to his individual share of earnings, besides multiplying the burden in a manner such as, he ventured to think, was never contemplated by the framers of this Bill, would have introduced the very element and provoked exactly that species of discontent which the originators of the measure had shown special anxiety to avoid. By replacing in section 13 the wording of the corresponding section of the Northern India License Act, the hon’ble member had, in this particular, saved a good Bill from being spoilt. He bore in mind His Honor’s admonition that it was not within the province of this Council to discuss questions of policy; and with regard to the details of the Bill, he wished only to say that he did not quite agree with the increase from Rs. 200 to Rs. 500 in the assessment of the higher classes of traders,—an alteration which, bearing in mind the cogent reasons which in an earlier stage of their proceedings were urged against such change, would, he took the liberty to think, have been better left alone. At the same time he did not think that, under the present revised conditions, the enhancement would press very hardly upon the class it affected; he had not moved any amendment to the provision; and he did not suppose it would meet with more serious objection than that which must naturally attach to an admittedly unnecessary imposition.

Upon the whole he was glad to be able to say that he thought it would have been difficult to have contrived means for providing the requisite funds by a measure less objectionable than that now before the Council. The loyal readiness to respond to this call of the State had already, upon a previous occasion, been expressed in eloquent terms by the hon’ble member to his left on behalf of his countrymen in Bengal, and he felt sure he was expressing the sense of the European community of this city by giving similar testimony on their behalf.

The HON’BLE BABOO ISSER CHUNDER MITTAL said he had one observation to make with reference to the amendment proposed by his hon’ble friend opposite (Baboo Kristodas Pal). The hon'ble member in charge of the Bill had, it would be seen, an amendment to put forward with reference to clause 3 of section 39, which he thought would quite meet the objections which had been taken. BABOO ISSUR CHUNDER MITTER thought that when the members of a joint family conducted together the same business, they would come under the same category as members of a partnership firm; but where they conducted different businesses, and followed different occupations, he did not see why they should not be separately taxed under this Bill.

The HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE observed that it appeared to him that the hon'ble member who last spoke exactly hit the objection to the acceptance of the amendment moved by the hon'ble member opposite (Baboo Kristodas Pal). The members of a partnership or firm, whose relations depended upon definite contract, were well known and might be ascertained. But commensality, and not joint working, was the bond of connection between the members of a joint Hindu family. The members of such a family might be scattered widely apart and pursue various occupations; some of them might be engaged in trade, some might be artisans, and some in the Government service, and it would therefore be impossible, if the Hon'ble Member's suggestion were adopted, to assess the tax with any certainty in any such case. The Select Committee had met the case of the Act operating oppressively in respect of members of the same family by providing that the Government might frame rules for modifying (that was to say reducing) the fees chargeable to them when living and working together, and MR. MACKENZIE thought that would practically meet the whole object of the hon'ble member who had moved the second amendment.

After some further discussion the Hon'ble Baboo Kristodas Pal's amendment was negatived, and the Hon'ble Mr. Mackenzie's motion was carried.

The Hon'ble Mr. Mackenzie's amendment was then agreed to.

Section 19 related to appeals.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL moved the omission of the words, "or to some officer specially empowered by the local Government in this behalf," in lines 5 to 7, and the substitution therefor of the following:—

"Who may either dispose of it himself or may refer it for disposal to a bench of not less than three Municipal Commissioners of the town in which the person making the appeal may ordinarily reside."

He said it might be in the recollection of the Council that when the Bill was introduced he raised the question of appeals, and that it was conceded that an appeal should be allowed to the Collector from the decision of officers subordinate to him. The Select Committee were agreed upon that point, but considering that there might be cases in which the Collector might not have sufficient time to hear appeals, the majority provided that the Government should be empowered to appoint special officers to hear appeals. Now, his object in proposing that the Collector should hear appeals in all cases if practicable, was chiefly that he should have a direct personal interest in the working of the law. If the appeals were heard by himself he would be in a position to know how the Act was practically working, but if appeals were referred by him to another officer, his personal knowledge would not be improved. And as it was very desirable that the responsible officer of the district should be thoroughly acquainted with the working of the law, BABOO KRISTODAS PAL thought every opportunity should be given to him for that purpose. It might be said that, in preparing the list and other initiatory work, the Collector would direct his subordinate officers, and thus acquire the necessary knowledge. But the Collector would perhaps issue general instructions, and the subordinate officers would be charged with the initial work. It was one thing to work the law with one's own hands, and another thing to do it by means of subordinate agency. And he for one was persuaded that the people would have confidence in the working of the law if it were directly supervised by the Collector. For these reasons he had suggested that appeals should in all cases be heard by the Collector. But it was pointed out to him that in large districts, such as the 24-Pergunnahs for instance, the Collector was overwhelmed with work, and he might not be able to find time to hear appeals; and it was therefore necessary to assist him by the appointment of special officers for the hearing of appeals. In order to meet such special cases, he would suggest that the Collector in any such district should be authorized to refer appeals to a bench of three Municipal Commissioners. The only objection to such a course he had heard was that the Municipal Commissioners might not be quite trustworthy; and that as the Government wished that the law should be properly enforced, the Collector or some other officer would be the proper person to hear appeals. With due deference to the hon'ble mover of the Bill, BAHAD KRISTODAS PAL submitted that if the Collector were vested with the discretion of selecting particular Commissioners for hearing appeals, the agency employed would be such as to obviate the objection the hon'ble member had taken. Besides, if the Municipal Commissioners were fit to administer the municipal funds, to hear appeals in cases of municipal assessment, and to do all other work in connection with municipalities, he did not see how they could be considered unfit to hear appeals under this Act. In the suburbs of Calcutta and in Howrah, and in other large towns, there were also Deputy Collectors of experience who were members of the Municipal Commission, and if the Collector wished, he might associate one of the Deputy Collectors with two non-official Commissioners to constitute a Bench for the hearing of appeals under the Act. All that he would ask the Council to consider was that whatever agency was provided by law for the hearing of appeals it should be such as to command the confidence of the people; and if the Collector did not in special cases possess the necessary leisure to hear appeals, he thought a bench of Commissioners to be selected by the Collector would command confidence. On these grounds he thought that the hearing of appeals should be delegated to some other authority only when the Collector had not the necessary time to hear them himself, and that a bench of three Municipal Commissioners should be such authority.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said it did not appear to him that the amendment would be an improvement upon the procedure provided by the Bill, or be calculated to effect the object the hon'ble member had in view. The amendment merely provided for the hearing of appeals in mofussil towns; so that it would be necessary that the Collector himself should hear appeals in all other places,—a work for which the Collector could hardly find sufficient time. On the other hand, the hon'ble member was quite willing that the Municipal Commissioners, who should hear appeals, should be selected by the Collector himself. But in that case there might be just as much objection to the hearing of appeals by a bench of Commissioners so constituted as if the appeals were heard by officers specially appointed by the Government, which officers would be appointed on the recommendation of the Collector. MR. REYNOLDS therefore did not think that the amendment would be an improvement upon the section.

The HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE said he concurred with the last speaker that the amendment under consideration was hardly called for, and was rather inconsistent with the professed wish of the hon'ble member opposite, that the Collector should be compelled to make himself acquainted with the working of the Act by conducting its operations personally. The effect of the amendment, if adopted as it stood, would be to nullify by a side wind the proposals of the Select Committee. For the municipalities in the mofussil were few and far between, and the Collector would himself have to hear all appeals in places where there was no municipality. At the same time he agreed that we should as far as possible avail ourselves of the agency of Municipal Benches for the hearing of appeals under this Act where municipalities existed, and he was willing to give power to the Collector to refer appeals to a Municipal Bench. But he was not sure that this was the best place in the Bill in which to put the amendment. He thought the amendment would come better under section 27, which related to municipalities, by adding a provision that the returns, when prepared by Municipal Commissioners, should be deemed to be the list under section 10, and that the Collector should have the power of referring appeals against such list to a bench of three Commissioners selected by himself. MR. MACKENZIE thought that that would meet the hon'ble member's wishes.

The amendment was then by leave withdrawn, on the understanding that an amendment of the nature of that stated by the hon'ble mover of the amendment would be introduced in section 27.

Section 22 provided for the recovery of fees and penalties.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL moved the omission of the words "either as if they were arrears of land revenue or." The effect of the amendment, he said, would be this, that all sums due on account of license-tax should not be recoverable as arrears of revenue, but by sale and distress of the moveable property of the person liable to the tax. He thought it would be admitted that if a person was assessed to the annual sum of Rs. 50 for license tax, he was possessed of goods and chattels of sufficient value to satisfy the demand of the Government. A tax of Rs. 50 per annum implied an income of Rs. 2,500, and in any trade which would yield an annual income of Rs. 2,500, surely the stock-in-trade would be of sufficient value to satisfy the demand. It would, he thought, be inconsistent with the principle recognized by this Council, in the case of the Road Cess Act and the Public Works Cess Act, to realize arrears of license tax by the sale of land or by turning a man out of his hearth and home. If there had been the merest shadow of a difficulty in realizing the tax in the cases to which he had referred, he would not have considered it proper to offer any objection to the provisions of this section. But as no such difficulty had been experienced, and as he was perfectly satisfied that the stock-in-trade of a person who was assessed to a tax of Rs. 50 would be considerably more than sufficient to meet the demand, he thought it would not be right to give power of this kind for the recovery of the tax, the goods and chattels of the assessee being more than sufficient for the realization of the amount due.

The HON'BLE MR. MACENZIE said he would call the attention of the Council to the fact that under the Bill passed by the Council of the Governor-General, arrears of license-tax were made recoverable as arrears of land revenue. The Select Committee of this Council had modified that enactment, and provided that arrears of the tax should be so recovered only when the amount exceeded Rs. 50; and his own personal experience in the mofussil had convinced him that it was often impossible to recover such demands by the sale of moveable property, and that it was necessary, for the safety of the revenue, that there should be some more certain means of recovering arrears of the tax.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said that as the hon'ble mover of the amendment had stated that he would not have proposed it if there had been a shadow of a difficulty in recovering arrears by the sale of moveable property, he hoped the hon'ble member would withdraw his amendment when it was pointed out that the recovery of sums due above Rs. 50 did not only include the assessment of tax on incomes above Rs. 2,500, but it also included the amount of fines, which might come to three times the amount of the annual license tax, and would thus cover the recovery of sums from persons whose earnings were considerably below Rs. 2,500.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said that the hon'ble mover of the Bill had observed that from his experience as a revenue officer, difficulty was really felt in the mofussil in realizing Government demands without the sale of immoveable property. Now, the Road Cess Act, as BABOO KRISTODAS PAL had observed, had been in operation since 1871, and he believed the revenue officers had with singular unanimity testified to the smooth working of the Act; and he had not heard any question raised as to the difficulty of realizing the road cess without the sale of the immoveable property of defaulters. Now, in the case of traders the difficulty would be still less, because the trader must have the stock with which he carried on his trade, and it could not be concealed; it was required in the pursuit of his daily avocations; and if a demand of Rs. 50 for license-tax could not be realized by the sale of his stock-in-trade, BABOO KRISTODAS PAL thought that such a man ought not to be assessed at all. Then the hon'ble member who spoke last had pointed out that sums which might be realised under section 22 would include not only the amount of the tax, but also penalties, and that in some cases the amount of penalties might be twice the amount of the tax. Admitted. Still, the difference between Rs. 50 and the earnings which would carry a tax of, say, Rs. 16 or Rs. 20 was so great that the stock-in-trade of the licensee ought to be sufficient for the recovery of the arrear. And if the stock-in-trade was not sufficient, then it was clear that the man should not be taxed at all. It would be simply cruel to turn a man out of his hearth and home when he had not the means to pay the license tax. To suppose that he could conceal his goods and still carry on his trade would be an arbitrary assumption; the man must live by his trade, and if he traded, then he must keep his shop open.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said that he was unable to support the amendment. He understood his hon'ble friend to say that if there had been any difficulty in collecting the road cess or the public works cess, he should consider it a valid reason for retaining the provision as it stood in the Bill. HIS HONOR must ask him to accept his assurance that with reference to both those cesses the one great difficulty which had been represented from every quarter was the impossibility of collecting those taxes under the present law, and the absolute necessity of altering the law as soon as possible. He was overwhelmed with applications from all quarters in that respect, and, although he had abstained for some time from proposing any alteration in the law, in order to see whether it was possible to avoid the necessity for an amendment, there was very little reason to suppose that he could continue to do so much longer. And he had deferred bringing in a Bill for the amendment of the law in consequence of these difficulties until after exercising the utmost patience; until he had seen whether, with a little more time and trouble, we might not be able to avoid proposing any alteration of the existing law. He was certainly under the impression that the one difficulty which was felt by all who had to administer the law was the absolute impossibility of recovering arrears by any system of distress and sale of moveable property.

The Council then divided:—

		" THE PRESIDENT.

So the amendment was negatived.

The consideration of the proposed amendment to section 28 was postponed until after the consideration of the amendment to section 30.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL moved the omission from the end of section 30 of the following words:—

"The said Commissioners or Magistrate may also appropriate any part of the revenues of their municipality, station, or union, for the payment of any sum leviable from it under section 28; and if the sum so leviable is not paid at due date, the Local Government may order it or any part of it to be deducted from any funds standing to the credit of the municipality, station, or union in any Government treasury."

He thought it would not be conducive to the interests of municipalities to make them contractors for the collection of the license tax in the manner proposed in the Bill. He was quite aware that it was not obligatory on the Government to avail itself of the agency of municipalities in the assessment or collection of the tax. In regard to Calcutta alone was it made imperative. But as the Government might at its discretion avail itself of the municipal agency, he thought it would only be fair that a municipality, when required to collect the tax, should only serve as the collecting agency, and not act as contractor, in default of the performance of whose contract the municipal funds would be liable to seizure. Perhaps in practice the Government would prefer to act independently of mofussil municipalities; but where it might be deemed otherwise, he did not see why the Government should not in the usual way give a percentage to municipalities for the expense and trouble of collection. If municipalities should enter into contract, or take a farm of the collections, and if they were told to recoup themselves for loss of time and trouble and expense incurred by any excess collections which might come to them over and above the sum stipulated for by the Government, he thought the municipalities would be tempted to work the law in such a manner as to prove oppressive to the people in order to make it productive to themselves. He admitted that where it might be necessary to employ the agency of municipalities for the collection of the tax, it might conduce to economy on the part of the Government. But it was not clear why the Government should seek to effect economy by burdening the Municipal Commissioners; for if the Commissioners were remiss in the collection of the tax, the rate-payers would suffer. On these grounds he would suggest that wherever the Government availed itself of the municipal agency, it should give a remuneration in the shape of a percentage on the collections, but in no case should the municipal funds be rendered liable to attachment for the realization of the license tax.

The HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE observed that the hon'ble member was labouring under a misapprehension. The ordinary course of procedure would be very much what the hon'ble member wished. The Collector might call on a municipality to prepare a list of licensees, but the final settlement of the tax in each man's case would rest with the Collector. The gross demand upon any municipality would only be the sum of the individual assessments thus determined, and from such gross demand Government would deduct a percentage to be allowed to the town for expenses of collection, risk and trouble. No town would be able to interfere to raise the assessments of individuals. But when the sum to be paid by any municipality was once ascertained, it was proposed to leave an option to the municipality of recovering the tax as assessed, or of providing any portion of it from their ordinary municipal funds. They would thus be able, if they chose, to relieve certain classes of their assessment—a provision rather in the interests of the poor than against them. There might not be many towns in Bengal that could afford this, but the provision was harmless. When, however, it came to a question of how Government should realise the contract sum accepted by any town, Government must insist in the interests of the public revenue on having a power of recovering it without fail. It could not place itself absolutely in the hands Municipal Committees, or run any risk of suffering from their laches.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said his hon'ble friend, the mover of the Bill, had observed that the system of contract which the Bill permitted was in the interest of the poor, and that it ought to be in the option of a Municipality which had a surplus in hand to pay the amount of the tax out of such surplus. None knew better than his hon'ble friend that very few Municipalities, in fact scarcely any in Bengal, had such an overflowing treasury as to be able to pay off the license tax out of its surplus on behalf of the people residing within the limits of the municipality; and therefore to justify the provision on such an imaginary ground was, he could not help saying, begging the question. Moreover, he did not see why municipal funds, which were paid by the rate-payers, should be devoted to the payment of the license tax, as if it were the personal property of the Commissioners. The Commissioners might be very remotely considered as the representatives of the rate-payers of the municipality, they being nominees of Government, and if they did not do their duty in collecting the license tax, why should the municipal fund be made liable? He thought the justice of the provision was very questionable.

The Council then divided:—

" THE PRESIDENT

So the amendment was negatived.

To section 28, on the motion of the HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL, the following words were added:—

" after such deduction for necessary expenses as the local Government may fix."

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL was about to move that the following be substituted for section 37:—

" The nett amount of all fees and penalties paid or recovered under this Act, after deducting the expense of collection, shall be carried to a separate fund, and shall be applied towards the payment of interest due upon the famine loans of 1874-75, and of 1877-78, and towards the redemption of such loans in such manner as the Governor-General in Council may direct. An annual amount of such payments shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette for general information."

This, he said, constituted the most important section in the Bill. It referred to the appropriation of the proceeds of the tax, and with regard to it, it was expected that some light would be thrown in the other Council. That light had now been vouchsafed, and he left it to hon'ble members to say whether they considered the light given sufficient for the purposes of the Bill. For his part—

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT was of opinion that the subject which the hon'ble member wished to discuss was beyond the scope of the Council. Was it then useful to take up the time of the Council with any debate on the point? It would certainly place this Council in a false position were they to sit in judgment on the acts of the Governor General's Council.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL inquired whether this Council was not competent to discuss the question.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT replied that they could discuss it, but it would lead to no practical result, and it would therefore be a mere waste of time.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL considered that when the people had been called upon to pay the interest on money to be expended for famine works—

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said he was not aware that there was anything before the Council to show that that was the case. The Government of Bengal had been asked to levy a certain sum of money in accordance with a scheme laid down by the Government of India for meeting the cost of or preventing if possible future famines, and the sanction of the Governor General had been obtained to the introduction of a Bill for that purpose and not for raising money to pay off old loans.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said that his authority was no less a one than the statement of the Hon'ble the Financial Member himself, and the preamble to the Bill. It was true that there were no papers before this Council on the subject, and as His Honor the President was unwilling that the matter should be discussed, he would not press his remarks.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said he did not wish to stop his hon'ble friend, but he had no objection to take the sense of the Council as to whether the discussion on the subject should go on. Under no circumstances could such a discussion lead to any practical result or consequence, and therefore it seemed very desirable to avoid it.

THE HON'BLE MR. BAYLEY said that if the hon'ble member withdrew his amendment and admitted it was ultra vires, there was no necessity for him to tell the Council the reason why he did so.

The motion was then by leave withdrawn.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said that on the same ground he proposed to withdraw the motion, of which he had given notice, to insert the following section at the end of the Bill, namely—

"This Act shall be in force for five years from the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette, with the assent of the Governor-General."

His object in proposing that amendment was to assert the propriety of limiting the action of the Bill to five years, with a view to give time to Government to retrench expenditure, and at the end of five years to allow this tax to lapse. But this also involved a question of policy; and on the ground upon which he had withdrawn the last amendment he would also withdraw this one.

The amendment was by leave withdrawn.

Section 39 empowered the local Government to make rules for certain purposes.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL moved to omit clause 1 of the section which stood thus:—

"for defining more precisely the classes of persons liable under this Act."

He was of opinion that this clause trenched on the province of the Legislature: the class of persons to be taxed should be defined by legislative enactment and not by executive orders of the Local Government.

THE HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE explained that the Government could not by its rules bring classes of persons under the operation of the law who were not carrying on trades, dealings, or industries. In all measures of taxation the Government had either explicitly or implicitly reserved power to exempt certain classes from their operation. The object of the provision was to prevent the law from operating oppressively on any classes of persons who the Government might think ought not to be subject to the tax. It was a power of exemption which the Government might exercise without any provision of law, but it was considered desirable for the sake of symmetry to provide for this object by executive rules framed under the sanction of the law.

The motion was put and negatived.

On the motion of the HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE the word "reducing" was substituted for the word "modifying" in clause (3) of the same section.

The HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE said that he had received a communication from some members of the Calcutta Trade's Association, who were doubtful whether they would be liable to the tax as wholesale dealers or as shop-keepers. They were taxed at present under the Municipal Act as shop-keepers, and the intention of the Bill was to keep to the principle of that schedule. The question of whether a man was a wholesale or a retail trader was one of fact. Any person who sold goods for cash by retail was certainly a retail trader, however large his occasional orders might be. To make it more clear that under Class I. it was only meant to touch wholesale business of all kinds he would move that class I in Schedule A be altered so as to stand thus—

Schedule A, Class I.—"Every joint-stock company; every banker; every wholesale merchant, dealer, commission agent or manufacturer; every professional money-lender; every ship-owner; and every mill-owner, or screw-owner."

The motion was agreed to.

On the motion of the HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE the words "engaged in any trade, dealing, or industry" were substituted for the words "engaged in trade, or commerce" in classes II, III, and IV of the same Schedule.

The HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE then moved the substitution of the following for Class I of Schedule B:—

Schedule B, Class I.—"Every joint-stock company; every banker, shroff, or banian; every wholesale merchant, dealer, commission agent, or manufacturer; every builder; every contractor; every carrying company; every owner or farmer of hauts or bazars; every owner of cotton, jute, hide, or other screws; every ship-owner or dock-owner, or owner of chowks; and every auctioneer."

On the motion of the HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL the following memorial, which had been received from certain owners and farmers of hauts and bazars, was read:—

"That your memorialists observe with regret that in Schedule B of the License Tax Bill now before your Honor's Council 'owner or farmer of hauts and bazars' is included in class I as being a person carrying on 'trade, industry, or dealing'.

"Proprietors of bazars or markets are, as your Honor in Council is well aware, simply owners of land, who charge rents for the use and occupation of the grounds or buildings thereon by vendors of articles. They do not carry on any 'trade, dealing, or industry,' and as land has been specifically excluded from the scope of this Bill, your memorialists fail to perceive why owners and farmers of hauts and bazars in Calcutta have been included in the Schedule. They may observe that they had not been included in the License Act of 1867 or the Certificate Act of 1868.

"It is true that the owners and farmers of markets are subject to the municipal license tax, but the reasons and objects of the municipal license tax and provincial license tax are different. The municipality renders conservancy service, and employs a sanitary agency for the examination of articles exposed for sale in a market, and it is therefore meet that the proprietors of markets should be made to contribute to the municipal fund. But the provincial license tax includes within its purview trades, dealings, and industries, and as ownership of land or house, whether used for a market or any other purpose, does not fall within the meaning of the License Bill, it cannot be consistent with the declared policy of Government to exempt land from this tax, and bring under its operation proprietors and farmers of markets in Calcutta.

"Your memorialists therefore pray that proprietors and farmers of markets be excluded from Schedule B of the Bengal License Bill."

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said the petition which had been just read sufficiently explained the reasons why proprietors and farmers of bazars should not be brought within the scope of the Bill. The avowed object of the Bill was to tax the trading classes, inasmuch as the landed classes had been reached under the Public Works Cess Act. Now, the owners and farmers of markets could not under any construction of the words "trades, dealings, and industries" be taken to fall within that category, and as the Council had thought fit not to include the landed classes in the territories subject to the Government of Bengal within the scope of the Bill, he did not think it right or proper to include the proprietors and farmers of markets in Calcutta. It was true that they were included in the schedule of the Calcutta Municipal Act, but that, he submitted, was no ground for including them in this Bill. As explained in the memorial which had just been read, there was good reason why the owners and farmers of markets were included in that Act, because special services were rendered by the Municipality to those proprietors, namely, by conservancy arrangements and by the inspection of the produce sold in and the sanitary condition of the markets by the Health Officer's Department and also by the general improvements made in the town. But these considerations did not apply to the imposition of this license tax, and as no class of landed proprietors were included within its scope, he thought that the proprietors and farmers of markets in Calcutta should be similarly exempted from its operation, and he would therefore move the omission from Class I, Schedule B, of the words "every owner or farmer of hauts or bazars."

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT observed that the owners and farmers of markets were exempted from assessment under the Public Works Cess Act, and now wished to be exempted from the License Act. They wished to escape as landowners from the one, as inhabitants of towns from the other. Looking at the names attached to the memorial, he could not say that they were persons who could properly claim to be exempt from special taxes to which all classes having a permanent interest in the country had been subjected.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL explained that wherever there were municipalities in the mofussil the road cess was not levied within their limits, because the construction and maintenance of roads as well as conservancy arrangements were met out of the proceeds of the municipal rates and taxes.

THE HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE observed that the simple reason why this class fell under Schedule B was that it was assessed under the schedule of the Calcutta Municipal Act and classed there with persons carrying on "Professions, Trades, and Callings." To this no objection had apparently been raised. The owners of bazars did not sublet them in specific plots for definite terms at fixed rates of rent. They often had on the contrary a direct interest in the profits derived from markets, whether they themselves collected the fees paid by the vendors therein, or had leased out their rights to such fees. It would have been considerably more to the purpose of the memorialists if they had stated that they had no interest in the profits derived from the sale of produce in the markets of which they were owners or farmers.

THE HON'BLE MR. BAYLEY thought that it was stretching a point to say that they, the owners and farmers of markets, took rent for the shops and stalls in such markets; he believed that they rather took fees for the sale of produce. Moreover, it should be considered that at present these gentlemen paid nothing either under the Road Cess Act, or under the Public Works Cess Act, and now it was contended that they were not to pay any thing under this Bill in respect of the trades and dealings which were carried on in the markets of which they were the owners and farmers. So that they would get off in both ways. For these reasons as he could not agree in the amendment which was proposed, and he would vote against it.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT asked if the hon'ble mover of the amendment was prepared to say that the memorialists, and those whom they represented, only took rents for the shops and stalls in their markets, and not fees for the sale of produce therein. He believed that most of them, besides taking rent for the fixed shops within the markets, took a daily fee from all chance comers and squatters for permission to sell their produce, or that, if they did not take these fees directly, they farmed out the right to levy them.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL observed that as far as he was aware there were two kinds of market rents—first, monthly rents for shops, godowns, and fixed stalls; and secondly, a daily rent from vendors of such articles as vegetables and fish, who were not regular in their attendance at the market. Generally rents were received in money; sometimes in kind. But in whatever form it was taken, it was rent and not profits on the sale of articles. And, as he had before explained, the reason why the owners and farmers of markets were included in the schedule of the Calcutta Municipal Act was that the Municipality rendered special services, that was to say by conservancy arrangements, the inspection of articles sold in the markets, and by general sanitation.

The HON'BLE BABOO ISSER CHUNDER MITTER said it seemed to him very doubtful how these owners and farmers of markets came to be included within the list of professions, trades, and callings, specified in the schedule to the Calcutta Municipal Act, but the fact was there they were. He was not quite sure whether the farmers of hauts and bazars did not derive some profit from the sale of produce in them. In all markets the vendors had to pay something to the farmers who came in daily, but whether such payments were composed of rents, or of rent and profits, he was not quite sure. He was inclined to think that the gains of farmers were composed both of rent and profits. Municipalities in the mofussil were so small and few that it might be said that there the owners and farmers of hauts and bazars had to pay road cess in some form or other and public works cess; whereas the owners or rather farmers of markets in Calcutta had no such cess to pay. On these grounds he was not quite prepared to support the amendment.

The Council then divided on the amendment :—

So the HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL's amendment was negatived, and the HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE's amendment was carried.

On the motion of the HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE verbal amendments were made in classes III and V of Schedule B.

The HON'BLE NAWAB MEER MAHOMED ALI said that although he had not given notice of any amendment, he wished to be allowed to move that in section 27 of the Bill, which authorized the Collector to require returns of the persons liable to the tax from Municipal Commissioners and panchaits, all mention of panchaits should be omitted. He had no objection to such returns being called for from Municipal Commissioners; but he had seen so many instances of oppression on the poor practised by mofussil panchaits, that he must object to any such power as that contained in this section being conferred on them.

After some conversation, the motion was put and negatived.

On the motion of the HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE the following words were added to section 27.

“Such return, when finally accepted or settled by the Collector, shall be deemed to be the list referred to in section 10.

On the presentation of a petition of objection under section 17 by any person entered in such list the Collector may either dispose of it himself, or may refer it to any officer specially empowered by Government under section 19, or to a bench of not less than three Commissioners, whose decision shall be final.”

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL withdrew the amendment, of which he had given notice, to omit from the preamble of the Bill the word “permanent” before the words “increase of the revenue.”

The HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE said he thought it would be found that nearly all the amendments made were practically verbal amendments or changes of so slight a character that it might be safely considered that, with one exception, the clauses of the Bill had been settled in the form recommended by the Select Committee. This exception was a relaxation of one of the clauses of the Bill by which payment of the tax by one member of a firm constituted payment by all of them. In adopting this principle the Council had followed the lines laid down in the Bill passed by the Governor-General's Council. But this was not such a material alteration as to make it necessary to defer the passing of it, and as it was essential that there should be no further delay in the matter, he would apply to his Honor the President to suspend the rules for the conduct of business to enable him to move that the Bill be passed.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT declared the rules suspended.

The HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE then moved that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said he could not allow that occasion to pass without saying a few words on the Bill. He had given his adhesion to the Bill, on the ground that the demand had been made by the Government of India in the sacred name of humanity, and, whatever differences of opinion might exist as to the form of the tax and the details of the Bill, he thought there could be but one opinion as to the necessity for raising the money and the obligation resting upon the people to respond to the call thus made upon them. But in the progress of the Bill circumstances had transpired, in regard to which he considered it his duty to protest against the passing of the Bill.

He thought that the Government owed it to the people over whom it held sway, to explain whether these taxes should be a permanent burden upon them, or whether it might not be possible to remit the taxes, say at the end of five years, by making necessary retrenchments. None was better aware than His Honor that there was ample room for economy, and His Honor had himself raised his voice in the other Council in the cause of economy. If the papers were correct, he believed the Government of India was also anxious to press upon Her Majesty's Government the necessity of enforcing economy. He thought he would not be doing his own duty as a representative of the native population in this Council, if he did not say that there was a wide feeling growing in the country that the Indian tax-payer was being sacrificed for the sake of the exigencies of the Imperial policy of England. It would not be denied that the home military charges of India had been increasing year after year against law and equity, if those charges were adjusted on a fair and equitable basis; if, again, reduction were made in the Indian army, which had been long advocated by Government, and other retrenchments carried out, savings might be effected which would yield much more than the sums which would be produced by the new measures of taxation. Such being the case, he thought it would have been gratifying to the people, who had so loyally accepted the burden, if the Government had given them an assurance that at the end of, say, five years, the new taxes would be remitted. On that ground he had proposed to move that the operation of this Bill should be limited to five years; but he was grieved to find that it was not open to him to make such a motion.

Then, when the Bill was originally introduced, its object was stated to be to save life by executing insurance works against the Famine; and he might say that his countrymen, whom he had the opportunity of consulting on the subject, had agreed with him that they should render every co-operation in the furtherance of that humane object. But how was that object to be brought about? They had been at first told by the hon'ble the Financial Member that the money to be raised by the new measures of taxation would be religiously applied to the execution of works in the nature of an insurance against famine; but they were now told that the Government would invest the fund in the construction of public works in the same manner as heretofore. But, have the public works hitherto executed proved an insurance against famine? He read in the last Gazette of India a despatch of the Secretary of State recommending the appointment of a Famine Commission, in which the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State said:—

"In the reports which your Excellency has forwarded me from time to time, I find much to lead me to believe that the very cause which produced the famine in many cases has made irrigation works wholly or partially ineffective. The same want of rain, which parched the fields, emptied the tanks and lessened the value of the rivers."

This opinion of the Secretary of State cleared up the point as to whether it would be advisable to spend more money or not upon irrigation works. In regard to railways, BABOO KRISTODAS PAL fully recognised their value in connection with famines. But he observed in a recent number of the Gazette of India that while more than fifteen millions had been spent in a few years on State Railways, the nett charge upon the Revenue, in other words the deficit upon this account, amounted to about half a million per annum; and if more money were spent upon these unproductive irrigation and railway works, there would be a larger and larger charge upon the revenues of the country. It might be that in the fulness of years some of those railway schemes might prove sufficiently productive; but the question was whether the money to be raised by proposed taxation, if invested in the extension of public works, would yield a sufficient return to meet the interest upon the loans that might be required for famine purposes once in ten years, estimated at fifteen millions.

It would have been satisfactory if the Hon'ble the Financial Member had explained what sort of works would be undertaken by the Government as an insurance against famine. But he himself raised the question and answered it in this way—"if he were asked to describe the works that would be undertaken, he could not give an exact reply." Thus the hon'ble Financial Member, though speaking as the exponent of Government, did not know what would be the nature of the works that would be undertaken, and yet we were called upon to impose taxes for works of which no one could be sure whether they would be a real insurance against famine or not. There were other points in connection with this Bill which BABOO KRISTODAS PAL would not touch upon here, as it would take up the time of Council without any direct result. But upon the two grounds which he had stated, namely, that the tax was to be made permanent, and that the fund was to be applied to the construction of public works, that in fact the new tax was to be an addition to the Public Works Cess imposed last year: upon those two grounds he felt it to be his duty to protest against the passing of the Bill. So far as Bengal was concerned, this measure involved a double injustice. We had been led to hope that the cess of last year would suffice for works which were intended to be in the nature of an insurance against famine, but it would be seen that such was not to be the case. Then again it was stated in the other Council on Saturday last that if contingencies should arise, the famine fund might be applied to general purposes of the State, but the establishment of a statutory fund would fetter the hands of the Government, and might consequently tend to complications or additional taxation hereafter; so that practically, this tax, though originally intended for famine purposes, would be so much addition to the general revenues. He said if the general revenues were not sufficient, the Government should have openly declared its position and called upon the community to strengthen its hands. But it was not consistent to take money for famine purposes and apply it to works which might not prove an insurance against famine, or to purposes to which the general revenues were applicable. On these grounds he considered it his duty to protest against the passing of the Bill.

The Hon'ble RAJA PRAMATHA NATHA ROY BAHADOOR said that before the motion was put, he would also protest against the passing of the Bill on the grounds which had been already stated by the Hon'ble Member who preceded him, particularly as it sought to impose a permanent tax, to which on the ground of its permanency his countrymen, as far as he could judge from the organs of native public opinion, were also opposed.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT must say that he had been taken somewhat by surprise by the action taken by his hon'ble friend, because he could find no sort of justification for his change of policy in any thing that had been said by the Financial Member of the Governor General's Council or by any member of the Government of India, or by himself. He must say that he understood that the natives of Bengal, and especially his hon'ble friend, fully recognised the impossibility of the Government carrying on the large system of railway and irrigation works necessary to prevent famines in future, and of relieving future famines on the principle which no one had more loudly urged upon the natives of Bengal, without an increase of means, and that they were anxious and willing in common with the people of other parts of India to bear their share of the burden, and place the Government in a position to obtain those means. There was no doubt that with respect to economy there was a great deal of truth in what his hon'ble friend had stated. But that was not an idea peculiar to himself. It had been continually noticed by His Excellency the Viceroy, by Sir John Strachey, by himself (the Lieutenant-Governor) and others, and it was a matter that was receiving the most earnest attention on all sides. A great part of His Honor's time was now spent in trying how far they could reduce expenditure in the administration. Expenditure in the Army and in the Home charges were matters with which it was not in his power to deal, and he doubted whether it was in the power of the Government of India to deal with it altogether. But he was sure that the subject was receiving the serious attention of the Government of India, and that the Government would do what it could in these directions. No one could be more anxious on the subject than His Excellency the Viceroy. His hon'ble friend seemed to him to draw a distinction between what he called expenditure on works for preventing famines, and expenditure on public works. His Honor must confess he could not understand what his hon'ble friend meant by works for the prevention of famine. His Honor's idea was that it meant works of irrigation in dry countries where irrigation was wanted, and works of communication, railways and feeders chiefly, which would have the effect of enabling people, in parts of the country where there was a good harvest—and there were fortunately places where there were always good harvests—to transport their grain to other parts of the country where there had been bad harvests; and he could not conceive how any one who had seen what had been transpiring within the last few months could hesitate to say that, whatever had been done in Madras in the way of saving human life, had been done through the help of railways, and he could not help feeling that without those railways Madras would have been left in just as helpless a condition as Orissa was during the famine there some eleven years ago.

His hon'ble friend had quoted the remarks of the Secretary of State for India to show that expenditure upon works of irrigation was next to useless, but he had quoted a single sentence favourable to his view from the despatch on the Famine Commission and had not given a correct idea of the Secretary of State's views. His Honor found that the Secretary of State mentioned that the Government had expended sixteen millions sterling upon irrigation, and he went on to say:—

“The financial results of these undertakings have varied remarkably. The earlier works, especially those which have been constructed in the localities already selected for that purpose by the earlier rulers of the country, have been singularly profitable. According to the estimate now before me, the Eastern Jumna Canal has yielded 36 per cent., and the Western Jumna 27 per cent.”

No doubt, as had been observed, there had been places in which schemes of irrigation had been carried out, and had been proved to be exceedingly unprofitable. But the charge for those schemes had been already met by the Public Works Cess, and no portion of the money to be raised on the present occasion could, by any possibility, be expended on those unprofitable irrigation works of Orissa. As to future irrigation, it might be quite accepted as a fact that money now raised would be entirely expended upon works which were desired by the people, and upon which there would be an unquestionable return. In regard to the works of irrigation which had been proposed during His Honor's time, he had always refused to act until the people themselves had come forward and asked for the scheme, and the only new schemes which had been commenced lately had been the works in regard to which the people themselves had been the first to move; and in one case had actually guaranteed the whole of the interest on the money which would be expended, and in the other case, they were still considering whether they should do so.

As regards the question whether the money raised under this Bill was to be devoted to paying off a loan for money expended on one work or another, was of very little matter. He fancied that the Government was determined to do its duty to the country, and proceed with the construction of public works; and the only question was whether they should be entirely paid for by future generations or partly by the present generation. A certain amount would be annually expended in opening out the country by means of railways and canals, which would have the effect of making the country comparatively safe from the effects of future famines. Now, the money raised under this Bill would go to the purpose of making railways and other public works, which would otherwise have to be made from money raised by loans. Under the present system, they were made by what were called extraordinary loans, which were very strictly limited to works which were of a remunerative character; and instead of raising that money, as now, by means of loans, a large proportion of it would be paid out of the revenues raised by new taxation, and the country would be saved from so much of debt, and when famine did arise would be able to borrow anything that was necessary to meet it, without adding to the debt of the country anything more than would have been added if nothing was spent for famines, and the same amount hitherto spent was spent on preventive works. It was calculated that the amount which would be thus paid off would be sufficient to meet the cost of famines when they arrived. One and a half millions less of debt in 10 years would give the 15 millions which, it was calculated, might have to be spent on famine in the next ten years. And it might be hoped that if in the meantime this money so collected was judiciously invested in public works, whether they were directly or indirectly remunerative, all the horrors and much of the outlay of future famines could in time be averted. He could not conceive that his hon'ble friend really would prefer that the money should be locked up in a strong box and kept there for ten years. We would then find ourselves in the same helpless condition, without roads, canals and railways, or any means of transporting grain from one part of the country to another.

As he had said before, he did not understand to what part of the scheme his hon'ble friend objected. There seemed to him to be not the slightest difference between discontinuing to borrow money for works, which all admitted were required, and which must be made, and paying off the interest upon old loans. It seemed to His Honor a most selfish policy for this generation to throw upon posterity the cost of paying for famines which did not occur in their time, and that would be the result of meeting famines by continually, instead of yearly, raising fresh money to meet them whenever they arose. He thought the views of his hon'ble friend, which, as he said before, seemed selfish, were entertained by very few of his fellow-countrymen and by very few of the Members of this Council, and he hoped that the Bill now before them would be passed.

He understood that his hon'ble friend did not object to pass the Bill for five years, but objected to pass it without a limit of time.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said he wished to say one word by way of explanation. He wished to point out the difference in the circumstances since the introduction of the Bill which had led him to modify his opinion in respect to it; that there was now no guarantee, in the way the appropriation section was worded, and the policy which had been lately announced, that there would not be further increase of taxation when a famine should arise hereafter, there being in consequence of that policy no positive insurance against famine.

The Council then divided:—

Read—

Letter dated 17th December 1877, from Surgeon-Major J. Ewart to Sir Joseph Fayrer, K.C.S.I., on the subject of the expenditure of the General Hospital.

Letter No. 1548, dated 18th January 1878, from Surgeon-General, Indian Medical Department, submitting a statement showing the value of medical stores issued by the Medical Store Department to the hospitals and dispensaries of Calcutta during the past ten years.

IN the Resolution on the Annual Administration Report of the Medical Institutions of Calcutta and the Suburbs for 1876, the Lieutenant-Governor had occasion to remark on the unsatisfactory and imperfectly explained statements of expenditure which had been submitted for the different hospitals and dispensaries. It was seen that the gross expenditure bore apparently no proper ratio to the numbers relieved, as charges which had originally risen with increasing calls on the hospital resources were found to have gone on increasing with diminished numbers of patients. Thus it was observed that the gross number of patients treated had fallen from 313,462 in 1875 to 310,016 in 1876, while the gross charges had risen from Rs. 4,88,835 to Rs. 5,07,473. The most conspicuous instances of apparently extravagant administration were found in the Sealdah and General Hospitals; but the Lieutenant-Governor expressed his apprehension that none of the metropolitan medical institutions were free from waste and pilfering of expensive drugs. The first-named hospital has, in consequence of the apparent necessity for an increased grant, since formed the subject of full and most careful enquiry; the facts have been thoroughly sifted, and the Lieutenant-Governor has, after the most anxious consideration, pronounced his decision. The Lieutenant-Governor has also had one branch of the expenditure of the General Hospital since 1870, that relating to European medicines, examined by a Committee consisting of Dr. Cockburn, Deputy Surgeon-General, Dr. Elliot, Surgeon Superintendent, and Dr. French, Civil Surgeon, 24-Pergunnahs. The report of that Committee disclosed some very remarkable figures. It was shown that between 1871 and 1872, with an increase of 21 in the daily average number of European in-door patients, there was a rise in the cost of European medicines from Rs. 6,717 to Rs. 11,308; that, while the total daily average of sick was about the same in 1873 as in 1870, the cost of European medicines was Rs. 14,453, against Rs. 6,426; and that in 1874, while the gross daily average of all in-door and out-door patients was one less than the daily average of in-door patients, all Europeans, in 1872, the cost of European medicines was Rs. 17,804, against Rs. 11,308. The Committee submitted no explanation of the causes of this extraordinary increase, while the solution suggested by the Surgeon-General was found to be erroneous. The Lieutenant-Governor therefore deemed it necessary to desire that the subject should be thoroughly examined by the Committee to which the enquiry regarding the Sealdah Hospital had been entrusted, assisted by an experienced officer of the Accounts Department. To this course the Surgeon-General demurred, on the ground that it would be "unfair to the Superintendent, who has been hitherto encouraged in a very liberal expenditure, to overhaul his management upon totally opposite principles, without affording him the opportunity of changing the system, so as to bring it into greater agreement with the rigid economy required under the new régime." The Lieutenant-Governor has first to remark that this plea begs the whole question of the causes of the particular increase to which attention was specially directed. Nothing that has yet come to light has shown that any encouragement was held out to the Superintendent (Dr. Ewart) in the matter of an excessive expenditure of European medicines; nor is it possible to conceive how any encouragement, had such been given, could justify the administrative head of a great institution in more than doubling the average expenditure on European medicines in the course of three years. Dr. Ewart claims to have shaped his administration generally on certain orders recorded by Sir Richard Temple in September 1874 and March 1875; but those orders had no reference whatever to the expenditure of medicines, and they were issued after the expiry of the period during which the circumstances which, in Mr. Eden's opinion, require investigation occurred. The Lieutenant-Governor has no intention of prejudging the case: but he considers that the figures above quoted are such as call for careful examination with the view as much of rectification in the future as of explanation in the past. While the Lieutenant-Governor readily admits that the officers officiating as heads of the hospitals at the present moment have done much in the last few months to reduce expenditure, the enquiries which he has prosecuted into the subject of hospital and medical expenditure generally have confirmed him in the apprehension expressed in the Resolution above referred to, and convince him that the whole question requires most careful and detailed consideration, in order that the rapidly increasing cost of this branch of the administration may be brought back to the limit, which it has long overstepped, of the actual wants of the public. He has therefore nominated for this purpose a Committee to consist of the following members:—

Mr. J. O'Kinealy	President.
Mr. D. M. Barbour	} Members.
Surgeon-Major A. J. Payne
" " J. M. Coates
" " J. J. Jones
" " S. Coull Mackenzie
Mr. C. Macaulay, Secretary

2. The first duty of the Committee will be to institute a careful enquiry into the administration of each hospital and dispensary in Calcutta and the Suburbs during the past ten years. The following points are noted for consideration:—

General control and management.	The system of superintendence, its kind and cost. The subordinate staff, its kind and cost. The details of daily work as it is now done by subordinates and servants, and the cost.
The daily duty done by	superintending and subordinate nurses. The effect of the nursing system in reducing previous staff of ward attendants.
Nursing.	The extent to which nurses are utilised in superintending the custody of clothing and stores, and in watching the distribution of diets and medicines.
	The source from which the cost of the nursing system is defrayed.
In educational hospitals, the precise relation in which hospital officers, who are also teachers, stand to the administrative head of the institution, and the regularity or otherwise of their attendance in the wards.
Educational officers.

The agencies to which the charge and keeping of the stores are committed and by which the issue of these stores is directed. What officer presides in the dispensary during the compounding of medicines, and who governs the issue of these to the patients? Generally, what precautions are taken to guard against neglect or dishonesty in respect to these stores? Who checks indents for medicine, and what evidence is considered sufficient that medicines said to have been expended during a year have actually been so? Does the Examiner of Medical Accounts exercise any efficient influence over expenditure of medicine? The same questions as to control, care, custody, and inspection of surgical instruments. Is stock taken by a commissioned officer of medicine or instruments in the intervals between the indents; if so, how often and by whom?

Similar enquiries should be made with regard to bazar medicines, cloth, &c., purchased for the hospital. How are these procured? Who settles the terms of contract? By whom are daily supplies inspected and passed for use? What power of punishing purveyors is exercised and by whom? Who superintends the issue of diets and extras in the wards, and what precaution is taken against fraud? Is diet checked by the Examiner of Medical Accounts? How are wines, spirits procured? In whose charge are they kept and by whom issued to the patient? Who presides over the cook-room? Are the working establishment and the apparatus economical and efficient? Is diet issued to any but actual in-patients of the hospital, or is the hospital crowded by the admission of relatives and friends of patients?

Who directs the purchase and maintenance and what becomes of condemned articles? In whose charge is stock kept, and when and by whom is inspection made?

What is the method of purchase, of inspection and custody, the period of stock-taking and the precautions against robbery. In whose charge is clothing in use in wards, and how is it changed? The Committee should enquire generally into the management of clothing and disposal of condemned articles or their conversion to ulterior uses.

Who determines the cases to be admitted, and by what principles is it governed? What precautions are taken against unnecessary admission, that is, of trivial or incurable cases, and generally are the wards so managed in this respect as to serve to the utmost possibility the needs of the sick poor of the town? In old and incurable cases what is done? May it not be desirable to abolish the lying-in ward at the General Hospital, when proper accommodation for the obstetric ward is furnished at the Medical College Hospital? This should be specially considered with reference to the danger of having such wards in the centre of hospitals for general diseases.

The Committee should suggest means of preventing persons living on the public by passing from one institution to another, and generally of guarding against the hospitals being used as almshouses. Give a return of all cases which are now in hospital for over 9 months with a report as to the probability of any cure in such cases.

What private accommodation exists in any of the hospitals and what classes use it? What rates of payment are required, and what precautions are taken against abuse of public charitable hospitals by persons able to pay for private attendance?

It should be understood that the Lieutenant-Governor does not intend this list of heads of enquiry to be taken as exhaustive, and that the Committee will be at liberty to consider and report on any point which they may think fairly falls within the sphere of a Commission of Enquiry or may be suggested by officers in charge of particular institutions.

3. In addition to a report on the administration of each hospital, the Lieutenant-Governor wishes the Committee to draw up a general scheme for the management of these institutions on a uniform system. They should prepare forms of diet sheets and extra statements which shall show the head of the institution daily the expenditure of the previous day; scales of diet for the several races; and forms of stock inspection books. They should provide for the separate recording of expenditure on in-door and out-door patients under all heads, so as to include medicines, and especially arrange that some individual be so charged with every class of article expended, that personal responsibility may be fixed and indisputable in case of loss. They should also consider the question of private practice in its relation to hospital duty and superintendence. It is probable that loss and destruction of clothing arises from the long intervals between the condemnation and replacement of stores, which lead to accumulation of useless articles and the purchase of large quantities at one time and to consequent difficulty of close observation by superiors; the Committee should lay down a minimum period, which should perhaps not exceed three months. It should be provided that, with full personal responsibility exacted from him, the Superintendent be not fettered and other officers harassed by the convening of outside Committees on clothing and the like. The Committee should consider the possibility of having clothing for the different hospitals and institutions manufactured in jails, of a distinctive pattern and mark which would render them unsaleable in the market. The names and offices of all persons connected with public hospitals, who are interested in private dispensaries, should be ascertained. The officering of the subordinate officials, apothecaries, stewards and clerks should be enquired into. The advantages or otherwise of the supposed control over hospital and dispensary expenditure exercised by the Examiner of Medical Accounts should be carefully considered.

With these indications of the Lieutenant-Governor's views on particular points, the Committee will understand that they are expected to enquire into every branch and department of hospital administration, and to point out any circumstances in which they think alteration desirable. The Committee will be empowered to require the attendance before them of any medical officer under the Government of Bengal whose evidence or opinion they may desire to take. The Government of India will be asked to allow the Examiner of Medical Accounts to appear before the Committee and supply the members with such returns and papers as they may require.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor would wish the Committee if possible to extend their enquiries to Medical Schools, Charitable Dispensaries outside Calcutta, Lunatic Asylums and Vaccination. These branches of their enquiry should be taken up after the question of Medical Institutions of Calcutta and the Suburbs has been disposed of, and their recommendations should be embodied in one report for each branch. In connection with expenditure outside Calcutta, the Lieutenant-Governor wishes the Committee to give their special attention to the manner in which indents for medicine and medical stores and instruments are prepared, submitted and checked, and the manner in which they are complied with, especially in regard to the allegations which are from time to time made of delay in the Medical Store-keeper's Department. The more general substitution of native medicines and drugs for European medicines in dispensaries, especially in out-dispensaries under native doctors, should be thoroughly considered. In pursuing their investigations under these heads, the Committee will be empowered to require through the Surgeon-General the attendance of, and to examine, any officer connected with the administration of the various departments under enquiry.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

HORACE A. COCKERELL,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF CHARITABLE DISPENSARIES IN BENGAL DURING 1876.

MEDICAL.

Calcutta, the 18th February 1878.

READ—

The Report by the Surgeon-General on the working of the Charitable Dispensaries in Bengal for the year 1876.

Read again—

The Report on Charitable Dispensaries for 1875.

At the close of 1875, 207 permanent dispensaries were open in Bengal, 23 new dispensaries were established during 1876, one old dispensary was reopened, and one was closed, so that at the end of the year 230 dispensaries were open for the purposes of charitable relief. Of temporary dispensaries there were 34 open at the beginning of the year, but 25 were closed during the year; the remaining nine being maintained as permanent dispensaries in the districts of Burdwan and Midnapore. This decrease was due to the abatement of the malarious fever which had for some years prevailed in Western Bengal.

2. It is not at all clear that an increase in the mere number of dispensaries is of itself a matter for congratulation. There is too much reason to believe that the multiplication of branch dispensaries in places where frequent inspection is impossible has resulted in a low standard of efficiency, and that the practice of treating the number of patients in attendance as the test of the popularity of the native doctor in charge of the dispensary has led in some cases to the fabrication of returns to such an extent that the statistics of outlying dispensaries are regarded by good authorities as entirely fallacious. Doubtless it may be urged that even the large number of dispensaries now in existence is inadequate to the requirements of the people for medical aid, and that a certain amount of laxity of supervision, with its accompanying evils, is one of the necessary conditions under which medical relief must at present be administered. But Mr. Eden considers that this view cannot seriously be maintained. It is far more important that in each district there should be a few dispensaries situated at well selected points, and kept under strict control in respect of the treatment of patients and the expenditure of medicines, than that the country should be covered with institutions which do not command the confidence of the people, and which too often operate to prevent private practitioners from establishing themselves in the neighbourhood. It is true that the dispensary committees might exercise a searching control over the medical subordinates in charge, but practically they have failed to do so, and the present state of things is consequently far from satisfactory. The Lieutenant-Governor looks to Dr. Irving, the newly appointed Surgeon-General for these provinces, to go carefully into the question of maintaining these outlying dispensaries, and to consider whether any means can be devised for attaining greater efficiency without unduly contracting the sphere of gratuitous medical relief.

3. The number of charitable dispensaries in which in-door patients were received rose to 146 in 1876 against 135 in the previous year; the number of dispensaries treating out-door patients only being 224 against 198. This increase of in-door accommodation is satisfactory.

4. Among the 230 medical officers in charge of dispensaries there were 55 assistant surgeons, 24 hospital assistants, 141 apothecary and vernacular licentiate class native doctors, and 8 native doctors locally entertained. Thirty-two native doctors were added to the staff during the year, and the number of hospital assistants was decreased by eight. Under recent orders of the Government of India, the employment of military hospital assistants in civil work will be discontinued, and all native doctors who have received a professional education will be absorbed into a new service of civil hospital assistants. No difficulty need be apprehended in meeting the requirements of Bengal in respect of medical subordinates from the existing medical schools; and it is anticipated that there will be some demand from other provinces for civil hospital assistants educated in Bengal. It is satisfactory to find that the percentage of medical subordinates who could keep their records in English rose during 1876 from 94 to 97 per cent. Every effort should be made to induce these men to keep up their knowledge of English and to study English medical works. The number of good medical treatises in the vernacular is trifling, and as the knowledge of English spreads the demand for such works is continually decreasing.

5. The following statement shows the number of in-door and out-door patients treated in the dispensaries of Bengal in the six years from 1871 to 1876:—

YEARS.	In-patients treated.	Out-patients treated.	Total.	Mortality among in-patients per cent.
1871	17,802	405,323	423,125	15.41
1872	18,118	430,177	448,295	16.07
1873	20,240	598,470	618,710	16.22
1874	23,812	636,269	660,131	16.84
1875	22,009	608,730	630,739	16.89
1876	23,012	800,275	823,287	16.81

Reviewing the results of the entire period, it appears that the number of in-patients was greatest in 1874, probably in consequence of the distress in that year, and the prevalence of epidemic fever in Western Bengal, that it fell by nearly two thousand in 1875 and increased by one thousand in 1876. For in-door patients, therefore, the normal rate of increase from all causes appears to be nearly 1,000 yearly. It has been remarked that the statistics of out-patients treated at dispensaries are open to considerable suspicion, and the figures quoted above certainly seem to give some support to this view. It is hardly credible that the number of persons applying for out-door relief at dispensaries should have risen from four hundred thousand to eight hundred thousand in a period of six years, during which period Assam was formed into a separate province and passed out of the Bengal returns. Some portion of the increase in 1876 may doubtless be attributed to the outbreak of cholera in South-Eastern Bengal, and to the inclusion of the returns of fresh dispensaries; but even after making allowance for these causes the Lieutenant-Governor can hardly believe that the figures accurately represent the medical relief afforded to the poor of these provinces during the last six years.

6. The percentage of women and children attending dispensaries, both as in-door and out-door patients, rose slightly in 1876; while the proportion of men treated as out-door patients was less by three per cent. than in the previous year. The decrease in the proportion of men was probably due to the general healthiness of the season and the abatement of malarious fever. Within the last six years there have been but slight variations in the percentage of women among both classes of patients, and it can hardly be expected that, under the present system of dispensary management, that proportion will rise much above twenty per cent. Financial considerations must for a long time render it impossible to provide such complete privacy in charitable dispensaries as would induce women of the higher castes to avail themselves readily of medical aid at a public institution, and the proportion of male patients must, therefore, continue to exceed largely that of females.

7. Out of the total number of in-door patients treated during the year, 68.36 per cent. were cured and 16.81 died, the remainder being returned as otherwise accounted for. These figures show only slight variations on the results of previous years. Nine dispensaries in the Presidency Circle, five in the Dinapore Circle, and three in the Dacca Circle, had a death-rate of more than 30 per cent. of the number treated. The highest death-rates recorded during the year were 59.54 per cent. at Goalundo, 53.19 at Titilya, and

49·23 per cent. at Barrackpore. Taking the causes of mortality, dysentery caused the largest proportion (22·25 per cent.) of the total number of deaths against 25·21 in 1875, cholera standing next with a death-rate of 20·65 per cent. against 13·72 per cent. in the previous year. It is stated that the cholera prevalent in 1876 was of a more fatal type than that of the previous year, but the Lieutenant-Governor understands that the returns cannot be accepted altogether without question. The proportionate mortality from diarrhoea, fevers, and dropsy shows only slight variations.

8. The report shows that 2,400 major and 37,929 minor surgical operations were performed in 1876 against 2,321 and 34,118 in 1875. Of the major operations, 14·2 per cent. were performed by the Superintendents of Dispensaries, and 85·7 per cent. by the medical subordinates. The mortality among the patients who underwent major operations was 3 per cent., or one per cent. less than in 1875.

9. The financial position of the dispensary funds is on the whole satisfactory. Excluding the floating balance and the cost of the medicines and printed forms supplied by Government, it appears from the statement below that the actual income of the dispensaries during the last three years has exceeded the expenditure:—

			Income.	Expenditure.
			Rs.	Rs.
1874	3,36,197	3,32,840
1875	3,74,902	3,59,979
1876	3,77,017	3,75,270

Out of the year's income Rs. 1,22,527 were contributed by Government; Rs. 33,841 were contributed by local funds, municipalities, and town committees; Rs. 27,403 were realized from the interest or sale of investments; native subscriptions amounted to Rs. 1,20,878, and European subscriptions to Rs. 25,138. There was a slight decrease in the proportion of the total income contributed by Government and in that derived from European subscriptions; while the proportion accruing from native subscriptions rose by nearly 4 per cent. Against this increase, however, is to be set a decline of 4·43 per cent. in the proportion contributed by municipalities. The cost of medicines and books supplied by Government amounted to Rs. 63,615 against Rs. 64,058 in 1875; but, besides this, medicines to the value of Rs. 6,393 were supplied to dispensaries in the fever districts and to dispensaries from which no returns have been received, so that Government really expended on this account Rs. 70,008. The sums invested in savings banks or in Government securities during 1876 amounted to Rs. 16,342, and in addition to this there was a balance of Rs. 1,01,865 in hand at the close of the year. The expenditure of the year exceeded the income in the case of two dispensaries only. The entire question of dispensary management will shortly be considered by the Committee appointed to inquire into the administration of the Calcutta medical institutions; and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that definite rules may be laid down to regulate the supply of medicines on the most economical system that is consistent with efficient relief.

10. In the Presidency and Dinapore Circles the duty of inspecting dispensaries was carefully performed by the Deputy Surgeons-General; but the officer in charge of the Dacca Circle inspected only four out of seven sudder dispensaries and two out of 27 outlying dispensaries. Making full allowances for the difficulty of travelling in Eastern Bengal, and for the Assam work, which falls upon the Deputy Surgeon-General of the Dacca Circle, the Lieutenant-Governor regards this result as extremely unsatisfactory. The Civil Surgeons have paid more attention to inspection than was the case in the previous year; but there is still considerable room for improvement, and it should be remembered that, in the absence of efficient control by the dispensary committees, the only check on the medical subordinates in charge of dispensaries is constant inspection by the Civil Surgeon. The figures cited by the Surgeon-General show that, with few exceptions, the committees have as yet failed to recognise the duty of holding periodical meetings to enquire into the affairs of the dispensaries for which they have made themselves responsible, and there is too much reason to fear that in most cases their supervision is little more than nominal.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor proposes to utilise the services of the Inspector-General of Jails and the Sanitary Commissioner as ex-officio Inspectors of Hospitals and Dispensaries, and hopes that, as these officers will have to visit nearly every station in Bengal in the ordinary course of their official inspections, something may with their assistance be done to secure uniformity of management and increased efficiency in the supervision of local Committees throughout the country.

In many places considerable damage has been done to the poppy plant by Moorka : about 1,000 beegahs of plant have been destroyed, which would have yielded about 120 maunds of opium. The Sub-Deputy Opium Agents have been asked to report further regarding the damage done to the poppy crop. The Manager of the Hutwa Raj Estate, who has just come in from camp, reports very favourably of the crops in that part of the district, in which, but for the winter rains, severe distress might have been looked for. The prospects of sugarcane and indigo have improved owing to the late rainfall.
	31 Chumparan, „ 16 „	0.25	The sky is overcast. Weather is becoming warmer during the day. The slight shower of rain on the 10th instant has largely benefitted the rubber and poppy crops, in consequence of which the prices of food-grains have been lowered a little.

42	Singbboom, " 15 "	Nil	Weather—seasonable. Nothing to report about the crops. The district is healthy.
43	Manbhoom, " 16 "	0.40	Weather—seasonable. Bad accounts have been received of the condition of the people in the west of the district. There can be no doubt of the badness of the season. In the north-west and west of the district the mohwa harvest, if plentiful, will do much to avert distress.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.; the maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard (Newman's No. 86) formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction and movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE, INDIA,
The 18th February 1878.

Reports of Fluctuation of Traffic on the Eastern Bengal Railway for the Month of January 1878.

EASTERN BENHAL RAILWAY COMPANY, TRAFFIC SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE.

Report on the Traffic for the four weeks ending the 26th January 1878.

Dated Calcutta, the 12th February 1878.

From—C. F. CHADBURN, ESQ., (for) Acting Traffic Superintendent,

To—The Agent, Eastern Bengal Railway, Sealdah.

The quantity of goods carried during the above period amounted to Mds. 6,89,612, shewing a decrease of 35,786 Mds. as compared with that carried during the corresponding period of last year, which amounted to 7,25,398 Md. This decrease is owing chiefly to the smaller quantity of rice and sugar carried.

The staples shewing the greatest decrease are grain including rice and bundles and bales of gunny, bales of jute sugar and seeds.

The staples shewing the greatest increase are jute drums, salt, tobacco, turmeric and miscellaneous goods. Foreign Railway material also shews an increase.

Decrease.

Grain, including rice ... Mds. 1,66,152
This decrease is owing to there being no export to Madras as last year.

Bundles Bales.

Gunny ... 725 4,626

This decrease in bundles is owing to less demand in the interior for gunny bags, and that in bales to a lesser quantity arriving from Serajgunge Jute Mills.

Jute, bales ... Mds. 6,071

This is owing to the dull market for bales, the drums however showing a large increase.

Sugar ... Mds. 22,462

This decrease is owing to the lateness of the season, but will improve as it advances.

Seeds ... Mds. 9,070

This staple shows a decrease, but will, I hope, improve as the season advances.

Increase.

Jute, drums ... Mds. 1,28,478

This shows a satisfactory increase, slightly counteracted by the decrease in bales.

Railway material, foreign ... Mds. 11,847

This increase is owing to the quantity of material sent up for the Northern Bengal State Railway.

Salt ... Mds. 7,679

This shows a satisfactory increase as anticipated.

Tobacco ... Mds. 4,469

This increase is also satisfactory, and owing to a large demand in the market.

Turmeric ... Mds. 8,758

This staple shows a very satisfactory increase, and is also owing to large demand in the market.

Miscellaneous ... Mds. 14,606

This increase is in upward, downward and intermediate goods, and is very satisfactory.

I subjoin the usual statement of increase and decrease.

Reports of Fluctuation of Traffic on the Tirhoot State Railway for the Month of December 1877.

TIRHOOT STATE RAILWAY.

INCREASE.

Food-grains	...	Mds. 50,790
The increase in this particular staple is owing to the abundant harvest in Tirhoot, and to the scarcity in the North-Western Provinces.
Hides and horns	...	" 752
This is attributable to the demand in the market; and as the hides from this district are of a superior quality, this traffic promises well.
Indigo	...	" 7,791
This increase is owing to a good season and to opening out of the Mozufferpore extension.
Iron	...	" 1,704
This has principally been for the requirements of the several indigo factories, and has been diverted from the rivers to the railway.
Piece-goods	...	" 3,182
This increase is principally in consignments to Mozufferpore for the Moharrum.
Seeds--indigo	...	" 1,261
This was an early consignment for the Sakra district.
Oil-seeds	...	" 23,814
This increase is attributable to the development of the system and to through booking.
Salt	...	" 3,103
This is double the imports of 1876 and is steadily increasing. This traffic has also been diverted from the rivers.
Saltpetre	...	" 11,686
This increase is due to the demand in the market and to the opening out of the Mozufferpore extension.
Tobacco	...	" 3,613
This staple shows a satisfactory increase owing to the healthy state of the plant grown in Tirhoot and the great demand there is for it.

DECREASE.

Railway materials	...	" 1,334
Owing to completion of the line.

HIGH COURT NOTICES.

Circular Orders issued by Authority of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

CIVIL.

No. 3, dated the 16th February 1878.

From a report recently submitted by a District Judge, it appears that, in the time of his predecessors, the record-room attached to this Court has been allowed to fall into a state of great confusion. No register of the contents of the record-room had been prepared; no system in arranging the records had been followed. The provisions of Circular Order No. 7, dated 4th March 1874, requiring lists of the records sent in by the Lower Courts to be prepared on printed forms of a uniform size and bound into volumes, had been overlooked. The papers, the periodical destruction of which was prescribed by Circular Order No. 26, dated 16th November 1865, and previous Circular Orders of the Sudder Court, had not been touched, though year after year the annual reports contained certificates to the effect that the rules had been complied with. The record-keeper and his deputy had been permitted to delegate their duties to copyists, who were allowed unrestricted access to the record-room, and permitted to do their copying work there, away from the control of the Serishtadar. Irregularities, such as might have been expected in regard to the granting of copies, are said to have resulted.

2. To remedy the irregularities noted above as soon as they were discovered, advantage was taken by the Judge of the Dusserah vacation to employ all the clerks of the Court, who had not taken leave, in making a list of the contents of the racks, and examining, as far as possible, the contents of the bundles. A complete index to the papers, which are now being arranged, is in process of preparation, and something like order is gradually being introduced.

3. It is to be feared that a somewhat similar state of things may prevail elsewhere, and consequently the Judges consider it necessary to direct that steps be taken to ascertain in every Court that the record-keeper is performing his duties thoroughly, and not only so far as is sufficient to prevent the immediate detection of neglect.

4. The Court have to remind the District Judges that the native holidays afford opportunities which may be usefully employed in carrying out inquiries for the neglect of which pressure of business is frequently pleaded, and that it must always be possible to make arrangements for the performance of this duty without interfering with the religious observances of their ministerial officers.

5. The object to be attained is of such importance, that the Court trust that all District Judges will co-operate heartily in securing it. Officers who may hereafter neglect this duty must bear in mind that they will be held personally responsible.

No. 4, dated the 16th February 1878.

In lieu of the monthly return, shewing the number of pauper suits decided in the Civil Courts, prescribed by the Circular Order of the late Sudder Court, No. 22, dated 2nd October 1846, the Court is pleased to prescribe for use the annexed form of quarterly statement to be prepared by the District Judge on account of his own and the Subordinate Civil Courts, and by him forwarded to the Collector of the District concerned.

2. Instead of communicating directly with the Collector immediately on passing a decision in favour of a person suing in forma pauperis, as directed in Circular Order No. 34, dated 30th November 1864, the officer deciding will, in future, within seven days from the day on which the decree is signed, deliver to the Government Pleader a copy of the decree in the case.

Statement shewing the number of Pauper Suits decided in the Civil Courts of the District of _____ during the _____ Quarter of the year 18____, and the amount of Stamp Duty leviable on behalf of Government (Circular Order No. 4, dated 16th February 1878).

RESOLUTION.—In modification of the orders cited in the preamble of this Resolution, the Governor General in Council is pleased to rule that Admiralty charts shall not in future ordinarily be sold to the public by the Marine survey Department, and that the Superintendent of Marine Surveys, when applied to by persons wishing to purchase or seeking information in regard to charts, shall confine himself to furnishing information of the numbers of the charts required according to the Admiralty catalogue, referring intending purchasers to Messrs. No deduction is made if the average commission of a Thoogyee for the last five years of service does not exceed Rs. 600 a year; in such case the pension or gratuity is computed upon the total amount of such average commission.

[Second Publication.]

ACT No. VI OF 1878.

An Act to amend the law relating to Treasure-Trove.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to treasure-trove; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

Preliminary.

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Treasure-Trove Act, 1878."

Short title.

Extent.

It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force at once.

2. The enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the same schedule.

Repeal of enactments.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act—

"treasure" means anything of any value hidden in the soil, or in anything affixed thereto:

"Treasure."

"Collector" means (1) any revenue officer in independent charge of a district, and (2) any officer

appointed by the Local Government to perform the functions of a Collector under this Act.

When any person is entitled, under any reservation in an instrument of transfer of any land or thing affixed thereto, to treasure in such land or thing, he shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the owner of such land or thing.

Owner.

Procedure on finding Treasure.

4. Whenever any treasure exceeding in amount or value ten rupees is found, the finder shall, as soon as practicable, give to the Collector notice in writing—

(a) of the nature and amount or approximate value of such treasure;
(b) of the place in which it was found;
(c) of the date of the finding;

5. On receiving a notice under section 4, the Collector shall, after making such enquiry (if any) as he thinks fit, take the following steps (namely):—

Notification requiring claimants to appear.

(a) he shall publish a notification in such manner as the Local Government from time to time prescribes in this behalf, to the effect that, on a certain date (mentioning it), certain treasure (mentioning its nature, amount, and approximate value) was found in a certain place (mentioning it); and requiring all persons claiming the treasure, or any part thereof, to appear personally or by agent before the Collector on a day and at a place therein mentioned, such day not being earlier than four months, or later than six months, after the date of the publication of such notification ;

(b) when the place in which the treasure appears to the Collector to have been found was at the date of the finding in the possession of some person other than the finder, the Collector shall also serve on such person a special notice in writing to the same effect.

6. Any person having any right to such treasure or any part thereof, as owner of the place in which it was found or otherwise, and not appearing as required by the notification issued under section five, shall forfeit such right.

7. On the day notified under section five, the Collector shall cause the treasure to be produced before him, and shall enquire as to and determine—

(a) the person by whom, the place in which, and the circumstances under which, such treasure was found ; and

(b) as far as is possible the person by whom, and the circumstances under which, such treasure was hidden.

8. If, upon an enquiry made under section seven, the Collector sees reason to believe that the treasure was hidden within one hundred years before the date of the finding, by a person appearing as required by the said notification and claiming such treasure, or by some other person under whom such person claims, the Collector shall make an order adjourning the hearing of the case for such period as he deems sufficient, to allow of a suit being instituted in the Civil Court by the claimant, to establish his right.

9. If upon such enquiry the Collector sees no reason to believe that the treasure was so hidden ; or

if such suit is instituted within such period, and the plaintiff's claim is finally rejected ;

the Collector may declare the treasure to be ownerless.

Any person aggrieved by a declaration made under this section may appeal against the same within two months from the date of the declaration, to the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority.

Subject to such appeal, every such declaration shall be final and conclusive.

10. When a declaration has been made in respect of any treasure under section nine, such treasure shall, in accordance with the provisions hereinafter contained, either be delivered to the finder thereof or be divided between him and the owner of the place in which it has been found in manner hereinafter provided.

11. When a declaration has been made in respect of any treasure as aforesaid, and no person other than the finder of such treasure has appeared as required by the notification published under section five and claimed a share of the treasure as owner of the place in which it has been found, the Collector shall deliver such treasure to the finder thereof.

12. When a declaration has been made as aforesaid in respect of any treasure, and only one person other than the finder of such treasure has so appeared and claimed, and the claim of such person is not disputed by the finder, the Collector shall proceed to divide the treasure between the finder and the person so claiming according to the following rule (namely) :—

If the finder and the person so claiming have not entered into any agreement then in force as to the disposal of the treasure, three-fourths of the treasure shall be allotted to such finder and the residue to such person. If such finder and such person have entered into any such agreement, the treasure shall be disposed of in accordance therewith :

Provided that the Collector may in any case, if he thinks fit, instead of dividing any treasure as directed by this section,

(a) allot to either party the whole or more than his share of such treasure, on such party paying to the Collector for the other party such sum of money as the Collector may fix as the equivalent of the share of such other party, or of the excess so allotted, as the case may be ; or

Provided also, that when the Collector has by his declaration under section nine rejected any claim made under this Act by any person other than the said finder or person claiming as owner of the place in which the treasure was found, such division shall not be made until after the expiration of two months without an appeal having been presented under section nine by the person whose claim has been so rejected, or, when an appeal has been so presented, after such appeal has been dismissed.

When the Collector has made a division under this section, he shall deliver to the parties the portions of such treasure, or the money in lieu thereof, to which they are respectively entitled under such division.

13. When a declaration has been made as aforesaid in respect of any treasure, and two or more persons have appeared as aforesaid and each of them claimed as owner of the place where such treasure was found, or the right of any person who has so appeared and claimed is disputed by the finder of such treasure, the Collector shall retain such treasure and shall make an order staying his proceedings with a view to the matter being enquired into and determined by a Civil Court.

In case of dispute as to ownership of place, proceedings to be stayed.

14. Any person who has so appeared and claimed may, within one month from the date of such order, institute a suit in the Civil Court to obtain a decree declaring his right; and in every such suit the finder of the treasure and all persons disputing such claim before the Collector shall be made defendants.

15. If any such suit is instituted and the plaintiff's claim is finally established therein, the Collector shall, subject to the provisions of section twelve, divide the treasure between him and the finder.

If no such suit is instituted as aforesaid, or if the claims of the plaintiffs in all such suits are finally rejected, the Collector shall deliver the treasure to the finder.

16. Central District—(Contd.)
RAJSHAHYE AND COOCH BEHAR DIV.	10 Dinagore, Feb. 22 '78	Nil	A high, warm wind from the south-west is blowing. Prospects of the spring crops are good. Rice is selling at from 12 to 28 seers the rupee.
	11 Rajshahye, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—clear and cold during the first, but warmer during the latter, part of the week. The rubber crops promise a fair outturn. The seedlings of boro dhon are being transplanted. A few cases of cholera and small-pox have been reported from Nowhatta and Tannore.
	12 Rungpore, „ 22 „	Nil	Weather—becoming warmer. State and prospects of the crops continue to be satisfactory. The recent rain has been very beneficial to all kinds of crops except tobacco and mango. It has much facilitated agricultural operations. Public health as regards fever is good, but some cases of cholera have been reported from the Kurigram sub-division.
	13 Bogra, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—bright and warm, with west and north-west wind blowing. The hail that fell on the 12th instant was not general. Khesari and other pulses are in ears. Nearly one-fourth of the sugarcane has been gathered. Mulberry and ganja plants are thriving. Ploughing goes on actively. A few sporadic cases of cholera were reported during the week.
	14 Pubna, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—hot. Prospects of the rubber crops appear to be promising, but rain is wanted. The harvesting of kuldi is not yet complete. Cholera in the Pubna town appears to have abated.
	15 Dargeeling, „ 22 „	0.31	A good deal of misty weather, with a sprinkling of rain. Just now there is a very high wind, threatening more rain. The ground is being prepared for the rice sowings, and the recent rain will do good.
	16 Julpigoree, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—cool for the time of year. Exceptionally cool as compared to other districts in Bengal. The cold weather crops are good.
Dacca Div.	Cooch Behar, „ 21 „	Nil Dinhutta 0.63 Matha-bhanga, 0.11	Weather—mild and pleasant. It is neither too hot nor too cold, but is becoming warmer in the day time. The tobacco and other standing crops are looking healthier than before, the late rain having revived them considerably. The ground is being prepared for bitri dhon . Public health is improving week after week.
	Eastern Districts
	17 Dacca, Feb. 23 '78	Nil	Weather—much warmer. Heavy fogs almost every morning. State and prospects of the crops are good.
	18 Furreedpore, „ 23 „	0.28	Weather—seasonable. Rain with hailstones fell on the night of the 22nd instant. The condition of the crops now on the ground is generally good. In one or two thannas the cereals are suffering from want of rain.
	19 Backergunge, „ 21 „	Nil	All is well.
	20 Mymensingh, „ 22 „	Nil	Weather—fine, but warmer. Ploughing operations are proceeding. There is little on the ground, except millet. Injury to tobacco has been caused in places by hail on the 12th instant.
	21 Tipperah, „ 22 „	0.20	Weather—cloudy, with wind from the south. Sugarcane is nearly all cut. Winter crops are in good condition. Average price of rice is Rs. 2-12 per maund.
CHITTAGONG DIV.	22 Chittagong, „ 21 „	Few drops.	Weather—seasonable with south wind. Rain is wanted for the cold-weather crops. Price of rice is from 9 to 13 seers per rupee; in the south it is from 12 to 16 seers.
	23 Noakholly, „ 21 „	Nil	Weather—warm. The cold weather northerly winds have been replaced by southerly winds. Pulses, chillies, &c., are progressing favourably. Ploughing for the early rice crop is going on actively. Public health is good.
	24 Chittagong Hill Tracts, „ 19 „	0.90	Weather—seasonable. Cloudy at noon throughout the week. The hillmen are busily engaged in cutting jungle for jooming. Mustard is nearly gathered now.
BEHAR.	25 Patna, Feb. 23 '78	Nil	Weather—seasonable. Strong west wind blowing since the last two days. Prospects of the crops on the whole are good, but in many places caterpillars have completely destroyed kenas (peas), khesaree , and masoor .
	26 Gaya, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—unusually hot. High wind on the 23rd instant; maximum thermometer in the shade 93° 4". Prospects of the rubber crops continue on the whole good, though in parts of the district insects continue their attacks, and masoor has been a failure in the sudder sub-division. Cut and given as fodder to cattle, it is reported to have caused death in many instances. Prices have risen since last report, and there are murmurs of distress. The rubber harvest will bring relief.

No.	District, and date of return.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.
BEHAR—(Continued.)
PATNA DIVN.—(Continued.)	27 Shahabad, Feb. 23 '78	Nil	Weather—generally clear, but occasionally cloudy. Peas and masoor are generally being reaped. Other rubber crops continue promising. Fields are being prepared for sugarcane. Public health is good.
	28 Darbhanga, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—warm, with west wind. Prospects of the crops are good. Prices continue high. Health of the people is generally good.
	29 Mosufferpore, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—getting warm. West wind is prevailing. State and prospects of the rubber crops are satisfactory. The prices of food-grains remain stationary.
	30 Saran, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—clear during the first part of the week, but since the 20th instant the mornings are cloudy. The sun is getting gradually hot. West wind is prevailing. No rain during the week. The rubber crops are doing well throughout the district, especially those along the banks of the Gogra. Peas, mustard and masoor are being harvested; wheat and barley are ripening. In some places slight injury has been done to the rahur by frost. Poppy is in flower, and is giving out pods. The Sub-Deputy Opium Agent of Sevan has reported that about one-third of the entire poppy cultivation, or about 15,000 beeghas, were destroyed by blight. Ryots are engaged in sowing cheena and planting sugarcane. Mango is in blossom. New peas and masoor are coming into the market. Prices are stationary. Public health is good.
BHAGLPORE DIVISION.	31 Chumparun, „ 23 „	Nil	Sky is now and then overcast. There is every probability of rain. Weather is getting hotter daily. Prospects of the rubber crops are the same as before; the average outturn is estimated at 10 annas.
	32 Monghyr, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—warm. West wind blowing. State and prospects of the crops are very good.
	33 Bhagulpore, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—hot and windy by day. Nights are cool. Prospects of the rubber crops are excellent. No material alteration in the prices, which were reported last week to have a downward tendency. Health is good.
	34 Purneah, „ 23 „	Nil	High west wind is prevailing. Prospects continue fair. Sugarcane is being cut in Kisingungu. Tobacco in Arrareah is excellent.
	35 Maldah, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—fair, and getting hot. State and prospects of the crops are generally satisfactory. Price of common rice is rising, there having been much exportation; the average price now is just over 16 seers per rupee. Public health is satisfactory. A few cases of cholera and small-pox have been reported, but no deaths.
	36 Sonthal Pergah, „ 24 „	Nil	Weather—windy and changeable. A good deal of damage has been done to sohra and mango trees by the hail of last week. Small-pox and cholera are bad in Deoghur.
ORISSA.
ORISSA DIVN.	37 Cuttack, Feb. 23 '78	Nil	Weather—fine and hot. No change in the state of the crops and public health since last report.
	38 Poorer, „ 21 „	Nil	Weather—warm for the season. Sarad rice, kulthi , and mandia crops are being harvested. Dalua rice is progressing well on low land. Muong and kalai promise well. Common rice is selling at 14½ to 18½ seers for the rupee. Export of rice to the Madras Presidency continues. Public health is good.
	39 Balasore, „ 22 „	Nil	Weather—fine. Prospects of the crops are satisfactory. A good many deaths, both from sporadic cholera and small-pox, have been reported.
CHOTA NAGPORE.
South-West Frontier Agency.
	40 Hazareebagh, Feb. 22 '78	Nil	Weather—much warmer. The Deputy Commissioner on tour writes that the rain and hail last week damaged the rubber crops in the west of the district. Ploughing is being pushed on.
	41 Lohardugga, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—seasonable and getting warm. The rubber crops have been below the average in the sudder sub-division, and considerably so in the Palamow sub-division. The export of food-grains has been very great, and has forced prices so exceedingly that some hardship is beginning to be felt among labouring classes in parts of the district. A good mohwa crop will avert tress. The high prices of food-grains has given a great impetus to emigration.
	42 Singbhoom, „ 22 „	Nil	Weather—seasonable. Nothing to report about the crops. The mohwa and mango have up to this shown very indifferently, and the jungle fruits are also reported not as plentiful as usual. Coarse rice now sells at 20 seers for the rupee, and labourers and non cultivators are emigrating to the tea districts in greater number than has hitherto been noticed by the Deputy Commissioner. The district is healthy.
	43 Manbhoom, „ 23 „	Nil	Weather—favourable. Nothing fresh to report. If the weather keep up, we ought to have a good mohwa crop, which shall prove a relief. As matters are, there is scarcity of food for the poorer class owing to high prices in the north, north-west, west, and south-west of the district, and to a less extent in some other pergunnabs.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h and 22h.; the maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard (Newman's No. 86) formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction and movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Reports of Fluctuation of Traffic on the East Indian Railway from 1st to 26th January 1878

EAST INDIAN RAILWAY TRAFFIC MANAGER'S OFFICE, CALCUTTA, 15th FEBRUARY 1878.

Remarks on Traffic of East Indian Railway from 1st to 26th January 1878.

THE approximate figures are—

	Coaching.		Goods		Total.
	No.	Rs.	Mds.	Rs.	Rs.
1876	442,309	6,66,123	26,12,181	31,42,079	38,08,119
1877	522,408	10,34,038	50,52,444	20,52,254	51,06,292
Increase	79,099	3,67,915	24,40,263	7,10,175	12,98,173
Decrease

The coaching traffic in January 1877 was exceptional of course, the imperial assemblage at Delhi having broken up in that month.

In merchandise traffic the increase of weight carried is 11 per cent. that in earnings only 4 per cent., but even this must be considered very satisfactory, looking at the special circumstances of the two years.

In January 1877 the bulk of the traffic reaching us from Oudh and Rohilkund via Cawnpore and Benares, and also from Sind, Punjab, and Delhi via Ghazeeabad, was either for Howrah or via Jubbulpore, this year nearly all the traffic from Sind, Punjab, and Delhi is for Oudh and Rohilkund via Allypore, a run of 66 miles only over this line, while that from Oudh and Rohilkund is trifling in comparison, as the following will show:—

	Via Ghazeeabad	Via Cawnpore	Via Benares.
	Tons	Tons	Tons
1877	4,000	6,400	2,450
1878	17,600	1,180	650

The principal variations are in—

Increases.
Coal	Iron	Foreign railway material	Seeds
Gunny.	Jaggree	Salt	Timber
Hides	Opium.	Saltpetre	Tobacco
Indigo
Decreases.
Commissariat beer	Cotton.	Piece-goods	Sugar.
Hotel-nuts	Government stores	Stone	Tea.

While edible grains show an increase in weight and decrease in earnings, and will be dealt with separately.

Increases
Coal—Upward	Mds.	+ 24,223	Rs. + 28,930
Downward	"	— 7,004	" — 4,895
Net increase		17,219	24,035

The increase in upward coal lies with the Kumbharballe fields, and has been mainly in coal for the Sind, Punjab, and Delhi Railway.

The apparent decrease in down coal arises from dealing with a period a day shorter than last year's, the daily average being—

1877	Mds.	10,19,600	Mds.	37,763
		27
1878	"	10,12,600	"	38,950
		26 or an increase of 1,187 maunds per day.

Hides	Mds.	21,455	Rs.	37,565
-------	------	--------	-----	--------

This traffic has been exceptionally large for some time past the weight carried in second half of 1877 was 12,000 tons, as against 9,000 in 1876 and 7,750 tons in 1875. The export demand is heavy, and good supplies in the North-Western Provinces.

Indigo	Mds.	26,732	Rs.	29,936
--------	------	--------	-----	--------

* This is entirely in Turbott indigo for the Calcutta market. The total outturn has been unusually heavy, the selling price fully Rs. 50 per maund below last year's rates, and the export market consequently active.

Jaggree	Mds.	18,206	Rs.	8,306
---------	------	--------	-----	-------

There has been considerable demand this year from the Great Indian Peninsula Railway districts, which Behar has supplied.

Salt	Mds.	60,059	Rs.	15,591
------	------	--------	-----	--------

This is a recovery from a specially low state of trade at Howrah in January 1877 remarked on in my report for that month.

Saltpetre	Mds.	57,459	Rs.	17,608
-----------	------	--------	-----	--------

The export market has had another sudden impulse and supplies have come forward readily.

Seeds	Mds.	1,29,932	Rs.	53,910
-------	------	----------	-----	--------

Of this increase in weight 50,000 maunds lies with Patna and 66,000 maunds with Cawnpore.

Tobacco	Mds.	6,905	Rs.	4,296
---------	------	-------	-----	-------

This, as for some months, has had the double stimulus of excellent crops in Tirhoot and a failure in Rohilkund, thus providing both a large supply and a market to send it to.

The important feature remaining to be dealt with is food grain, and the following table shows the increase or decrease (in tons) of each of the great branches into which we divide this staple :—

Increase.				Decrease.
		Tons.	Rs.			Tons.	Rs.
Barley and oats	...	3,000	3,700	Wheat	...	5,000	1,70,600
Common grains	...	5,900	60,200	Rice	...	8,900
Rice	32,300
Pulses	...	13,000	51,600	Total	...	14,800	1,70,600
Total	...	21,900	1,52,500

Net increase in weight ... Tons 7,100
Net decrease in earnings ... Rs. 17,900

The decrease in earnings, it will be seen, is entirely with wheat; and the figures of traffic from the O. & R. and S. P. D. Railways, which were referred to in an early page of this report, will show how this arises.

At this moment in fact the great wheat-producing districts of Rohilkund and Western Oudh are suffering from scarcity which I fear is for the time very severe.

What are our prospects of export trade in wheat this season it is still very difficult to say; but at present there is no export at all. The last quotation in the Bengal Chamber of Commerce circular is—

"Quotations quite nominal, the supply of good quality being exhausted."

The shipments of wheat from Calcutta to the United Kingdom from 1st January to 7th February were—the trans-Ganges districts of Bengal being still able to furnish their quota, although the North-Western Provinces, whence our wheat traffic should flow, are starved.

1877 ... 12,168 tons,
1878 ... 6,881 "

In rice, on the other hand, with 26 per cent. less weight, we earn 16 per cent. more money, the demand for Beerbhoom and Bhugulpore rice being upward instead of over the short lead to the port.

Barley.—The increase in this is, as in previous months, in traffic from S. P. and D. to O. and R. via Gazecabad and Allyghur, and does not add much to revenue, while with Pulses, of the 13,000 tons increase 9,000 is in the same traffic (S. P. and D. to O. and R.); earnings, like the barley, only about two annas a maund.

It is in this way that the falling off of 6,000 tons of wheat leaves a heavy deficit in earning against an increase of nearly 20,000 tons of other food-grains, even putting rice, with its longer lead, out of the question.

Decreases.

Commissariat beer ... Mds. 2,436 Rs. 6,403
Government stores ... " 4,930 " 9,365
Which require no remark from me.
Betel-nuts ... Mds. 3,233 Rs. 3,996

A small set off against the large increases in 1877

Cotton ... Mds. 79,042 Rs. *1,18,886

Less than 300 bales of cotton have reached Howrah during the whole month.

There is, as remarked in recent reports, really no cotton available for despatch in the usual exporting districts owing to the serious failure of crops.

Piece-goods ... Mds. 18,454 Rs. 30,242

The decrease in weight corresponds almost exactly with the increase in the previous month.

The decrease in money is large, and this is due to the altered position of the population in the North-Western Provinces, where famine prices are ruling with great rigour and there is little trade doing.

It will be noticed that there is an increase of 3,000 maunds in cotton twist to set against this.

Sugar ... Mds. 17,071 Rs. 12,176

I could say nothing here that would not be a repetition of my remarks in my December report. There has been a serious failure of crop in Rohilkund, and the French market does not offer the inducements it did last year.

The train mileage for the period has been—

		Coaching.	Goods.	Total.
1878	...	173,834	3,98,250	5,72,084
1877	...	218,650	3,82,739	6,01,389

		Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.
1878	...	3 13 1	5 6 1	4 14 4
1877	...	4 13 4	6 6 10	6 2 9
Increase	0 0 8	...
Decrease	...	1 0 3	...	0 4 3

The very high coaching mileage earnings in 1877 was due to the number of special trains run in connection with the imperial assemblage.

The goods mileage earnings has kept up most satisfactorily.

On the Jubbulpore line the traffic has been—

		Coaching.		Goods.		Total.
		Mds.	Rs.	Mds.	Rs.	Rs.
1878	...	25,838	79,748	6,18,613	1,79,531	2,59,279
1877	...	36,986	1,79,882	8,56,806	2,15,193	3,95,075
Increase
Decrease	...	10,078	1,00,104	2,17,993	35,678	1,52,776

The coaching figures are lower than in 1877 of course, because all the notabilities of Western India, with their hangers, body guards, studs, and carriages, travelled over this line in January 1877 on their return from the Delhi assemblage.

The merchandise traffic is also considerably lower than in 1877, when the export of grain from the North-Western Provinces Oudh, Rohilkund, Rajputana, and the Punjab, to the distressed districts of Southern and Western India was in full flow; but the statement of Jubbulpore line train mileage which is given below will show that every means has been taken to work economically, and that the earnings for goods train mile have been—

Report of Fluctuation of Traffic on the Tirhoot State Railway for the Month of January 1878.

TIRHOOT STATE RAILWAY.

INCREASES.

Food-grains	Mds. 60,706
The increase in this particular staple is owing to the abundant harvest in Tirhoot and to the scarcity in the North-Western Provinces.
Hides and horns	" 1,920
This increase is attributable to the demand in the market; and as the hides from this district are of a superior quality, this traffic promises well.
Indigo	" 2,968
This increase is owing to a good season and to opening out of the Mozufferpore extension and to through booking with East Indian Railway.
Iron	" 2,894
This has principally been for the requirements of the several indigo factories, and has been diverted from the rivers to the railway.
Piece-goods	" 5,608
This increase is principally due to through booking with East Indian Railway.
Seeds—Indigo	" 6,134
This was an early consignment for the Sakra district. This is entirely owing to through booking with East Indian Railway.
Oil-seeds	" 25,942
This increase is attributable to the development of the system and to through booking.
Salt	" 13,388
This traffic is steadily increasing, and has been diverted from the rivers in many cases.
Saltpetre	" 20,724
This increase is due to the demand in the market and to the opening out of the Mozufferpore extension and through booking with East Indian Railway.
Tobacco	" 4,457
This staple shows a satisfactory increase owing to the healthy state of the plant grown in Tirhoot and the great demand for it.
All other goods	" 3,202
The increase is due to through booking with East Indian Railway.

CALCUTTA, the 2nd March 1878.

(123—1)

G. H. SIMMONS, Sec

No. 101A., dated Calcutta, the 23rd February 1878.

From—Messrs. W. WATERFIELD and J. TAYLOR, Auditors of the Accounts of the Port Commissioners, Calcutta,

To—The Commissioners for making Improvements in the Port of Calcutta.

WE have the honor to report that we have examined your cash and store accounts for the half year ended 30th September 1877, and have found them to be correct.

2. We have noted several items of expenditure incurred during the half year, as requiring the orders of Government for their final admission, and we observe that the needful applications for sanction have now been submitted by you to the Government. We beg at the same time to draw your attention to the provisions of sections 18 and 52 of Act V of 1870, which require the sanction of Government to be obtained before any change is made in the sanctioned scale of establishments or expenditure incurred for any purpose not provided for in the budget.

3. Among the charges which are thus at present under the consideration of Government, is the cost of a training wall along the Howrah bank of the river, which is estimated to cost Rs. 9,600, and which you recommend should be paid for from the Port Depreciation Fund. The work is undertaken with the object of training the river into a fixed channel within the limits of the port, and preventing the deterioration of the moorings; whereas in terms of your resolution of the 20th September 1872, which created the Depreciation Fund, and which has been approved by the Government, the fund should be exclusively applied in meeting charges for the renewal of block.

The 1st June 1877.

SEALED tenders are invited by the Superintendent of Marine at the Calcutta dockyard up to 12 o'clock noon on Thursday, the 14th March 1878, for the supply, by contract, of the articles specified in the several classes entered in the schedule for one year, from 1st April 1878 to 31st March 1879, or until the date of sanction by Government of new contracts for the year 1879-80.

2. Forms of tenders, with copies of the schedule, will be supplied by the undersigned, and none others will be received. Tenderers must also distinctly understand that any alteration or erasure in the figures, &c., once entered in the three last columns of the schedule, viz. "Tendered rates," "Per," and "Amount of the tendered rates," also omissions of totals, will render their tender informal and lead to its rejection.

3. Tenders to be superscribed "Tenders for the supply of miscellaneous articles."

4. Tenders will not be received after the hour named.

5. Parties may tender for one or as many complete classes as they please, but not for a portion of a class.

6. Parties must show in the schedule the rate, &c., at which they tender to supply each and every article comprised in one or as many complete classes as they intend to tender.

7. Each tender, before being opened, must be accompanied with the requisite deposit in cash.

8. Each tender must be prepared to supply all articles equal to the samples produced at the office of the Superintendent of Marine, which are sealed and kept at his office for their inspection, and to abide by the conditions specified in the form of tender.

9. No reason will be assigned by the Superintendent of Marine for rejection of any tender, and he does not bind himself to accept the lowest tender.

10. Persons desirous of undertaking the contract can obtain, on application at the office of the undersigned, printed forms of tender and schedule of the articles to be supplied, and any other information that may be required connected with the contract, and the conditions the tenderers must abide by, to prevent their tenders being treated as informal.

G. T. ROBINSON, Commander. I. N.,

Superintendent of Marine.

PART III.

Act of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

THE following Act, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, received the assent of His Honor on the 14th February 1878; and having been assented to by the Governor-General on the 24th idem, is hereby published for general information:—

ACT No. I OF 1878.

A Bill for the Licensing of Trades, Dealings, and Industries within the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

WHEREAS, in order to provide means for defraying the public expenditure from time to time incurred and to be incurred for the relief and prevention of famine in British India, it is necessary to effect a permanent increase of the revenue; and it is therefore expedient that persons carrying on trades, dealings, and industries in the territories administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal should take out licenses and pay for the same; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I.

Preliminary.

1. This Act may be called "The Bengal License Act, 1878," and it shall come into force from the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette with the assent of the Governor-General.

Parts I, II, and V of this Act apply to all the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal including the Town of Calcutta; Part III applies to all such territories except the Town of Calcutta; and Part IV applies only to the Town of Calcutta.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"Collector."

"Collector" means the Chief Officer in charge of the revenue administration of a district.

"The Commissioners," except in Part IV, mean the Commissioners defined in Bengal Act V of 1876, and in Part IV, the Commissioners defined in Bengal Act IV of 1876.

"Local Government" means the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the time being, or the person acting in that capacity.

"Section."

"Section" means a section of this Act.

3. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to affect the tax on professions, trades, and callings imposed for municipal purposes by Bengal Act IV of 1876.

4. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to apply to persons earning their livelihood solely by agriculture, or to any cultivator of land as such, in respect of the sale of the produce of his land, when he shall not keep a shop or stall for the sale of such produce, or to any receiver of rent in kind in respect of the sale of produce received as such rent.

PART II.

General Provisions applicable in all Districts.

5. Every person who, on or after the first day of April 1878, falls under any of the heads of the Schedules hereto annexed, and carries on (whether on behalf of himself or any other person) his trade, dealing, or industry in any district situated in the said territories, shall take out a license under this Act in such district, and shall pay for the same the annual fee specified in the same Schedules as payable by persons of the class to which he belongs. Provided that no person whose annual earnings from his trade, dealing, or industry carried on within such district are less than one hundred rupees shall be required to take out a license under this Act.

For the purposes of this Act the Town of Calcutta shall be deemed to be a separate district.

6. Such license shall be granted by the Collector of such district, or by such officer as he may appoint in this behalf; and in Calcutta, by the Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners.

7. Every such license shall specify—

- (a) the date of the grant thereof;
- (b) the name, father's name, residence, caste, if any, and the trade, dealing, or industry of the licensee;
- (c) the fee paid for the license;
- (d) the place or places within such district at which the licensee intends to carry on his trade, dealing, or industry for the ensuing year;
- (e) the term for which such license shall remain in force;

and shall be received in evidence as prima facie proof of all matters contained therein.

8. Every such license shall have effect in such district only, and shall continue in force from the day of the date thereof until the first day of April next after the day of the granting thereof.

9. Every person to whom any such license has been granted, and who desires to continue to carry on his trade, dealing, or industry in such district after the expiration thereof, shall take out a fresh license for that purpose for the following year, to expire on the day appointed in the last preceding section, and shall renew the same so long as he desires to carry on such trade, dealing, or industry.

PART III.

Applicable to all districts except Calcutta.

10. As soon as may be after the commencement of this Act and the first day of January in every subsequent year, the Collector shall prepare a list of the persons in the district aforesaid to be licensed under this Act. Such list shall state—

- (a) the trade, dealing, or industry of each of the persons therein named;
- (b) the class and grade under which he is charged; and
- (c) the fee to be paid for his license.

Such list shall be in such language as the local Government may direct; but a copy thereof in the language of the district shall be filed in the Office of the Collector, and shall be open to public inspection at all reasonable times without any payment.

The local Government shall have power to declare what shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the language of the district.

11. The Collector may, by a notice in writing, require the occupier of any house, manufactory, or shop to forward to him a statement in writing signed by the occupier of the names of all persons residing in such house or working in such manufactory or shop, and of their respective trades, dealings, industries, or occupations.

12. The Collector shall from time to time determine under which of the classes or grades mentioned in Schedule A hereto annexed every person required to take out a license under this Act shall be charged, and shall prepare or amend the said list accordingly.

13. A person or firm carrying on several trades, dealings, or industries, in the same district, and coming under more than one of the designations in the said Schedule, shall be chargeable only under one of the said designations at the discretion of the Collector. And in the case of a firm, payment by any one of the partners shall, for the purposes of this Act, be considered payment by the firm.

14. The Collector may, subject to such rules as the local Government may lay down, remit the whole or any part of the fee payable under this Act by any person who may carry on his trade, dealing, or industry for a portion of the year only.

15. The list, or such part or parts thereof as the Collector thinks fit, shall be published in the principal bazars, and at all police-stations of all towns, and at all sub-divisional offices, police-stations, and outposts in the district, and at some conspicuous place in all villages concerned, together with a notification setting forth the Schedule hereto annexed applicable to the district, and directing that if any person falling under any of the classes specified in the said Schedule, whether he is mentioned in such list or not, continues his trade or dealing in the said district, payment of the fee specified in the list as payable by him, or, when he is not mentioned in such list, of the fee mentioned in the said schedule as payable by persons of the class and grade to which he belongs, must be made by him within sixty days of the date of the publication of the notification, and within sixty days next after the first day of April of each succeeding year.

16. When a statement in writing has been furnished to the Collector under section eleven, from which it appears that any person in the employ of any other person, company, or corporation is chargeable with fees under this Act, the Collector may require the employer of such person to deduct the amount of his fee from any salary or wages due to such person, and to pay it to the Collector on his behalf.

17. Any person mentioned in the list referred to in section ten and objecting to the class or grade in which he is charged, may, within thirty days after its publication, or within such further time as the Collector may in each case think fit, apply by petition to the Collector in order to establish his right to have his name transferred to another class or grade, or altogether removed from the list.

18. The Collector shall fix a day for the hearing of the petition; and on the day so fixed, or on such subsequent day as he may from time to time direct, shall hear the same, and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

Provided that if, in the judgment of the Collector, the petitioner is able to shew that the fee which has been charged exceeds two per cent. upon his annual earnings in his trade, dealing, or industry within the district, such excess shall, for the purpose of section seventeen, be deemed a valid ground of objection, and the Collector shall thereupon order the petitioner's name to be transferred to another class or grade, or to be altogether removed from the list. The Collector may also, on this ground, at any time reduce the amount of fee payable by any person under class V of Schedule A hereto annexed to the fee payable under class VI.

19. There shall be no appeal from an order of a Collector under section eighteen; but where the order is passed by any officer subordinate to a Collector, an appeal shall lie to the Collector, or to some officer specially empowered by the local Government in this behalf, whose decision shall be final. Every petition of appeal under this section shall be accompanied by a copy of the order complained of, and be presented within fifteen days of the date of such order. In computing the said period of fifteen days, the day on which the order complained of was made, and the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the same, shall be deducted.

20. The Collector may, for the purpose of enabling him to determine under which of the said classes or grades the petitioner should be charged, summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses and compel them to give evidence, and compel the production of documents by the same means and, as far as possible, in the same manner as is provided in the case of a civil court by the Code of Civil Procedure.

Provided that the Collector shall not, in the course of any proceedings under this section, call for any evidence except at the instance of the petitioner, or in order to ascertain the correctness of facts alleged by him.

21. If after expiry of the period mentioned in the notification published under section fifteen for payment of the amount specified therein, any person carries on his trade, dealing, or industry without having taken out a license as required by this Act, he shall be liable, by order of the Collector, to pay a fine not exceeding thrice the amount payable by him in respect of such license, exclusive of the amount so payable; and on receipt of such payment the Collector shall grant him a license.

Act, shall, where the amount exceeds fifty rupees, be recoverable either as if they were arrears of land revenue, or by distress and sale of the moveable property of the person liable, at the discretion of the Collector. In all other cases they shall be recoverable by distress and sale of the moveable property of the person liable.

The provisions of sections 113, 114, 115, and 119 of Bengal Act V of 1876 shall apply, as far as possible, to warrants of distress and sale issued by the Collector under this section; and no tools or implements of trade or agriculture shall be distrained or sold under any such warrant.

If the Commissioners or the punchait fail within the period prescribed to make such returns, or if they make such returns and the Collector has reason to doubt their accuracy, he may at any time revise the return or cause a return showing the names, numbers, and classes aforesaid to be prepared in such manner as may be prescribed by the local Government.

29. The Commissioners and Magistrate as aforesaid may take proceedings under sections twenty-one and twenty-four for the recovery of any penalties and fines; and shall exercise the powers conferred on a Collector by section twenty-four.

All such penalties and fines shall, when so recovered, be credited to the Municipal, Station, or Union Fund, as the case may be.

30. The Commissioners and the Magistrate, as aforesaid, shall have the same powers of recovering the fees chargeable under this Act within the limits of their municipality, station, or union that they have for the realization of municipal taxes under Bengal Act V of 1876. Where the amount due exceeds fifty rupees, and it cannot be recovered in the manner above provided, application may be made by the Commissioners or Magistrate aforesaid to the Collector, and the Collector shall thereupon proceed to recover it as an arrear of land revenue. The said Commissioners or Magistrate may also appropriate any part of the revenues of their municipality, station, or union for the payment of any sum leviable from it under section twenty-eight; and if the sum so leviable is not paid at due date, the local Government may order it, or any part of it, to be deducted from any funds standing to the credit of the municipality, station, or union in any Government treasury.

31. No person who pays fees under this Act shall, so long as he continues to pay the same, be liable to pay any instalment of road cess or public works cess on his house under Part IV of Bengal Act X of 1871, or section 7 of Bengal Act II of 1877, falling due after the first day of April 1878.

32. All or any of the powers and duties conferred and imposed by this Act on a Collector may, subject to the orders of the Collector of the district, be exercised and performed by any Assistant or Deputy Collector, or by such other officer as the local Government shall from time to time appoint in this behalf.

PART IV.

Special Provisions for the Town of Calcutta.

33. From every person who shall within the town of Calcutta exercise any of the trades, dealings, industries, or callings included in the classes specified in Schedule B hereto annexed, the Commissioners shall levy the fees shown in the said Schedule, and shall pay to the local Government annually a sum to be fixed by such Government, and calculated on the proceeds of such fees. For the purposes of this Part, any person working or carrying on business in Calcutta shall be deemed to be a resident of Calcutta;

and the Town of Calcutta shall be deemed to include all places within the local limits of the ordinary original jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature of Fort William in Bengal, including Fort William itself, the river Hooghly within Port limits, the Esplanade, and Coolie Bazar now called Hastings.

34. The provisions of sections ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, twenty, twenty-one, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five and twenty-six, shall be in force in the Town of Calcutta, and all the powers of a Collector under the said sections shall be exercised by the Chairman of the Commissioners, or by some person or persons authorized by him in that behalf.

35. On the presentation of a petition of objection under section seventeen, the Chairman may either himself dispose of it, or may refer it for disposal to a bench of not less than three Commissioners. The Chairman or any such bench may reduce the amount of fee payable by any person under the said Schedule B to the fee payable under any lower class or grade of that schedule, on its being shown to his or their satisfaction that the fee charged exceeds two per cent. upon the annual earnings of such petitioner in his trade, dealing, or industry carried on within the limits of the said Town of Calcutta; and the Chairman shall amend the list published under section fifteen in accordance with the orders passed upon such petition.

There shall be no appeal from any order passed under this section.

36. The Commissioners shall have the same powers for the recovery of all sums due under this Part that they have for the realization of municipal rates under Bengal Act IV of 1876.

PART V.

Miscellaneous.

37. From the nett amount of all fees and penalties paid or recovered under this Act other than those credited to Municipal, Station, or Union Funds under section twenty-nine, after deducting the expense of collection, so much as the Governor-General in Council from time to time directs shall be applied, in such manner as the Governor-General in Council thinks fit, for the purpose of increasing the revenues available for defraying expenditure incurred or to be incurred for the relief and prevention of famine in the territories administered by the local Government, or, if the Governor-General in Council so directs, in any other part of British India.

The residue (if any) of such nett amount shall be carried to the credit of the local Government.

And it shall come into force at once.

3. In this Act—

"treasure" means anything of any value hidden in the soil, or in anything affixed thereto;

"Treasure."

"Collector" means (1) any revenue officer in independent charge of a district, and (2) any officer appointed by the Local Government to perform the functions of a Collector under this Act.

When any person is entitled, under any reservation in an instrument of transfer of any land or thing affixed thereto, to treasure in such land or thing, he shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the owner of such land or thing.

Owner.

Procedure on finding Treasure.

4. Whenever any treasure exceeding in amount or value ten rupees is found, the finder shall, as soon as practicable, give to the Collector notice in writing—

(a) of the nature and amount or approximate value of such treasure;

(b) of the place in which it was found;

(c) of the date of the finding;

5. On receiving a notice under section four, the Collector shall, after making such enquiry (if any) as he thinks fit, take the following steps (namely):—

Notification requiring claimants to appear.

(a) he shall publish a notification in such manner as the Local Government from time to time prescribes in this behalf, to the effect that, on a certain date (mentioning it), certain treasure (mentioning its nature, amount, and approximate value) was found in a certain place (mentioning it); and requiring all persons claiming the treasure, or any part thereof, to appear personally or by agent before the Collector on a day and at a place therein mentioned, such day not being earlier than four months, or later than six months, after the date of the publication of such notification ;

(b) when the place in which the treasure appears to the Collector to have been found was at the date of the finding in the possession of some person other than the finder, the Collector shall also serve on such person a special notice in writing to the same effect.

6. Any person having any right to such treasure or any part thereof, as owner of the place in which it was found or otherwise, and not appearing as required by the notification issued under section five, shall forfeit such right.

7. On the day notified under section five, the Collector shall cause the treasure to be produced before him, and shall enquire as to and determine—

(a) the person by whom, the place in which, and the circumstances under which, such treasure was found ; and

(b) as far as is possible the person by whom, and the circumstances under which, such treasure was hidden.

8. If, upon an enquiry made under section seven, the Collector sees reason to believe that the treasure was hidden within one hundred years before the date of the finding, by a person appearing as required by the said notification and claiming such treasure, or by some other person under whom such person claims, the Collector shall make an order adjourning the hearing of the case for such period as he deems sufficient, to allow of a suit being instituted in the Civil Court by the claimant, to establish his right.

9. If upon such enquiry the Collector sees no reason to believe that the treasure was so hidden ; or

if such suit is instituted within such period, and the plaintiff's claim is finally rejected ;

the Collector may declare the treasure to be ownerless.

Any person aggrieved by a declaration made under this section may appeal against the same within two months from the date thereof to the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority.

Subject to such appeal, every such declaration shall be final and conclusive.

10. When a declaration has been made in respect of any treasure under section nine, such treasure shall, in accordance with the provisions hereinafter contained, either be delivered to the finder thereof or be divided between him and the owner of the place in which it has been found in manner hereinafter provided.

11. When a declaration has been made in respect of any treasure as aforesaid, and no person other than the finder of such treasure has appeared as required by the notification published under section five and claimed a share of the treasure as owner of the place in which it has been found, the Collector shall deliver such treasure to the finder thereof.

12. When a declaration has been made as aforesaid in respect of any treasure, and only one person other than the finder of such treasure has so appeared and claimed, and the claim of such person is not disputed by the finder, the Collector shall proceed to divide the treasure between the finder and the person so claiming according to the following rule (namely) :—

If the finder and the person so claiming have not entered into any agreement then in force as to the disposal of the treasure, three-fourths of the treasure shall be allotted to such finder and the residue to such person. If such finder and such person have entered into any such agreement, the treasure shall be disposed of in accordance therewith :

Provided that the Collector may in any case, if he thinks fit, instead of dividing any treasure as directed by this section,

(a) allot to either party the whole or more than his share of such treasure, on such party paying to the Collector for the other party such sum of money as the Collector may fix as the equivalent of the share of such other party, or of the excess so allotted, as the case may be ; or

Provided also, that when the Collector has by his declaration under section nine rejected any claim made under this Act by any person other than the said finder or person claiming as owner of the place in which the treasure was found, such division shall not be made until after the expiration of two months without an appeal having been presented under section nine by the person whose claim has been so rejected, or, when an appeal has been so presented, after such appeal has been dismissed.

When the Collector has made a division under this section, he shall deliver to the parties the portions of such treasure, or the money in lien thereof, to which they are respectively entitled under such division.

13. When a declaration has been made as aforesaid in respect of any treasure, and two or more persons have appeared as aforesaid and each of them claimed as owner of the place where such treasure was found, or the right of any person who has so appeared and claimed is disputed by the finder of such treasure, the Collector shall retain such treasure and shall make an order staying his proceedings with a view to the matter being enquired into and determined by a Civil Court.

14. Any person who has so appeared and claimed may, within one month from the date of such order, institute a suit in the Civil Court to obtain a decree declaring his right; and in every such suit the finder of the treasure and all persons disputing such claim before the Collector shall be made defendants.

15. If any such suit is instituted and the plaintiff's claim is finally established therein, the Collector shall, subject to the provisions of section twelve, divide the treasure between him and the finder.

If no such suit is instituted as aforesaid, or if the claims of the plaintiffs in all such suits are finally rejected, the Collector shall deliver the treasure to the finder.

16. The Collector may at any time after making a declaration under section nine, and before delivering or dividing the treasure as hereinbefore provided, declare by writing under his hand his intention to acquire on behalf of the Government the treasure, or any specified portion thereof, by payment to the persons entitled thereto of a sum equal to the value of the materials of such treasure or portion, together with one-fifth of such value, and may place such sum in deposit in his treasury to the credit of such persons; and thereupon such treasure or portion shall be deemed to be the property of Government, and the money so deposited shall be dealt with, as far as may be, as if it were such treasure or portion.

Power to acquire the treasure on behalf of Government.

17. No decision passed or act done by the Collector under this Act shall be called in question by any Civil Court, and no suit or other proceeding shall lie against him or anything done in good faith in exercise of the powers hereby conferred.

Decision of Collector final, and no suit to lie against him for acts done bona fide.

18. A Collector making any enquiry under this Act may exercise any power conferred by the Code of Civil Procedure on a Civil Court for the trial of suits.

Collector to exercise powers of Civil Court.

19. The Local Government may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act to regulate proceedings hereunder.

Such rules shall, on being published in the local Gazette, have the force of law.

 The Hon'ble A. MACKENZIE,
 The Hon'ble BABOO ISSER CHUNDER MITTER, RAI BAHADOOR,
 The Hon'ble BABOO KRISTODAS PAL, RAI BAHADOOR,
 The Hon'ble RAJAH PRAMATHA NATHA ROY, BAHADOOR.
 The Hon'ble BABOO MOHINI MOHAN ROY, and
 The Hon'ble AMEER ALI.

NEW MEMBERS.

The Hon'ble BABOO MOHINI MOHAN ROY and the Hon'ble MR. AMEER ALI took their seats in Council.

POWERS OF SETTLEMENT OFFICERS AS TO ENHANCEMENT OF RENT.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS moved that the Bill to define and limit the powers of settlement officers in respect to the enhancement of rent be further considered in order to the settlement of its clauses.

The motion was agreed to, and the clauses of the Bill were settled without further amendment.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS then moved that the Bill be passed, and in doing so he said that it was a very short and unpretending measure; but he believed its operation would be beneficial, and would be calculated to remove some practical difficulties which had been felt in the conduct of settlement operations.

It might be thought that those operations were confined to so small a class of estates that no measure for their regulation could be of any great importance, or of any general interest. But it would be an easy matter to give the Bill a much wider operation than it had at present. It might be enacted that a zemindar who desired to make a re-settlement of his estate should be at liberty to apply to the Collector for the purpose, and that the Collector should thereupon be authorized to draw up a jumabandi, and to exercise all the powers conferred by law on an officer conducting a settlement. He believed he was authorized to say that if the zemindars of Bengal generally expressed a wish for such an extension of the law, the Executive Government was prepared to consider the proposal favourably. It might be found that a measure of that kind would afford a practical solution of a question which had been much discussed during the last two years, viz. the determination of the landlord's share in the increased value of the produce of land. The law would not indeed directly determine that share; but it might be found that both parties would be willing to accept the Collector as an arbitrator, and to agree to a re-settlement on the terms which he might ascertain to be fair and just between them. It was sometimes a subject of complaint that, under the existing law, the zemindar who desired to enforce the re-settlement of rents on his estate through the agency of the courts got a great deal of law but very little justice, and MR. REYNOLDS was not prepared to say that there was no foundation for such a complaint. But it seemed likely that this objection would be removed if the conduct of these inquiries were transferred to a Government settlement officer; and he believed that such a change would be acceptable to the zemindar, and not inequitable to the ryot, for the officers of Government were always scrupulously regardful of the rights of the cultivators. It was therefore possible that this measure might eventually have a wider application than at present. But at present only those classes of estates which fell under the operation of Regulation VII of 1822, namely, estates which were the property of Government, and estates belonging to private persons, but not under permanent settlement, would come under the operation of this Bill. With these remarks he moved that the Bill be passed.

'SUITS BETWEEN LANDLORDS AND TENANTS IN CHOTA NAGPORE.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said that in presenting the report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the procedure in suits between landlords and tenants in Chota Nagpore he had very little to say. The Select Committee had made very few changes in the Bill, and the changes which they had made were of little importance. The most considerable change which had been made was in sections 90 and 91, by which the Deputy Commissioner was empowered to determine the rate of interest which should run on the amount of compensation awarded by the court, the rate of such interest being fixed at twelve per cent. by Bengal Act VI of 1862, from which the provision was borrowed.

With regard to the amendments which had been placed on the notice paper, MR. REYNOLDS wished to reserve his remarks upon each particular amendment until it was brought forward. But with regard to their general tenor and scope, he might be permitted to say that the hon'ble members who had proposed those amendments seemed to him to have overlooked or forgotten the fact that in passing a rent law for Chota Nagpore, the Council was legislating for a province of which the conditions were in many respects of a special and exceptional character. It was not as if the Council had a tabula rasa before them. They were not at liberty to proceed upon abstract principles, and to lay down the best law possible, and then to frame the details of their measure in accordance with that ideal. If they wished their legislation to be successful, they had to consider not only what was theoretically good, but what was actually practicable, and these considerations, he thought, had not been attended to in regard to some of the amendments. The principle which had guided the Select Committee in revising the Bill was that, when they came to any section which appeared to be of a peculiar character, as for instance such sections as 19 and 20, they referred to the opinions of the local officers, and where they found a strong and general consensus of opinion in favour of a particular wording of the law, they thought themselves bound to accept that opinion. He hoped that the same principle would be accepted by the Council in settling the clauses of the Bill.

The HON'BLE BABOO ISSER CHUNDER MITTER said that, as a member of the Select Committee, he was responsible to some extent for the shape which the Bill assumed. The law in force in Chota Nagpore was Act X of 1859, Bengal Act VI of 1862, and its amending Act, but in adapting that law to the particular requirements of the province of Chota Nagpore, the Committee had in view the circumstances of the people and the peculiar nature of the tenures which were there extant, such as the bluinhari and mujjhus tenures. In Select Committee he had suggested some improvements, bearing in view the discussions which had taken place in regard to the improvement of the substantive rent law. He was willing to excise the warrant clauses of the Act, or rather the clauses which related to arrest before judgment,—a matter upon which there had been a strong expression of opinion by Rajah Digumbar Mitter and his hon'ble friend opposite (Baboo Kristodas Pal). He also agreed with his hon'ble friend as to the necessity of an amendment of the law in regard to instalments of rent falling due, in reference to the quarterly kists for the payment of revenue, regarding which the hon'ble member on his right (Mr. Mackenzie) expressed his opinion during the early discussions on the rent law. But it was considered inexpedient to attempt to introduce those improvements in a less advanced portion of the country, such as Chota Nagpore, before they were made in the more civilized and advanced districts of Bengal Proper; and, under these circumstances, the Bill was framed so as to adapt it to the circumstances of Chota Nagpore without any attempt to introduce such improvements. The sense of the Council, he thought, might be taken whether it was proper to make such improvements in this Bill in the present state of the country to which it was to apply, or to wait until they had been introduced in the older provinces where they were more needed.

The motion was agreed to.

The HON'BLE RAJAH PRAMATHA NATHA ROY moved the introduction of the following section after section 10:—

"Every ryot is entitled to receive a correct copy of the account showing his liabilities and payments as kept in the sherista of the person to whom his rent is payable within a month after the commencement of the semindari year."

He said that the system of accounts to which he referred was kept in all estates; they were kept in the form of a book, a page of which was assigned to every tenant. In it was entered the rent for which the ryot was liable for the whole year, and the amounts which he paid in on different dates were entered side by side. This account was known in different places under different names, and were more or less varied in form. But in substance it was everywhere the same. From these accounts the jumma-wasil-baki papers were afterwards prepared; they were an indispensable companion to the gomasta, and without them the zemindar's work could not get on. In cases for the realization of rent, where pottas and kubooleuts existed, it was very easy to find out what the rents were. But where they did not exist—and they did not exist in most places—the courts found a good deal of difficulty in ascertaining the actual amount of the jumma; and ryots in such cases generally pleaded that they had been sued for a higher jumma than what they ought to pay. The ryot had no paper in his possession to prove satisfactorily what the actual jumma was, and his only chance of success lay in his being able to raise a doubt as to the correctness of the zemindar's papers; and if he succeeded in raising a doubt in the mind of the judicial officer as to the trustworthiness of those papers, the zemindar would have no chance of getting a decree. But if he could not do so, then the jumma claimed would be decreed. Hence it was that injustice was often done in these cases. Now, if a copy of these accounts were furnished to the ryot, he would be in a position and therefore expected to show what the actual jumma was; and if the zemindar sued him for rent which he knew he ought to pay, he would think twice before he objected to pay it. RAJAH PRAMATHA NATHA ROY thought therefore that, for the ends of justice, it would be convenient if a copy of this account were furnished to the ryot, and he therefore moved the amendment.

THE HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said he could not accept the amendment. When it proposed to enact that every ryot was entitled to receive an account of the rent due from him and the payments made by him, it implied that the zemindar should furnish the account. From what he knew of the province of Chota Nagpore, he questioned much whether such an enactment would be practicable or workable. It would be difficult to work such a provision in the district of Hazareebagh, it would be still more difficult in Lohardugga, and almost out of the question in Singbhoom. He would further ask the hon'ble member to consider who were the ryots to whom these accounts were to be rendered; for it would be utterly useless to present a ryot whose language was Kole or Munda with a paper written in Bengalee, and to tell him that it was a statement of his account with his zemindar. The amendment seemed to MR. REYNOLDS to assume the existence of a state of things which did not exist in the province for which the Council was legislating; he therefore hoped that the Council would not agree to the amendment.

THE HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said the amendment appeared to him to be impracticable, having regard to the position and character of the ryots in Chota Nagpore. He would have left this amendment alone, but that he perceived that most of the other amendments of which the hon'ble members opposite had given notice depended on the same condition, namely, an advanced state of society which did not exist in the places to which this Bill would apply. He thought that under section 5 every ryot was entitled to receive a potta, and when he received his potta he would know the amount of rent he had to pay. He did not think it fair to ask the zemindar to keep the ryot's account for him. If, however, this amendment stood by itself, THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL would probably have offered no objection to it; but it seemed the commencement of a series of amendments which sought to import into the Bill principles which could not be carried out. The Council had already heard the remarks made by one of the hon'ble gentlemen who sat in Select Committee on this Bill, which showed that it would be better to wait for the general amendment of the rent law than to introduce a new system in a province which was the least adapted for the experiment, and he thought therefore it would be better to wait and see first how far the substantive law could be amended.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL was afraid that the object of the hon'ble mover of the amendment had not been fully understood. He believed his hon'ble friend intended to introduce this system for the protection of the ryot. It was well known that the zemindar kept papers showing the account of each ryot, and if a copy of that account was furnished to the ryot, he could produce it in court and remove all doubts as to the amount of rent due by him. Considerable misunderstandings and disputes arose in consequence of the unsatisfactory nature of the papers produced as to the amount of rent payable by the ryot and the payments made by him. The system contemplated by the amendment was analogous to the hath chitta system which existed in respect to dealings with petty traders and artisans: it showed the account of the persons in dealing and the payments made from time to time, so that, when it was produced before the court, it could at once see how far the account was correct. The amendment was based on that principle; and if it were introduced generally, it would remove one great source of litigation regarding the recovery of arrears of rent.

THE HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS remarked that when the hon'ble mover of the amendment stated that every zemindar kept these accounts, he was no doubt alluding to Rajshahy and the Central Provinces of Bengal generally, not to Chota Nagpore. MR. REYNOLDS believed that the introduction of the proposed provision would put the zemindar to considerable expense and trouble, and would practically afford no protection to the ryot.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said he must express his entire concurrence in the remarks which had been made by the hon'ble member on the right (Baboo Isser Chunder Mitter), who had given great attention to this Bill. He was just as anxious as any other member of the Council to see a good rent law passed for Bengal, but he must point out, and he hoped his hon'ble friend would admit, that this was not the time, nor the present Bill the place, to introduce experimental amendments of this sort. He saw that there were on the notice paper a number of amendments relating to questions of principle, connected with the rent law which were still undetermined, and which were the subject of discussion even amongst the many classes of zemindars who were interested in them. Although many of the amendments of which notice had been given might be most proper and desirable if introduced into a general Rent Bill for Bengal, and no doubt would be introduced when the question came to be discussed, His Honor thought they were not proper amendments to propose with regard to a bill which was to have operation in the most backward part of Bengal, where even the zemindars were not of the same class of people as the hon'ble gentlemen had in their minds. The condition of Chota Nagpore was really quite feudal: the people were very backward and ignorant, and many of the landholding class were quite unable to carry out the elaborate system of accounts which was proposed by the amendment. Elaborate rules were proposed as to sheristas and accounts, but some of the receivers of rent, in fact, hardly had what was known as a sherista. He thought, therefore, that the Council should be very careful, sitting there as they were in ignorance of the detailed system of that part of the country, how they laid down elaborate systems which, when put into force, it would be found quite impossible to carry into effect. He therefore felt bound to oppose this amendment, and he hoped his hon'ble friends who had given notice of these amendments would consider whether this was a proper opportunity for proposing amendments (many of which, as he had said before, might be very proper under a different state of things) for a country which was the most backward of all the districts which were under the Government of Bengal.

The motion was then negatived.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said that after the expression of opinion which had fallen from his hon'ble friends he did not wish to move the amendment to section 12 which stood in his name, namely, to insert the following section in lieu of section 12:—

"Every ryot, on payment of any instalment of rent, shall be entitled to have a receipt, of which a counterfoil shall be kept in the cutcherry of the person to whom the payment is made, specifying the period on account of which the rent is acknowledged to have been paid. Such receipts and counterfoils shall bear consecutive numbers, and shall be bound together in books of not less than fifty receipts each. Neglect or refusal to give such a receipt shall be deemed to be a withholding of a receipt."

He might, however, explain that the circumstances of Chota Nagpore, as His Honor the President had stated, rendered it necessary that the Council should be extremely cautious in extending the system in vogue in the more advanced parts of Bengal. At the same time he wished to remind the Council that this Bill contained innovations which had hitherto been the subject of discussion, but which were now to be experimentalized upon in Chota Nagpore. For instance, no question connected with the rent law had been discussed so threadbare as the question of the enhancement of rent. But in this Bill it was provided that the question of enhancement of rent should be left entirely to the discretion of the revenue courts. In the same way the law of distraint, he believed, was withdrawn entirely under the operation of this Bill; and also several other material alterations had been introduced, such, for instance, as the fixing of rent for periods varying from ten to twenty years, and also with reference to the commutation of services on the application of the person who received rents, whether he received the rent in perpetuity or not—although the provision on this subject in the Chota Nagpore Tenures Act applied only to rent-receivers who had rights in perpetuity. It would be thus seen that material alterations had been introduced in this Bill, notwithstanding the circumstance that the subject of the amendment of the Rent Law was yet in the stage of discussion, and the alterations which it was proposed to make had not received the final sanction of Government. Now the Rent Acts, X of 1859 and VI of 1862 and IV of 1867 of this Council, had been in force even in the backward province of Chota Nagpore, and he submitted that those laws were sufficiently complicated; and if they could remain in force in the province for nearly twenty years, he thought that it must have made sufficient progress in the meantime to be prepared to receive the few minor improvements in legislation which were the subject of the amendments before the Council. Nevertheless, as His Honor the President seemed to think that the introduction of a more advanced system of keeping accounts might complicate matters in Chota Nagpore, he would beg leave to withdraw the amendment.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said he was very glad that the hon'ble gentleman had withdrawn his amendment and stated his views in the manner he had done, but in doing so he had insinuated that there was some inconsistency in accepting certain improvements of the law, and rejecting others which he desired to introduce, on the ground of their unsuitability to the province to which this Bill would apply. But His Honor submitted that there was this difference between the two, namely, that the amendments of the law which had been made in the Bill had been made in consultation and with the advice of the officers who were administering the province of Chota Nagpore, after long and careful discussion with all the subordinate officers of the province, and after it had been ascertained that they related to matters with which they could practically deal. His Honor's objection to these amendments was that we were apt to get into a discussion of matters with regard to which we hardly knew whether we were capable of dealing. A reference to sections 19 and 20 of the Bill would show how very complicated the land tenures of Chota Nagpore were. No doubt hon'ble members were better acquainted with them than himself; but he ventured to think that there were lots of tenures which they would find it difficult to explain. He therefore thought it was better to confine themselves to amendments which they had ascertained from the local officers were capable of being carried into effect. On these grounds he was glad that the amendment was withdrawn.

Section 13 provided that the ryot might, if the rent tendered by him to the zemindar be refused, pay into court, without any action being brought against him, the amount which he admitted to be due from him.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL moved an amendment, to the effect that such deposits should be made within one month from the date of the tender, whether a suit be instituted against the ryot or not. This amendment, he said, sought to supply an omission, the necessity of which he hoped hon'ble members would admit. At present there was no time fixed requiring the ryot to deposit the money in court after making tender of his rent; and this omission in the law led to great difficulties and complications afterwards. The zemindar might institute a suit against the ryot. The plea taken by him might be that he made tender of rent to the zemindar. He might deposit the rent after the institution of the suit, and the suit would then be barred. In the meantime the landlord went to the expense of instituting a suit, and he could not recover if the money was deposited in court. So he thought that, if it were provided that the ryot who made a tender should within a fixed time deposit the rent in court, it would remove a fruitful source of litigation; and he hoped the Council would accept this amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

Section 14 provided the proceedings which were to be taken on the deposit of money into court.

THE HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said that his next amendment was a corollary to the last. The section did not specify the time within which the Deputy Commissioner should inform the zemindar of the deposit of the money. He thought that notice should be issued within a reasonable time, say seven days, and he moved an amendment to that effect.

The motion was agreed to.

THE HON'BLE RAJAH PRAMATHA NATHA ROY withdrew the amendment of which he had given notice in respect of sections 24, 28, 30, and 31, in favour of those which the Hon'ble Baboo Kristodas Pal had on the notice paper.

Section 24 authorized the Deputy Commissioner under certain circumstances, on receipt of a petition for the enhancement of rent, "to alter or vary the rent of the land as to him may seem fair and reasonable for such term not being less than ten nor more than twenty years" as he might think fit.

The HON'BLE BAROO KRISTODAS PAL moved the insertion of the following words after the word "reasonable," and the omission of the words "nor more than twenty years":—

"(But so that the rent shall not be less than one-fourth of the gross produce of the said land, and not more than twice the amount of the rent previously payable.")

This section, he said, made an important change in the law: it left it to the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner to enhance rent to any sum he considered fair and reasonable; it laid down no rule and required no definite data. In fact it simply sanctioned the patriarchal system under which the Deputy Commissioner might enhance rent at his own option, without being fettered by any considerations of law. He might also fix the rent for periods varying from ten to twenty years. BAROO KRISTODAS PAL thought that this absolute discretion in so important a matter was not desirable. The question of enhancement of rent had engaged the attention of Government for the last three or four years, and various opinions had been recorded on the subject. He feared that such absolute discretion might lead to abuse.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said he understood the hon'ble member was going to withdraw the amendments which contained questions of principle. The amendment now before the Council related to the proportion of produce which might be demandable as rent, and was one of the most difficult problems which could possibly be considered. He considered that it was very dangerous to deal with questions of this sort in the dark. It was a matter regarding which no two people of any class seemed to agree, even in the settled provinces; and it was certainly undesirable to begin by settling the principle in reference to these wild parts of the country, where the whole system of land tenures was different from what it was in other parts of Bengal. He did not say that this was not a proper question to take into consideration in reference to a general amendment of the rent law, but he thought they should not begin with the wildest part of the country—a part of the country which was not even so advanced as the Sonthal Pergunnahs.

The motion was then by leave withdrawn.

Sections 27 and 28 related to claims to abatement of rent.

The HON'BLE BAROO KRISTODAS PAL said that these sections introduced a great innovation: they left everything to the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner. The amendment of which he had given notice was simply a re-enactment of section 19 of Bengal Act VIII of 1869, which bore on the subject of abatement of rent. The power to abate rent should be exercised upon valid reasons, and he therefore moved that the following section be substituted for sections 27 and 28:—

"Every ryot having a right of occupancy shall be entitled to claim an abatement of the rent previously paid by him, if the area of the land has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise, or if the value of the produce or the productive powers of the land have been decreased by any cause beyond the power of the ryot, or if the quantity of land held by the ryot has been proved by measurement to be less than the quantity for which rent has been previously paid by him."

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS observed that, when the hon'ble member said that the provisions of sections 27 and 28 were an innovation upon the law, he forgot that Act X of 1859 was in operation in Chota Nagpore, subject to considerable modifications, and the changes introduced in the Bill were really a recognition of the alterations of the law which had practically been in force for some time past.

The HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE remarked that his hon'ble friend seemed also to forget the elements of which rent consisted in Chota Nagpore. It there implied not only money, but all sorts of things—personal service, the presentation of milk and goats on festivals, and the like. It was because Act X of 1859 was found utterly unsuited to the circumstances of the province that the Council was now asked to provide a special procedure under which the work could be carried on; and it was much better to leave the settlement of the terms of rent to the Deputy Commissioner.

The HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said that, as by the previous sections the power of enhancement was left to the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner, so the power of abatement was by these sections vested in the discretion of the same officer. But he did not think sections 27 and 28 quite consistent with the provisions relating to enhancement of rent. Section 22 provided that a petition for enhancement must proceed on the ground of a measurement of the land held by the tenant; section 23 also required that the petition should specify the general rate prevailing in the village for different classes of land, and other particulars. But section 27 was very general in its terms. It might apply to any given thing. The petition might claim an abatement because the tenant could not pay the rent. It did not at all correspond with the previous sections relating to enhancement, and therefore the Advocate General thought that there was some force in the objections taken by the hon'ble mover of the amendment, and that section 27 certainly required amendment in the direction he had indicated.

The Hon'ble Mr. REYNOLDS said that the particulars required by section 23 were matters that were likely to be within the cognizance of the person applying for enhancement of rent, and it seemed reasonable that he should be asked to give the particulars referred to. But it was not to be supposed that the ignorant ryots of Chota Nagpore would be in a position to supply information of that kind.

The Hon'ble THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL observed that if the ignorant ryot was not in a position to supply those particulars, he ought not to ask for an abatement of his rent.

The further consideration of sections 27 and 28 was then postponed.

Section 30 provided as follows:—

"Any instalment of rent which is not paid on or before the day when the same is payable according to the pottah or engagement, or if there be no written specification of the time of payment, at or before the time when such instalment is payable according to established usage, shall be held to be an arrear of rent under this Act, and in the absence of any written agreement to the contrary shall be liable to interest at six per centum per annum."

The Hon'ble BAROO KRISTODAS PAL moved the omission of the section and the substitution of the following:—

"Any instalment of rent which is not paid on or before the day when the same becomes due, shall be deemed to be, for the purposes of this Act, an arrear of rent."

"Provided that, in the absence of a written agreement specifying the time of payment, the rent payable by the ryot shall be held to become due fifteen days before the date fixed for the payment of the revenue or rent payable by the superior landlord on account of the land in respect of which the ryot's rent is payable, and to be payable in the same number of instalments as the said revenue or rent; and the amount of each instalment of such rent shall bear the same proportion to the whole of such rent payable for the year as the amount of each instalment of such revenue or rent bears to the whole of such revenue or rent payable for the year. Interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum shall be allowed upon the amount in arrear when not paid at the due date in the absence of any written agreement to the contrary."

This, he said, was a most important section. It related to the question of instalments of rent. Not unfrequently the court was puzzled to decide what was really an instalment of rent. In some cases instalments were payable monthly, in some bi-monthly, in some quarterly, and in other cases no rule whatever existed. This uncertainty as to the time for the payment of instalments of rent was a source of great dispute between the zemindar and the ryot, and of much trouble to the courts. He found that in the Oudh Rent Act of 1868 there was a section analogous to that which he now proposed, and following the principle of that section, he ventured to introduce this amendment. He would, however, omit from the first paragraph of the section the words "whether under a written agreement or according to law or local usage," which stood in the notice paper. They existed in the Oudh Rent Act; but it had been pointed out to him by the learned Secretary that the words were not consistent with the proviso proposed by him. He would himself prefer to fix the payment of rent in four quarterly instalments; but that point was under the consideration of Government in reference to Bengal generally, and, as a tentative measure, he would follow the provisions of the Oudh Rent Act. He believed that many parts of Oudh were not more advanced than the province of Chota Nagpore; and as the system had worked satisfactorily there, he thought it might also work well in Chota Nagpore.

The Hon'ble Mr. REYNOLDS said he had the strongest objection to the amendment. In the first place the hon'ble member did not tell the Council how the ryot was to ascertain what was the date fixed for the payment of revenue or rent by his superior landlord. That seemed to him to be a practical difficulty. The amendment, moreover, seemed to involve a cumbrous and complicated calculation. He remembered the case of one ryot in Chota Nagpore, whose rent consisted of a goat, three pots of ghee, twenty-five bundles of thatching grass, and fourteen days' labour. He would ask how such a ryot was to pay an instalment of "rent in the same proportion to the whole of such rent payable for the year as the amount of each instalment of such rent bears to the whole of such revenue or rent payable for the year." He thought the hon'ble member would admit that in a case of that kind this amendment would not apply. He did not also understand that the amendment was necessary for the protection of the zemindar. It might be said that in Bengal the zemindar ought to be able to enforce payment of his rent before he himself was compelled to pay the Government revenue. But that argument hardly applied to Chota Nagpore, where the assessment on the land was very light, the population numbering some four millions, and the land revenue only four lakhs per annum, or a land revenue of one rupee to every ten souls. That was quite a different state of things from what existed in Bengal Proper, where the population was some thirty-five millions, and the land revenue nearly two and a half crores. Then it might be said that the zemindar was compelled to pay land revenue, and that he ought to have a speedy remedy against his ryot. But, possibly the hon'ble mover of the amendment might not be aware that Act XI of 1859 was not in force in Chota Nagpore, and that no estates were sold for arrears of revenue in the province.

The HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said he did not think the illustration which had been given entirely got rid of the objection to the section in the Bill. Still he thought that the section as it stood was wholly unobjectionable. It provided for the payment of instalments of rent at the time when it was payable according to established usage where there was no written specification of the time of payment, and that the instalment should bear interest at six per cent. In all zemindaries there was an engagement to pay at a certain time, or, in the absence of such engagement, according to established usage. He thought that the introduction of the amendment would lead to further complications, and as the section was an ordinary section he would support it.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said that the section which stood in the Bill had been taken from the present rent law, and hon'ble members were well aware that the course of the existing law had not been quite simple or certain. None was better aware than the hon'ble and learned Advocate-General that the question of instalment was in many cases a debatable one, and that in some cases in the 24-Pergunnahs the District Judge declined to allow interest for arrears of rent, because it was not certain whether the instalment or kist claimed was correct or not: in fact he would not allow any interest until the expiry of the year for which rent was demanded. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL thought that if the period of instalment could be fixed by law, it would remove a fertile source of misunderstanding on the subject. If, however, it was impracticable to introduce into Chota Nagpore the system which, as he found, had been working in Oudh, he would certainly bow to the decision of the Council. He did not, however, think that it would be difficult for the ryot to ascertain the kists in which the rent of his superior landlord was paid: he could easily go to the kutcherry of his landlord and ascertain that fact, and, if necessary, the landlord might be required to notify in his own estate the number of kists in which he paid his revenue or rent. As to what had been said as to services rendered in payment of rent, he might observe that the Bill proposed to commute them into money payments. He only alluded to payments in money. But if there were practical difficulties in the way of carrying out the amendment, he would not object to withdraw it.

The motion was then by leave withdrawn.

His Honor the President here vacated the chair, and the Hon'ble the Advocate-General presided.

Section 31 provided as follows:—

"When an arrear of rent remains due from any ryot at the end of the Bengal or Sambut year, or at the end of the month of Jeth of the Fualy or Willayuttee year, as the case may be, such ryot shall be liable to be ejected from the land in respect of which the arrear is due, but only in execution of a decree or order passed under the provisions of this Act."

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL moved the omission of all the words of the section from the beginning to the words "as the case may be," and the substitution of the following:—

"When an arrear of rent remained due from any ryot, whether at the end of the year or not."

The object of the amendment was to facilitate the recovery of rent. Under this Bill there would be no distraint; occupancy tenures might be sold or not, according to the custom of the country, in satisfaction of arrears of rent; and in the third place a defaulter might be put in jail for default in the payment of rent. But as that process would be expensive to the landlord, it might be easily imagined that it would not facilitate the speedy recovery of rent. The only other remedy was ejectment or eviction under section 31. But as the section was worded, no ryot would be liable to be ejected except when an arrear remained due at the end of the year. So that for one whole year the zemindar could be kept at bay, though at the same time he would be bound to meet his demand with the same punctuality as ever. Now this BABOO KRISTODAS PAL considered not fair. The Government had frequently recognized the necessity of facilitating the recovery of rent; and as a special rent law was about to be passed for the province of Chota Nagpore, it seemed meet and fair that such a procedure should be proscribed in that respect as would secure the object in view. If a ryot, for default in the payment of rent, were rendered liable to be ejected from his holding, he would take proper precaution not to allow his rent to fall into arrear. If necessary, a review of judgment might be allowed in cases of ejectment, and reasonable opportunity should be given to the ryot to show cause why he could not pay his rent on the due date. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL thought that it was but fair that when other means of realizing rent were so ineffectual, this one means of doing so expeditiously should not be rendered so lax in its working as to practically nullify its effect.

The HON'BLE BABOO ISSER CHUNDER MITTER said that this was another item of improvement in the law against which he had nothing to say in its other phases. But considering the question as it at present stood, the Council must remember that the proposed provision had not yet been brought into operation in Bengal: it was still under consideration. How far it was wanted in the districts of Chota Nagpore was another question. There were many difficulties in the way of selling tenures within the year. The crops were on the ground, and if you sold a tenure in the middle of the year, it would operate very oppressively on cultivators. Nevertheless, taking the provision in the abstract, he was not opposed to it. He was quite agreeable to making tenures saleable on failure of payment of instalments, just as estates were; but he thought that the question had not yet received the consideration which it deserved. The question would come up before the Government of India in connection with the general amendment of the rent law, and he thought it might well wait until such consideration was given to it. No difficulty, it seemed, had been experienced in Chota Nagpore in respect to the realization of rent. The tenures there were mostly heritable, or held at the pleasure of the landlord; there were very few transferable tenures in the province, and he believed that, practically, the amendment would be of very little use there. The question was a large one and required serious consideration. Moreover, he understood that this question had been regarded in a different light by the Government of India, and he believed there was a letter from that Government giving expression to its views on this subject, in which the Government of India seemed quite opposed to transfers of tenures by sale for arrears.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said that he wished to observe, in addition to what had fallen from the hon'ble member who had just spoken, that this question of facilitating the recovery of rent was not practically called for. The landholders of Chota Nagpore did not require a special procedure to recover their rent; what was rather needed was protection for the ryot more than for the landlord, and Chota Nagpore was the last place in which, in a matter of this kind, we should attempt to go beyond the stage to which we had gone in Bengal.

The HON'BLE BABOO MOHINI MOHAN ROY said he supported the amendment for this reason, that although the law in Bengal now was that the ryot might be ejected at the end of the year, practically it took a great deal more time than that to do so: a couple of years was about the least that would be required in effecting an ejectment. And he found, on reference to section 88 of the Bill, that in all cases for the ejectment of a ryot or the cancelment of a lease, the decree should specify the amount of the arrear, and that if such amount, together with interest and costs of suit, be paid into Court within fifteen days from the date of decree, execution should be stayed. Therefore, practically, the ryot could always save his tenure by paying the arrears under the decree for ejectment.

The HON'BLE MR. AMEER ALI said he was inclined to support the amendment, because he was of opinion that the provisions of section 31 would operate harshly towards the landlord, as the ryot could only be compelled to pay his rent at the end of the year; and under process of law, an ejectment suit might last for two years, and during the whole of the time the landlord would be kept out of his rent. He thought that on principle the amendment was correct.

The HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said he thought it would be improving the law at the wrong end if the Council began by improving it with regard to persons who had more primitive notions than the people of Bengal. Although on principle there appeared to be no objection to the amendment, still, when you were about to alter the law, it was very necessary to consider the people in respect to whose affairs the alteration was proposed: they were less civilized and less capable of knowing what the law was, and if this sudden change in the law was passed amongst a people of this kind, it would, as he had said before, be improving the law at the wrong end. As it had been said more than once that larger measures were in contemplation for the amendment of the rent law, he thought it would be better to leave the matter as it stood and to uphold the Bengal Act in this respect. He should therefore vote against the amendment.

The HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE would say that the introduction of a provision making ejectment from land an easy and ordinary process might even be a source of political danger. He thought that the sympathies of the Council would be entirely wasted if lavished thus upon the zemindars of Chota Nagpore. Most of these had but a small quit-rent to pay, which bore no appreciable relation to the rents which they received from their tenants, and had no difficulty whatever either in paying their revenue or getting their rent. That this question of ejectment amongst a primitive people was a serious matter in the opinion of the local officers was plain from the fact that not merely the occupancy ryot, but all ryots were protected from ejectment save under orders of the court, and he would oppose any modification not supported by the local officers.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL observed that he did not see how the amendment he proposed would at all alter the state of things to which the hon'ble member who last spoke had referred. The ejectment of a ryot could not be made without instituting a suit, and that suit must be heard by the Deputy Commissioner. Then, if within fifteen days the amount decreed with interest and costs were paid into court, the tenure might be saved; so he did not see how practically the position of the Commissioner was altered. The only difference was that instead of ejectment being decreed when the arrear was for one year, he suggested that recovery by ejectment might be made, whether the amount in arrear was for one year or not: that was the only difference which the amendment would make. And the necessity for the amendment arose from the general character of the people and the provisions of the Bill with regard to the recovery of rent, which might be rendered null and void if the ryots proved refractory. It had already been remarked that occupancy tenures were rare in Chota Nagpore. If such was the case, then tenures could not be sold, and the present restrictive provision about ejectment would prove more to the detriment of the rent-receiver than otherwise. As had been already remarked, it might take two years to get a decree in an ejectment suit; and the Bill as it was framed would give no facilities whatever for the recovery of rent from refractory ryots. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL admitted that the relations between zemindars and ryots in Chota Nagpore were of a feudal nature, but he could not understand why the feudal power should vest in the patriarchal ruler of the district and not in the landlord. Surely this was at variance with the usual conditions of the feudal system.

The HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL remarked that although it had been stated that an ejectment suit might occupy two years, it might, on the other hand, take only two months to get a decree; and might it not be unfair to compel a ryot to pay rent before his operations for the year were concluded? As he had said before, he thought it would be dangerous to make such a change.

After some further discussion, the motion was by leave withdrawn.

Section 34 provided for the registry of transfers of tenures by "all dependent talookdars and other persons possessing a permanent heritable interest in land intermediate between the zemindar and the cultivator."

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL moved the omission of the words above quoted, and the substitution for them of the words—

"All dependent talookdars and other persons possessing a permanent transferable or heritable interest in land."

He was an advocate of registration of tenures. He did not see why only those who possessed heritable interests in land intermediate between the zemindar and the cultivator should be required to register their tenures. That limited the operation of the law to an extent which he thought was not desirable. He knew that that was the law under Bengal Act VIII of 1869, but, in his opinion, the law was defective. He thought that the registration of tenures should be extended as far as possible, as it would remove much uncertainty and misunderstanding as to who was the actual holder of a tenure, and it was with that view that he moved this amendment.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said the section as it stood was intended to apply to a particular class of tenures in Chota Nagpore—a kind of feudal tenures with succession to the heirs of the grantee, but with a reversion to the landlord on failure of such heirs. The object of the amendment was to include occupancy tenures within the provisions of the section, whereas the section as it stood would apply to all but that class of tenures. He himself had no objection to make to the principle of the amendment. Occupancy tenures were not included, in deference to the opinions of the local officers, simply because occupancy ryots had in Chota Nagpore a very shadowy sort of right. But he should prefer that the section should be left as it stood, on the ground that he was not prepared to say how far the amendment would be practically workable.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL observed that the bhuinhari and bhuia tenures were heritable, though they were not transferable, and he saw no reason why the holders of those tenures should not be required to register them.

The HON'BLE BABOO JESER CHUNDER MITTER thought it was necessary only to provide for the registration of tenures which were transferable as well as tenures which were heritable. The only district in which there were tenures which were both heritable and transferable was the district of Singbhoom; in the other districts tenures were simply heritable, there being very few which were transferable. He thought the object in view would be met by the insertion of the words "or transferable" after the word "permanent" in line 2 of the section.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS explained that section 34 was not intended to apply to transferable tenures; section 35 was meant to provide for certain tenures of that nature. The difference between the amendment and the provisions in the Bill was that the former would include "occupancy tenures;" and he was not prepared to say that he wished to see occupancy tenures included.

The HON'BLE BABOO MOHINI MOHAN ROY would include both classes of tenures in this provision: he thought it was the interest of the ryot that transfers or changes in title should be registered. The omission to register had hitherto led to much litigation.

The HON'BLE MR. MACKENZIE said that personally he had always advocated the registration of transfers of occupancy tenures; but he thought it was not

SUITS BETWEEN LANDLORDS AND TENANTS IN CHOTA NAGPORE.

The Hon'ble MR. REYNOLDS moved that the Bill to amend the procedure in suits between landlords and tenants in Chota Nagpore be further considered in order to the settlement of its clauses.

The motion was agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. REYNOLDS said that the amendment upon section 16, of which he had given notice, was of an entirely verbal character. The section itself was a reproduction of section 11 of Act X of 1859, previous to the passing of which law the power of compelling the attendance of ryots by their zemindars had been in force. The phraseology of the existing provision was antiquated, and he therefore proposed to substitute for it a section, the effect of which would practically be the same :—

“All zemindars and other landholders are prohibited from compelling the attendance of their tenants for the adjustment of their rents or for any other purpose, and from adopting any means of compulsion for enforcing payment of the rent due to them other than those authorised by this Act.”

The motion was agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. REYNOLDS said that according to section 22 of the Bill as it now stood, in every application for enhancement of rent there must be a petition for the measurement of the land. It was not intended to confine enhancement applications to cases in which the area of the holding was in dispute, nor to require that the applicants should necessarily ask for the measurement of the land in every case, but only when it was necessary. MR. REYNOLDS therefore moved certain amendments in the section which made it run thus—

“Any person wishing to enhance the rent previously paid to him by any such under-tenant or ryot may present a petition to the Deputy Commissioner to assess the rent on the land in respect of which such enhancement is sought, and (if necessary) to measure the same.”

The motion was agreed to.

On the motion of the Hon'ble MR. REYNOLDS section 24 was similarly amended.

The consideration of section 27 relating to claims to abatement of rent was postponed at the last meeting, in order that it might be amended so as to make it correspond with the sections relating to enhancement.

The Hon'ble MR. REYNOLDS moved that the following section be substituted for section 27 :—

“Any under-tenant or ryot having a right of occupancy, and wishing to claim an abatement of the rent previously paid by him, may present a petition to the Deputy Commissioner to assess the rent upon the land in respect of which such abatement is sought, and, if necessary, to measure the same.

“Such petition shall specify the particulars mentioned in section 23, and the grounds on which such under-tenant or ryot considers that he is entitled to such abatement. The provisions of sections 49 and 50 shall apply to all such applications.”

The motion was agreed to.

A corresponding amendment was, on the motion of the Hon'ble MR. REYNOLDS, made in section 28.

Section 56 provided that if the cost of serving a summons or warrant be not deposited in court, the case should not be brought on the file of suits; but in such case the plaintiff might present another plaint at any time within the period "allowed by the law for the time being in force for the limitation of suits." The wording of the section, MR. REYNOLDS said, did not make it quite clear whether the law in force as to limitation referred to the general law of limitation or to the specific limitations laid down by this Bill. The intention was to refer to the limitations laid down previously in section 42 and the following sections of this Bill, and to make this quite clear he moved that for the words within quotations the words "prescribed by this Act for the limitation of suits" be substituted.

The motion was agreed to.

A similar amendment was, on the motion of the HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS, made in section 62.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS then moved that the Bill be passed. The only alteration made in the Bill which was of more than a verbal character was the alteration in section 27. But the principle of that amendment was discussed and accepted by the Council at its last meeting, and he thought there was nothing in the other amendments which were passed at the present sitting which need lead to further delay in the passing of the Bill.

The motion was agreed to and the Bill passed.

On the motion of the HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS the Hon'ble Mr. Ameer Ali was added to the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate the law relating to the excise revenue in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 16th instant.

A. MACKENZIE,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

fair that the hon'ble member should propose this amendment, as he had consented to postpone all substantive amendments of the present law. The section under consideration was intended to apply to an entirely different class of tenures from those which his hon'ble friend had in view, and he was not prepared to vote for the amendment without having the opinion of the local officers on the subject. The amendment would effect a very important modification of the law, and might no doubt be a very desirable improvement in the general law of rent. If we were to have a satisfactory rent law, we must insist on the registration of occupancy rights; but, under the circumstances, he thought the amendment ought not to be introduced into this Bill.

The HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said that having regard to the latter part of section 34, his inclination would be to restrict rather than to enlarge the registration of transfers; for if you enlarged the terms of the first portion of the section you might let in a flood of quasi-litigation. His own opinion, therefore, was rather against the enlargement of section 34, especially as it contained a provision which would enable the Deputy Commissioner, on proof to his satisfaction being given of the service of notice, to put the zemindar in possession of the talook or tenure.

After some further discussion the Council divided:—

Ayes 4.		Noes 4.
THE HON'BLE BABOO MOHINI MOHUN ROY.		THE HON'BLE BABOO ISSER CHUNDER MITTAL.
" RAJAH PRAMATHA NATHA ROY.		" MR MACKENZIE.
" BABOO KRISTODAS PAL.		" MR. REYNOLDS.
" MR. AMEER ALI.		" THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL.

The numbers being equal, the Advocate-General (presiding) gave a casting vote with the noes.

So the amendment was negatived.

The HON'BLE RAJAH PRAMATHA NATHA ROY withdrew the amendments to sections 37 and 71, of which he had given notice, because his first amendment, with which they were connected, was negatived.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL moved the introduction of the following section after section 138:—

"No appeal shall lie from any decree of a Deputy Collector in a suit for arrears of rent under this Act unless the judgment-debtor deposit the amount of the decree with costs in the court of such Deputy Collector to the credit of the person who has obtained the decree."

The object of the section was that if the court of the Deputy Collector decreed a suit for an arrear of rent, the ryot might be required to deposit the amount, so that the zemindar might take it out of court. If, on the other hand, he preferred a suit in appeal, there would be no difficulty in obtaining the money from the zemindar. This provision had been suggested by several experienced local officers in reference to the general law for the recovery of rent. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL hoped it would not be considered that this provision introduced a material or radical alteration in the law in Chota Nagpore.

In the Small Cause Courts no application for review of judgment was allowed unless the amount of the decree and costs was deposited in court. He believed that in the Agrarian Disputes Act there was a provision requiring that no appeal should lie against a judgment for the recovery of rent, unless the amount decreed was deposited; and he thought that, if such a provision was just for other parts of the country, it was just for Chota Nagpore, particularly as this Bill did not offer sufficient facilities for the recovery of rent in that province.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said he must protest against the position taken up by the hon'ble member that the zemindars of Chota Nagpore required facilities for the recovery of rent. He did not know whether his hon'ble friend was speaking after communication with the zemindars of that province: on the contrary, MR. REYNOLDS thought the class which required protection and facilities was the tenant class. He admitted that in principle no objection could be taken to the amendment, and a similar provision, or something of the kind, had been inserted in the draft of the measure which it was proposed to introduce into Council. But it was one thing to do that in regard to Bengal proper and another to introduce this amendment into a law for Chota Nagpore. The Agrarian Disputes Act had never been put in force in that province, and the proposed provision seemed to him to be calculated to do a great deal of mischief in such a province as Chota Nagpore.

The HON'BLE BABOO ISSER CHUNDER MITTER observed that he was quite in favor of this amendment on principle; but, considering that it involved a question of the general improvement of the law, he would put it to his hon'ble friend whether the amendment could not well wait with other important matters connected with the amendment of the general rent law, which were now under consideration elsewhere.

The HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said this seemed to him to be a very radical change in the law. Appeals were now allowed in all sorts of cases without the deposit of the debt and costs. In the Small Cause Court, where no appeal was admissible, and there was just a chance of the reversal of a decree, it might be right to require the deposit of the amount decreed. But he thought it would be unjust to introduce such a principle in a matter so simple as this. Appeals were allowed in consequence of the want of experience on the part of Deputy Commissioners, and the injustice which might at times be done if their decisions were made final. That being so, he thought there should not be a hard condition attached to an appeal that the ryot must deposit the debt and costs before he could appeal. We ought rather to await the changes which were likely to take place in the rent law, and it would in his opinion be premature to introduce such a change here.

The motion was then negatived.

The HON'BLE RAJAH PRAMATHA NATHA ROY moved the omission of clauses (1) and (2) of section 147, and the insertion of the following clause:—

“by beat of tom-tom in the village in which the holding to which the notice or summons relates is situated.”

He said that from what he understood of the people in Chota Nagpore the clauses of this section, which related to personal service of notices and summonses, and to service through a general agent, could not apply, and that what he proposed in addition to clause (3) would be more suitable. The people were said to be a jungly people, and it would therefore be very difficult to effect personal service of a notice or summons on them. Moreover, he did not think any tenant, especially tenants in Chota Nagpore, had a general agent to attend at the courts and receive service of summonses and notices, and it would also be difficult to serve these processes upon them by registered letters, as they were said to be unable to read or write. A zemindar would therefore find it difficult to prove service of summons in such cases. It was for these reasons that this amendment was proposed, and a similar proposal was accepted by this Council in the Settlement Officers' Powers Bill.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said that the hon'ble member proposed to leave out the ordinary method of serving notices and summonses, and merely to provide that they might be served by beat of tom-tom. His hon'ble friend's arguments were founded on the assumption that all the notices and summonses that would be served under this Bill were notices and summonses served on ryots by zemindars, whereas it would often be the other way; and MR. REYNOLDS would therefore prefer to leave the section as it was. The service of notices and summonses by beat of tom-tom might be very appropriate where a general notice or summons had to be issued; but such a mode of service was not appropriate where the service was to be made on individuals.

After some conversation the amendment was by leave withdrawn.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 2nd of March.

STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT,
The 5th March 1878.

A. MACKENZIE,
Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops.

Statement showing Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops in the different Districts of Bengal, as reported to Government during the week ending the 2nd March 1878.

No.	District, and date of return.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date
BENGAL. Western Districts.
BUDDHAW DIV.	1 Burdwan, Mar. 2 '78	Nil	A little rain fell at Raneegunge on the 27th ultimo; the quantity is not stated. The rubber crops have been almost reaped. Potato has turned out tolerably well. Til is being sown. Cotton plants are improving. Sugarcane is good and is being cut. State and prospects of the crops in Raneegunge and Cutwa sub-divisions are as before. Cholera still rages in Cutwa sub-division. Both cholera and fever are still prevalent in Jehanabad sub-division.
	2 Bankura, " 2 "	Nil	Weather—very warm till the night of the 27th ultimo, when a thunderstorm cooled the air. The cold-weather crops are being reaped and giving a large outturn.
	3 Beerbhoom, " 2 "	Nil	Weather—somewhat cooler than last week. The cold-weather crops are doing well. The sugarcane crop is very good.
	4 Midnapore, " 2 "	Nil	Weather—grown somewhat cooler in the Sudder station; unseasonably warm elsewhere. The crops are nearly all harvested, but the outturn is not quite satisfactory.
	5 Hooghly, " 2 "	Nil	Weather—cloudy. Close in the first part of the week, but cool since the night of the 27th ultimo, when there were a few drops of rain accompanied with thunder and lightning. Sugarcane is being planted out. The rubber crops are being reaped; the outturn will be about fourteen annas. Public health is normal. One case of small-pox has been reported from Bullagur station.
PRESIDENCY DIV.	Howrah, " 4 "	Nil	Weather—rather cooler this week. Little or nothing on the ground but the boro dhan which is planted on the edges of the Rajapore bleed. A larger area has been planted than last year, and it is doing well. Small-pox is on the increase.
	6 24-Pargunnahs, Mar. 2 '78	Nil	What crops there are on the ground promise well, but rain is wanted. Public health is generally good, though a few cases of cholera are reported.
	7 Nadia, " 2 "	1.10	There has been rain generally. The weather was oppressive and hot, but since the rain it has become cool. There is not much on the ground, and what there is, is poor. The mango blossoms have been injured by the wind, but the rain has been of much use in enabling the cultivators to prepare their lands for rice.
	8 Jessore, " 2 "	0.35	Weather—cooler after the rain. The winter crops are harvested. Ploughing is going on for spring sowings which will be commenced, now that the rain has fallen. In Khoolna, Narail and Bagirhat the boro dhan has suffered from drought.
	9 Moorshedabad, " 2 "	0.18	Weather—seasonable. A little injury has been done to the crops in Gonas and Mohirapore thanas by hail and rain, but favourable reports are received of the crops elsewhere. Cholera prevails in three thanas.
RAJSHAHY AND COOCH BEHAR DIV.	10 Dinagepore, " 1 '78	Nil	Weather—fair. Rice is selling at 18½ annas the rupee; purchases are being made in large quantities; a rise in price is expected.
	11 Rajshahye, " 2 "	0.05	There has been a slight fall of rain throughout the district during the week. The prospects of the rubber crops continue to be satisfactory. Boro paddy is now being transplanted. Jute is also being sown. A few cases of cholera and small-pox have been reported from Lalpore and Bagmara police stations and from the Nowhatta outpost.
	12 Rangpore, " 1 "	Nil	There were a few drops of rain on the night of the 27th ultimo, but not enough to measure. Westerly winds are prevalent. State and prospects of the crops continue to be satisfactory. The outturn of sugarcane will be good. Cholera is somewhat prevalent in the east of the district.
	13 Bogra, " 2 "	0.02	Weather—clear and seasonable. No change in the state and prospects of the standing crops. Jute and sesamum are being sown in the eastern part of the district.
	14 Pubna, " 2 "	1.10	Weather—warm during the first and cold during the latter part of the week. Rain with hailstones, attended by a heavy storm, fell on the night of the 27th ultimo. The prospects of mutter , khesari and mosoor appear to be not bad. The rubber crops promise a fair outturn. Nearly fifteen annas of kaldi have been gathered.
	15 Darjeeling, " 1 "	Not measurable.	A good deal of high wind, which has dispersed the mist and clouds so long hanging about. There was a sprinkling of rain. All the crops are progressing favourably, but there is nothing of importance on the ground at present.
	16 Jalpigoree, " 2 "	Nil	Weather—seasonable. The land is being prepared for dhadai paddy. Mustard tobacco, cheena , kaon and wheat are promising.
RAJSHAHY AND COOCH BEHAR DIV.	Cooch Behar, Feb 28 "	Nil	The weather is mild yet, but is gradually becoming warm. The prospects of cheena and kaon are good. The cultivators are busy in preparing lands for sowing bihi dhan . Tobacco is being cut. Public health is generally good; but in Dinhatia a few cases of small-pox have appeared.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h and 22h.; the maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard (Newman's No. 86) formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction and movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The results of the observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore $\cdot 008$ lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 1° or $1\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$ lower; and finally, the thermometer which has furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during the last twenty years and upwards is found to read $0\cdot 6^{\circ}$ higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

RULE III.—No process which comes within the operation of Rule I shall be drawn up for service or execution, except upon an application made to the Court for the purpose in writing, on a document bearing upon its face stamps not less in amount than the fee which by Rule I is directed to be charged for serving and executing the process sought to be drawn up. This application may, however, at the option of the party making it, be included in the petition by which he moves the Court to order the process to issue but in that case the petition must bear the requisite stamps for the process fee, in addition to such stamps, if any, as are needed for its own validity: and, in either case, the filing of the application, thus duly stamped, shall constitute payment of the fee chargeable for the process.

RULE IV.—In cases which are covered by the note to Article 3 of Part I, and the note to Articles 3 and 4 of Parts II, III, and IV of the Table of Fees in Rule I, the additional fee which may become payable after the process has been actually issued shall be paid by filing a written requisition to the Court to receive the fee, which document shall bear on the face of it stamps not less in amount than the additional fee, together with memorandum of the purpose for which it is paid.

RULE V.—The proceeds of a sale effected in execution of any decree will only be paid out of Court on an application made for that purpose in writing, and the additional fee of Article 6, Parts II, III, and IV, must be paid by stamps affixed to, or impressed upon, the first of such applications: whether it be or be not made by the person who obtained the order for sale, or whether it does or does not extend to the whole of the proceeds. No fee will be chargeable upon any such application subsequent to the first.

N.B.—The fees paid in pursuance of these Rules must, in all proceedings, be deemed and treated as part of the necessary and proper costs of the party who pays them.

9. Every vacancy on the establishment in the rank of Lieutenant-General or in that of General shall be filled up in like manner by the promotion of the Senior Officer of the Indian Army in the grade next below, or by the moving up of the name of the Senior Officer of the Staff Corps borne on the list of that grade.

A supernumerary General Officer promoted for distinguished service in the field, and absorbed under Art. 12, shall take his seniority from the date of his promotion as published in the "London Gazette."

14. Field Marshals shall be appointed at the will of the Sovereign, and the rank shall be conferred without reference to seniority. A General Officer, retired under Our Warrant of the 31st day of December 1877, shall remain eligible for promotion to the rank of Field Marshal.

2. Forms of tenders, with copies of the schedule, will be supplied by the undersigned, and none others will be received. Tenderers must also distinctly understand that any alteration or erasure in the figures, &c., once entered in the three last columns of the schedule, viz. 5. Parties may tender for one or as many complete classes as they please, but not for a portion of a class.

10. Persons desirous of undertaking the contract can obtain, on application at the office of the undersigned, printed forms of tender and schedule of the articles to be supplied, and any other information that may be required connected with the contract, and the conditions the tenderers must abide by, to prevent their tenders being treated as informal.

PART III.

Act of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second Publication.]

THE following Act, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, received the assent of His Honor on the 14th February 1878; and having been assented to by the Governor-General on the 24th idem, is hereby published for general information:—

ACT NO. I OF 1878.

An Act for the Licensing of Trades, Dealings, and Industries within the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Preamble.
WHEREAS, in order to provide means for defraying the public expenditure from time to time incurred and to be incurred for the relief and prevention of famine in British India, it is necessary to effect a permanent increase of the revenue; and it is therefore expedient that persons carrying on trades, dealings, and industries in the territories administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal should take out licences and pay for the same; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I.

Preliminary.

1. This Act may be called "The Bengal License Act, 1878," and it shall come into force from the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette with the assent of the Governor-General.

Parts I, II, and V of this Act apply to all the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal including the Town of Calcutta; Part III applies to all such territories except the Town of Calcutta; and Part IV applies only to the Town of Calcutta.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

Interpretation clause.

"Collector."

"Collector" means the Chief Officer in charge of the revenue administration of a district.

"The Commissioners," except in Part IV, mean the Commissioners defined in Bengal Act V of 1876, and in Part IV, the Commissioners defined in Bengal Act IV of 1876.

"Local Government" means the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the time being, or the person acting in that capacity.

"Local Government."

"Section" means a section of this Act.

3. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to affect the tax on professions, trades, and callings imposed for municipal purposes by Bengal Act IV of 1876.

4. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to apply to persons earning their livelihood solely by agriculture, or to any cultivator of land as such in respect of the sale of the produce of his land, when he shall not keep a shop or stall for the sale of such produce, or to any receiver of rent in kind in respect of the sale of produce received as such rent.

Act not to apply to cultivators of land or landlords receiving rent in kind.

PART II.

General Provisions applicable in all Districts.

5. Every person who, on or after the first day of April 1878, falls under any of the heads of the Schedules hereto annexed, and carries on (whether on behalf of himself or any other person) his trade, dealing, or industry in any district situated in the said territories, shall take out a license under this Act in such district, and shall pay for the same the annual fee specified in the same Schedules as payable by persons of the class to which he belongs. Provided that no person whose annual earnings from his trade, dealing, or industry carried on within such district are less than one hundred rupees shall be required to take out a license under this Act.

Annual license to be taken out.

For the purposes of this Act the Town of Calcutta shall be deemed to be a separate district.

6. Such license shall be granted by the Collector of such district, or by such officer as he may appoint in this behalf; and in Calcutta, by the Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners.

7. Every such license shall specify—

- (a) the date of the grant thereof;
- (b) the name, father's name, residence, caste, if any, and the trade, dealing, or industry of the licensee;
- (c) the fee paid for the license;
- (d) the place or places within such district at which the licensee intends to carry on his trade, dealing, or industry for the ensuing year;
- (e) the term for which such license shall remain in force;

and shall be received in evidence as prima facie proof of all matters contained therein.

8. Every such license shall have effect in such district only, and shall continue in force from the day of the date thereof until the first day of April next after the day of the granting thereof.

9. Every person to whom any such license has been granted, and who desires to continue to carry on his trade, dealing, or industry in such district after the expiration thereof, shall take out a fresh license for that purpose for the following year, to expire on the day appointed in the last preceding section, and shall renew the same so long as he desires to carry on such trade, dealing, or industry.

PART III.

Applicable to all districts except Calcutta.

10. As soon as may be after the commencement of this Act and the first day of January in every subsequent year, the Collector shall prepare a list of the persons in the district aforesaid to be licensed under this Act. Such list shall state—

- (a) the trade, dealing, or industry of each of the persons therein named;
- (b) the class and grade under which he is charged; and
- (c) the fee to be paid for his license.

Such list shall be in such language as the local Government may direct; but a copy thereof in the language of the district shall be filed in the Office of the Collector, and shall be open to public inspection at all reasonable times without any payment.

The local Government shall have power to declare what shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the language of the district.

11. The Collector may, by a notice in writing, require the occupier of any house, manufactory, or shop to forward to him a statement in writing signed by the occupier of the names of all persons residing in such house or working in such manufactory or shop, and of their respective trades, dealings, industries, or occupations.

12. The Collector shall from time to time determine under which of the classes or grades mentioned in Schedule A hereto annexed every person required to take out a license under this Act shall be charged, and shall prepare or amend the said list accordingly.

13. A person or firm carrying on several trades, dealings, or industries, in the same district, and coming under more than one of the designations in the said Schedule, shall be chargeable only under one of the said designations at the discretion of the Collector. And in the case of a firm, payment by any one of the partners shall, for the purposes of this Act, be considered payment by the firm.

14. The Collector may, subject to such rules as the local Government may lay down, remit the whole or any part of the fee payable under this Act by any person who may carry on his trade, dealing, or industry for a portion of the year only.

15. The list, or such part or parts thereof as the Collector thinks fit, shall be published in the principal bazars, and at all police-stations of all towns, and at all sub-divisional offices, police-stations, and outposts in the district, and at some conspicuous place in all villages concerned, together with a notification setting forth the Schedule hereto annexed applicable to the district, and directing that if any person falling under any of the classes specified in the said Schedule, whether he is mentioned in such list or not, continues his trade or dealing in the said district, payment of the fee specified in the list as payable by him, or, when he is not mentioned in such list, of the fee mentioned in the said schedule as payable by persons of the class and grade to which he belongs, must be made by him within sixty days of the date of the publication of the notification, and within sixty days next after the first day of April of each succeeding year.

16. When a statement in writing has been furnished to the Collector under section eleven, from which it appears that any person in the employ of any other person, company, or corporation is chargeable with fees under this Act, the Collector may require the employer of such person to deduct the amount of his fee from any salary or wages due to such person, and to pay it to the Collector on his behalf.

17. Any person mentioned in the list referred to in section ten and objecting to the class or grade in which he is charged, may, within thirty days after its publication, or within such further time as the Collector may in each case think fit, apply by petition to the Collector in order to establish his right to have his name transferred to another class or grade, or altogether removed from the list.

18. The Collector shall fix a day for the hearing of the petition; and on the day so fixed, or on such subsequent day as he may from time to time direct, shall hear the same, and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

Provided that if, in the judgment of the Collector, the petitioner is able to shew that the fee which has been charged exceeds two per cent. upon his annual earnings in his trade, dealing, or industry within the district, such excess shall, for the purpose of section seventeen, be deemed a valid ground of objection, and the Collector shall thereupon order the petitioner's name to be transferred to another class or grade, or to be altogether removed from the list. The Collector may also, on this ground, at any time reduce the amount of fee payable by any person under class V of Schedule A hereto annexed to the fee payable under class VI.

19. There shall be no appeal from an order of a Collector under section eighteen; but where the order is passed by any officer subordinate to a Collector, an appeal shall lie to the Collector, or to some officer specially empowered by the local Government in this behalf, whose decision shall be final.

Every petition of appeal under this section shall be accompanied by a copy of the order complained of, and be presented within fifteen days of the date of such order. In computing the said period of fifteen days, the day on which the order complained of was made, and the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the same, shall be deducted.

20. The Collector may, for the purpose of enabling him to determine under which of the said classes or grades the petitioner should be charged, summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses and compel them to give evidence, and compel the production of documents by the same means and, as far as possible, in the same manner as is provided in the case of a civil court by the Code of Civil Procedure.

Provided that the Collector shall not, in the course of any proceedings under this section, call for any evidence except at the instance of the petitioner, or in order to ascertain the correctness of facts alleged by him.

21. If after expiry of the period mentioned in the notification published under section fifteen for payment of the amount specified therein, any person carries on his trade, dealing, or industry without having taken out a license as required by this Act, he shall be liable, by order of the Collector, to pay a fine not exceeding thrice the amount payable by him in respect of such license, exclusive of the amount so payable; and on receipt of such payment the Collector shall grant him a license.

22. All sums due under section twenty-one, and all fees payable under this Act, shall, where the amount exceeds fifty rupees, be recoverable either as if they were arrears of land revenue, or by distress and sale of the moveable property of the person liable, at the discretion of the Collector. In all other cases they shall be recoverable by distress and sale of the moveable property of the person liable.

The provisions of sections 113, 114, 115, and 119 of Bengal Act V of 1873 shall apply, as far as possible, to warrants of distress and sale issued by the Collector under this section; and no tools or implements of trade or agriculture shall be distrained or sold under any such warrant.

23. No sums due under this Act shall be recoverable by any process of law after the expiry of three months from the last day of the year in respect of which they are payable.

24. Every person holding a license under this Act shall produce and show such license when required so to do by an officer generally or specially empowered in writing by the Collector to make such requisition.

But, save so far as is provided in section twenty-nine, no person shall be proceeded against for neglect or refusal to produce such license except at the instance of the Collector.

25. Courts of Wards, and receivers, and managers appointed by any court in British India shall be chargeable under this Act in respect of any trade, dealing, or industry of which the income is officially in their possession or under their control.

26. When any trustee, guardian, curator, committee, or agent is charged under this Act in such capacity, or when any Court of Wards, or receiver, or manager appointed by any court is charged under this Act, every court and person so charged may, from time to time, out of the money coming to its or his possession as such trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent, or as such Court of Wards, receiver, or manager, retain so much as is sufficient to pay the fee charged.

Every such person or court is hereby indemnified for every retention and payment made in pursuance of this Act.

27. The Collector may require the Commissioners, and the punchait of any union constituted under Bengal Act V of 1876, or any village punchait appointed under Bengal Act VI of 1870, to furnish, within a period to be specified under the orders of the local Government, returns showing the names and numbers of persons chargeable under this Act resident within the limits of their municipality, union, or village, together with the class under which they respectively fall and the fees payable by them respectively.

If the Commissioners or the punchait fail within the period prescribed to make such returns, or if they make such returns and the Collector has reason to doubt their accuracy, he may at any time revise the return or cause a return showing the names, numbers, and classes aforesaid to be prepared in such manner as may be prescribed by the local Government.

Such return, when finally accepted or settled by the Collector, shall be deemed to be the list referred to in section ten.

On the presentation of a petition of objection under section seventeen by any person entered in such list, the Collector may either dispose of it himself, or may refer it to any officer specially empowered by Government under section nineteen, or to a bench of not less than three Commissioners, whose decision shall be final.

28. When the return mentioned in the last preceding section has been furnished or prepared for any municipality, station, or union, the local Government may call upon the Commissioners, or may direct the Magistrate in the case of a union, to pay to the Collector, within a period to be named by the local Government, a sum calculated on such return in accordance with the provisions of this Act, after such deduction for necessary expenses as the local Government may fix.

29. The Commissioners and Magistrate as aforesaid may take proceedings under sections twenty-one and twenty-four for the recovery of any penalties and fines; and shall exercise the powers conferred on a Collector by section twenty-four.

All such penalties and fines shall, when so recovered, be credited to the Municipal, Station, or Union Fund, as the case may be.

30. The Commissioners and the Magistrate, as aforesaid, shall have the same powers of recovering the fees chargeable under this Act within the limits of their municipality, station, or union that they have for the realization of municipal taxes under Bengal Act V of 1876. Where the amount due exceeds fifty rupees, and it cannot be recovered in the manner above provided, application may be made by the Commissioners or Magistrate aforesaid to the Collector, and the Collector shall thereupon proceed to recover it as an arrear of land revenue. The said Commissioners or Magistrate may also appropriate any part of the revenues of their municipality, station, or union for the payment of any sum leviable from it under section twenty-eight; and if the sum so leviable is not paid at due date, the local Government may order it, or any part of it, to be deducted from any funds standing to the credit of the municipality, station, or union in any Government treasury.

31. No person who pays fees under this Act shall, so long as he continues to pay the same, be liable to pay any instalment of road cess or public works cess on his house under Part IV of Bengal Act X of 1871, or section 7 of Bengal Act II of 1877, falling due after the first day of April 1878.

32. All or any of the powers and duties conferred and imposed by this Act on a Collector may, subject to the orders of the Collector of the district, be exercised and performed by any Assistant or Deputy Collector, or by such other officer as the local Government shall from time to time appoint in this behalf.

PART IV.

Special Provisions for the Town of Calcutta.

33. From every person who shall within the town of Calcutta exercise any of the trades, dealings, industries, or callings included in the classes specified in Schedule B hereto annexed, the Commissioners shall levy the fees shown in the said Schedule, and shall pay to the local Government annually a sum to be fixed by such Government, and calculated on the proceeds of such fees. For the purposes of this Part, any person working or carrying on business in Calcutta shall be deemed to be a resident of Calcutta;

and the Town of Calcutta shall be deemed to include all places within the local limits of the ordinary original jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature of Fort William in Bengal, including Fort William itself, the river Hooghly within Port limits, the Esplanade, and Coolie Bazar now called Hastings.

34. The provisions of sections ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, twenty, twenty-one, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five and twenty-six, shall be in force in the Town of Calcutta, and all the powers of a Collector under the said sections shall be exercised by the Chairman of the Commissioners, or by some person or persons authorized by him in that behalf.

35. On the presentation of a petition of objection under section seventeen, the Chairman may either himself dispose of it, or may refer it for disposal to a bench of not less than three Commissioners. The Chairman or any such bench may reduce the amount of fee payable by any person under the said Schedule B to the fee payable under any lower class or grade of that schedule, on its being shown to his or their satisfaction that the fee charged exceeds two per cent. upon the annual earnings of such petitioner in his trade, dealing, or industry carried on within the limits of the said Town of Calcutta; and the Chairman shall amend the list published under section fifteen in accordance with the orders passed upon such petition.

There shall be no appeal from any order passed under this section.

36. The Commissioners shall have the same powers for the recovery of all sums due under this Part that they have for the realization of municipal rates under Bengal Act IV of 1876.

PART V.

Miscellaneous.

37. From the nett amount of all fees and penalties paid or recovered under this Act other than those credited to Municipal, Station, or Union Funds under section twenty-nine, after deducting the expense of collection, so much as the Governor-General in Council from time to time directs shall be applied, in such manner as the Governor-General in Council thinks fit, for the purpose of increasing the revenues available for defraying expenditure incurred or to be incurred for the relief and prevention of famine in the territories administered by the local Government, or, if the Governor-General in Council so directs, in any other part of British India.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Forest Act, 1878:"

It shall come into force at once in the territories respectively administered by the Governor of Bombay in Council, the Lieutenant-Governors of the Lower Provinces, the North-Western Provinces, and the Panjáb, (except the District of Hazára), and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces and Assam.

And any other Local Government may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, extend, by notification in the local official Gazette, this Act to all or any of the territories for the time being under its administration.

On and from the date on which this Act comes into force in any of the said territories, the enactments mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed in such territories. But all rules made under or validated by any of the said enactments and in force at the date of such repeal shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, be deemed to have been made and published hereunder.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Forest-officer" means any person whom the Governor General in Council, or the Local Government or any officer empowered by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government in this behalf, may from time to time appoint by name, or as holding an office, to carry out all or any of the purposes of this Act, or to do anything required by this Act or any rule made under this Act to be done by a Forest-officer:

"Tree." "Tree" includes bamboos, stumps and brushwood:

OF RESERVED FORESTS.

3. The Local Government may from time to time constitute any forest-land or waste-land which is the property of Government, or over which the Government has proprietary rights, or to the whole or any part of the forest-produce of which the Government is entitled, a Reserved Forest in the manner hereinafter provided.

4. Whenever it is proposed to constitute a Reserved Forest, the Local Government may publish a notification in the local official Gazette—

(a) declaring that it is proposed to constitute such land a reserved forest;

(b) specifying the limits of such forest; and

(c) appointing an officer (hereinafter called "the Forest Settlement Officer") to inquire into and determine the existence, nature and extent of any rights alleged to exist in favour of any person in or over any land comprised within such limits, or in or over any forest-produce, and to deal with the same as provided in this chapter.

Explanation 1.—For the purpose of clause (b) of this section, it shall be sufficient to describe the limits of the forest by roads, rivers, ridges or other well-known or readily intelligible boundaries.

The officer appointed under clause (c) of this section shall ordinarily be a person not holding any forest-office except that of Forest Settlement Officer.

Nothing in this section shall prevent the Local Government from appointing any number of officers not exceeding three, not more than one of whom shall be a person holding any forest-office except as aforesaid, to perform the duties of a Forest Settlement Officer under this Act.

5. During the interval between the publication of such notification and the date fixed by the notification under section nineteen, no right shall be acquired in or over the land comprised in such notification, except by succession or under a grant or contract in writing made or entered into by or on behalf of Government or some person in whom such right was vested when the former notification was issued; and no fresh clearings for cultivation or for any other purpose shall be made in such land.

6. When a notification has been issued under section four, the Forest Settlement Officer shall publish in the language of the country, in every town and village in the neighbourhood of the land comprised therein, a proclamation—

(a) specifying the limits of the proposed forest;

(b) explaining the consequences which, as herein after provided, will ensue on the reservation of such forest; and

(c) fixing a period of not less than three months from the date of such proclamation, and requiring every person claiming any right mentioned in section four or five either to present to such officer within such period a written notice specifying, or to appear before him and state, the nature of such right and the amount and particulars of the compensation (if any) claimed in respect thereof.

7. The Forest Settlement Officer shall take down in writing all statements made under section six, and shall, at some convenient place, enquire into all claims duly preferred under that section, and the existence of any rights mentioned in section four or five and not claimed under section six, so far as the same may be ascertainable from the records of Government and the evidence of any persons likely to be acquainted with the same.

8. For the purposes of such enquiry, the Forest Settlement Officer may exercise the following powers, that is to say:—

(a) power to enter, by himself or any officer authorized by him for the purpose, upon any land, and to survey, demarcate, and make a map of the same; and

(b) the powers of a Civil Court in the trial of suits.

9. Rights in respect of which no claim has been preferred under section six, and of the existence of which no knowledge has been acquired by enquiry under section seven, shall be extinguished, unless before the notification under section nineteen is published the person claiming them satisfies the Forest Settlement Officer that he had sufficient cause for not preferring such claim within the period fixed under section six.

10. In the case of a claim to a right in or over any land, other than a right of way or pasture or to forest-produce or a watercourse, the Forest Settlement Officer shall pass an order admitting or rejecting the same in whole or in part.

If such claim is admitted in whole or in part, the Forest Settlement Officer shall either (1) exclude such land from the limits of the proposed Forest; or (2) come to an agreement with the owner thereof for the surrender of his rights; or (3) proceed to acquire such land in the manner provided by the Land Acquisition Act, 1870.

For the purpose of so acquiring such land—

(a) the Forest Settlement Officer shall be deemed to be a Collector proceeding under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870;

(b) the claimant shall be deemed to be a person interested and appearing before him in pursuance of a notice given under section nine of that Act;

(c) the provisions of the preceding sections of that Act shall be deemed to have been complied with; and

(d) the Collector, with the consent of the claimant, or the Court, with the consent of both parties, may award compensation in land, or partly in land and partly in money.

11. In the case of a claim to rights of pasture or to forest-produce, the Forest Settlement Officer shall pass an order admitting or rejecting the same in whole or in part.

12. The Forest Settlement Officer, when passing any order under section eleven, shall record, so far as may be practicable,—

(a) the name, father's name, caste, residence and occupation of the person claiming the right;

(b) the designation, position and area of all fields or groups of fields (if any), and the designation and position of all buildings (if any), in respect of which the exercise of such rights is claimed.

13. If the Forest Settlement Officer admits in whole or in part any claim under section eleven, he shall also record the extent to which the claim is so admitted, specifying the number and description of the cattle which the claimant is from time to time entitled to graze in the forest, the season during which such pasture is permitted, the quantity of timber and other forest-produce which he is from time to time authorised to take or receive, or such other particulars as the case may require. He shall also record whether the timber or other forest-produce obtained by the exercise of the rights claimed may be sold or bartered.

14. After making such record, the Forest Settlement Officer shall, to the best of his ability, and having due regard to the maintenance of the Reserved Forest in respect of which the claim is made, pass such orders as will ensure the continued exercise of the rights so admitted. For this purpose, the Forest Settlement Officer may—

(a) set out some other forest-tract of sufficient extent, and in a locality reasonably convenient for the purposes of such claimants, and record an order conferring upon them a right of pasture or to forest-produce (as the case may be) to the extent so admitted; or

(b) so alter the limits of the proposed Forest as to exclude forest-land of sufficient extent, and in a locality reasonably convenient, for the purposes of the claimants; or

(c) record an order, continuing to such claimants a right of pasture or to forest-produce (as the case may be), to the extent so admitted, at such seasons, within such portions of the proposed Forest and under such rules as may from time to time be prescribed by the Local Government.

15. In case the Forest Settlement Officer finds it impossible, having due regard to the maintenance of the Reserved Forest, to make such settlement under section fourteen as shall ensure the continued exercise of the said rights to the extent so admitted, he shall (subject to such rules as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe in this behalf) commute such rights, either by the payment to such persons of a sum of money in lieu thereof, or by the grant of land, or in such other manner as he thinks fit.

16. Any person who has made a claim under this Act, or any Forest-officer or other person generally or specially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, may, within three months from the date of the order passed on such claim by the Forest Settlement Officer under section ten, eleven, fourteen or fifteen, present an appeal from such order to such officer of the Revenue Department, of rank not lower than that of a Collector or Deputy Commissioner, as the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the local official Gazette, appoint by name, or as holding an office, to hear appeals from such orders:

Provided that if the Local Government establishes (as it is hereby empowered to do) a Court (hereinafter called the Forest Court) composed of three persons to be appointed by the Local Government, such appeals shall be presented to such Court.

17. Every appeal under section sixteen shall be made by petition in writing, and may be delivered to the Forest Settlement Officer, who shall forward it without delay to the authority competent to hear the same.

If the appeal be to an officer appointed under section sixteen, it shall be heard in the manner prescribed for the time being for the hearing of appeals in matters relating to land-revenue.

If the appeal be to the Forest-court, the Court shall fix a day and a convenient place in the neighbourhood of the proposed forest for hearing the appeal, and shall give notice thereof to the parties, and shall hear such appeal accordingly.

The order passed thereon by such officer or Court, or by the majority of the members of such Court, shall be final, subject to revision by the Local Government.

18. The Local Government, or any person who has made a claim under this Act, may appoint any person to appear, plead and act on its or his behalf before the Forest Settlement Officer, or the appellate officer or Court, in the course of any inquiry or appeal under this Act.

19. When the following events have occurred (namely),—

(a) the period fixed under section six for preferring claims has elapsed, and all claims (if any) made within such period have been disposed of by the Forest Settlement Officer; and

(b) if such claims have been made, and the period limited by section sixteen for appealing from the orders passed on such claims has elapsed, and all appeals (if any) presented within such period have been disposed of by the appellate officer or Court; and

(c) all lands (if any) to be included in the proposed forest, which the Forest Settlement Officer has, under section ten, elected to acquire under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, have become vested in the Government under section sixteen of that Act, the Local Government may publish a notification in the local official Gazette, specifying definitely, according to boundary-marks erected or otherwise, the limits of the forest which it is intended to reserve, and declaring the same to be reserved from a date fixed by such notification.

From the date so fixed, such forest shall be deemed to be a Reserved Forest.

20. The Forest-officer shall, before the date fixed by such notification, cause a translation thereof into the language of the country to be published in every town and village in the neighbourhood of the forest.

21. The Local Government may, within five years from the publication of any notification under section nineteen, revise any arrangement made under section fourteen or seventeen, and may, for this purpose, rescind or modify any order made under section fourteen or seventeen, and direct that any one of the proceedings specified in section fourteen be taken in lieu of any other of such proceedings, or that the rights admitted under section eleven be commuted under section fifteen.

22. No right of any description shall be acquired in or over a Reserved Forest, except by succession or under a grant or contract in writing made by or on behalf of the Government or of some person in whom such right was vested when the notification under section nineteen was issued.

23. (d) articles bearing any names, brands or marks being, or purporting to be, the names, brands or marks of manufacturers resident in the United Kingdom or British India, and not made by such manufacturers.

19. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, prohibit or restrict the bringing or taking by sea or by land goods of any specified description into or out of British India or any specified part of British India.

CHAPTER V.

LEVY OF, AND EXEMPTION FROM, CUSTOMS-DUTIES.

20. Except as herein after provided, Customs-duties shall be levied at such rates as may be prescribed by or under any law for the time being in force, on—

(a) goods imported or exported by sea into or from any Customs-port from or to any Foreign Port;

(b) opium, salt or salted fish imported by sea from any Customs-port into any other Customs-port;

(d) goods brought in bond from one Customs-port to another:

Provided that no such duties shall be levied on goods belonging to the Government.

21. Except as otherwise expressly provided by any law for the time being in force, goods whereof any article liable to duty under this Act forms a part or ingredient shall be chargeable with the full duty which would be payable on such goods if they were entirely composed of such article, or if composed of more than one article liable to duty then with the full duty which would be payable on such goods if they were entirely composed of the article charged with the highest rate of duty.

22. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, fix, for the purpose of levying duties, tariff-values of any goods exported or imported by sea on which Customs-duties are by law imposed, and alter any such values fixed by any Tariff Act for the time being in force.

23. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, exempt any goods imported into, or exported from, British India, or into or from any specified Port therein, from the whole or any part of the Customs-duties leviable on such goods.

The Local Government may, by special order in such case, exempt from the payment of duty, under circumstances of an exceptional nature, to be stated in such order, any goods on which Customs-duties are leviable.

24. The Customs-collector may, subject to any general rules relating to the landing and shipping of passengers' baggage and the passing of the same through the Customs-house, which may be made under section 75, pass free of duty any baggage in actual use, and for this purpose may determine, subject to any such rules, whether any goods shall be treated as baggage in actual use, or as goods subject to duty.

25. If goods produced or manufactured in British India be imported into any Customs-port from any Foreign Port, such goods shall be liable to all the duties, conditions and restrictions (if any) to which goods of the like kind and value not so produced or manufactured are liable on the first importation thereof:

Provided that, if such importation takes place within three years after the exportation of such goods, and it is proved to the satisfaction of the Customs-collector that the property in such goods has continued in the person by whom, or on whose account, they were exported, the goods may be admitted without payment of duty.

26. Any goods produced or manufactured in British India which have been exported therefrom, and on the exportation of which any drawback of excise has been received shall, on being imported into any Customs-port, be subjected, unless the Chief Customs-Authority in any particular case otherwise directs by special order, to payment of excise duty, at the rate to which goods of the like kind and quality are liable at such port.

27. All goods derelict, jetsam, flotsam and wreck, brought or coming into any place in British India shall be subject to the same duties, if any, to which goods of the like kind are for the time being subject on importation at any Customs-port and shall in other respects be dealt with as if they were imported from a foreign port, unless it be shown to the satisfaction of the Customs-collector that such goods are the produce or manufacture of any place, from which they are entitled to be admitted duty-free.

28. Provisions and stores produced or manufactured in British India, required for use on board of any vessel proceeding to any Foreign Port, may be shipped free of duty, whether of customs or excise, in such quantities as the Customs-collector determines with reference to the tonnage of the vessel, the numbers of the crew and passengers, and the length of the voyage on which the vessel is about to depart:

Provided that no rum shall be so shipped on any vessel going on a voyage of less than thirty days' probable duration.

29. On the importation into, or exportation from, any Customs-port of any goods, whether liable to duty or not, the owner of such goods shall, in his bill of entry or shipping-bill, as the case may be, state the real value, quantity, and description of such goods to the best of his knowledge and belief, and shall subscribe a declaration of the truth of such statement at the foot of such bill.

In case of doubt, the Customs-collector may require any such owner or any other person in possession of any invoice, broker's note, policy of insurance or other document, whereby the real value, quantity, or description of any such goods can be ascertained, to produce the same, and to furnish any information relating to such value, quantity, or description which it is in his power to furnish. And thereupon such person shall produce such document and furnish such information:

Provided that, if the owner makes and subscribes a declaration before the Customs-collector to the effect that he is unable, from want of full information, to state the real value or contents of any case, package or parcel of goods, then the Customs-collector shall permit him, previous to the entry thereof, (1) to open such case, package or parcel, and examine the contents in presence of an officer of Customs, or (2) to deposit such case, package or parcel in a public warehouse appointed under section 15 without warehousing the same, pending the production of such information.

30. For the purposes of this Act the real value shall be deemed to be—

(a) the wholesale cash-price, less trade-discount, for which goods of the like kind and quality are sold, or are capable of being sold, at the time and place of importation or exportation as the case may be, without any abatement or deduction whatever, except (in the case of goods imported) of the amount of the duties payable on the importation thereof: or,

(b) where such price is not ascertainable, the cost at which goods of the like kind and quality could be delivered at such place without any abatement or deduction except as aforesaid.

31. Goods chargeable with duty upon the examination of ad-value thereof, but for which a specific value is not fixed by law for the purpose of levying duties thereon, shall, without unnecessary delay, be examined by an officer of Customs. If it appears that the real value of such goods is correctly stated in the bill-of-entry or shipping-bill, the goods shall be assessed in accordance therewith.

32. If it appears that such goods are properly chargeable with a higher rate or amount of duty than that to which they would be subject according to the value thereof as stated in the bill-of-entry or shipping-bill, such officer may detain such goods.

In every such case the detaining officer shall forthwith give notice in writing to the owner of the goods of their detention, and of the value thereof as estimated by him; and the Customs-collector shall, within two clear working days after such detention, or within such reasonable period as may with the consent of the parties be arranged, determine either to deliver such goods on payment of duty charged according to the entry of such owner, or to retain the same for the use of Government.

If the goods be retained for the use of Government, the Customs-collector shall cause the full amount stated in the bill as their real value to be paid to the owner in full satisfaction for such goods, in the same manner as if they had been transferred by ordinary sale, and shall, after due notice in the local official Gazette, or some local newspaper and without unnecessary delay, cause them to be put up to public auction in wholesale lots for cash on delivery.

If the Customs-collector deems the highest offer made at such sale to be inadequate, he may either adjourn the sale to some other day, to be notified as aforesaid, or buy in the goods, and without unnecessary delay dispose of them for the benefit of Government.

If the proceeds arising from such sale exceed the sum paid to the owner, together with (in the case of goods imported) the duty to which the goods are liable and all charges incurred by Government in connection with them a portion not exceeding one-half of the overplus shall, at the discretion of the Chief Officer of Customs, be payable to the officer who detected the under-valuation of the goods.

Nothing in this section shall prevent the Chief Officer of Customs, when he has reason to believe that any such under-valuation was solely the result of accident or error, from permitting the owner of the goods, on his application for that purpose, to amend such entry, on payment of such increased rate of duties on the excess of the amended over the original valuation, or on such other terms as the Chief Officer of Customs may determine.

33. If, on the first examination of any such goods under section 31, the owner thereof states in writing that such goods are in consequence of damage sustained before delivery of the bill of entry, of value less than that stated in such bill, the Customs-collector, on being satisfied of the fact, may allow abatement of duty accordingly.

The reduced duty to be levied on such goods may be ascertained by either of the following methods, at the option of the owner—

(a) the real value of such goods may be fixed on appraisement by an officer of Customs and the duty may be assessed on the value so fixed; or

(b) the goods may, after due notice in the local official Gazette or some local newspaper, be sold by public auction at such time (within thirty days from the date of delivery of the bill of entry), and at such place, as the Customs-collector appoints; and the duty may be assessed on the gross amount realized by such sale, without any abatement or deduction, except (in the case of goods imported) of so much as represents the duties payable on the importation thereof.

34. When any goods, the value of which has been fixed by law for the purpose of levying duties thereon, have, before delivery of the bill of entry, deteriorated to the extent of more than one-tenth of their value, the duty on such goods shall if the owner thereof so desires be assessed ad valorem.

The real value of such goods shall be ascertained as provided in section 33, and the duty shall be assessed thereon.

35. No abatement of duty on account of damage shall be allowed on wines, spirit or beer, or on any other articles on which duties are levied on quantity and not on value.

36. Except as provided in section 94, no amendment of a bill of entry or shipping-bill relating to goods assessed for duty on the declared value, quantity, or description thereof shall be allowed after such goods have been removed from the Custom-house.

37. The rate of duty and the tariff valuation (if any) applicable to any goods imported shall be the rate and valuation in force on the date on which the bill of entry thereof is delivered to the Customs-collector under section 86:

Provided that when such rate or valuation has been raised after the grant of port-clearance at the port of shipment, the rate and valuation applicable to such goods shall be the rate and valuation in force on the date of such grant.

Provided also that if such goods are warehoused and re-assessed under section 115 of this Act, the rate and valuation applicable thereto shall be the rate and valuation in force at the time when application is made to clear such goods for home consumption.

Explanation.—A bill of entry shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be delivered when it is first presented to the proper officer of Customs.

33. The rate of duty and tariff valuation (if any) applicable to any goods exported shall be the rate and valuation in force when a shipping-bill of such goods is delivered under section 137.

33. When Customs-duties or charges have been short-levied through inadvertence, error, collusion or misconstruction on the part of the officers of Customs, or through mis-statement as to real value, quantity, or description on the part of the owner, or when any such duty, or charge after having been levied, has been owing to any such cause erroneously refunded, the person chargeable with the duty or charge so short-levied, or to whom such refund has erroneously been made, shall pay the deficiency or repay the amount paid to him in excess, on demand being made within three months from the date of the first assessment or making of the refund; and the Customs-collector may refuse to pass any goods belonging to such person until the said deficiency or excess be paid or repaid.

40. No Customs-duties or charges which have been paid, and of which repayment, wholly or in part, is claimed in consequence of the same having been paid through inadvertence, error or misconstruction, shall be returned, unless such claim is made within three months from the date of such payment.

No refund of charges erroneously levied or paid, unless claimed within three months.

41. The Customs-collector may, if he thinks fit, instead of requiring payment of Customs-duties and charges due from any mercantile firm or public body, at the time such duties and charges are payable under this Act, keep with such firm or body an account current of such duties and charges. Such account shall be settled at intervals not exceeding one month, and such firm or body shall make a deposit or furnish security sufficient in the opinion of the Customs-collector to cover the amount which may at any time be due from them in respect of such duties and charges.

Power to give credit for and keep account current of duties and charges.

On production of such order, the officer bearing the same may require that any such box, place or closed receptacle be opened in his presence; and, if it be not opened upon his requisition, he may break open the same.

70. Unless with the written permission of the Customs-collector or in accordance with a general permission granted under section 74, no goods, other than passengers' baggage, or ballast urgently required to be shipped for the vessel's safety, shall be shipped or waterborne to be shipped or discharged from any vessel in any Customs-port, except in the presence of an officer of Customs.

71. When an officer of Customs is deputed under section 67 to remain on board a vessel, the tonnage of which does not exceed six hundred tons, a period of thirty working days, reckoned from the date on which he boards such vessel, or such additional period as the Customs-collector directs, shall be allowed for the discharge of import-cargo and the shipment of export-cargo on board of such vessel.

One additional day shall, in like manner, be allowed for every fifty tons in excess of six hundred.

No charge shall be made for the services of a single officer of Customs for such allowed number of working days, or for the services of several such officers (if available) for respective periods not exceeding in the aggregate such allowed number of working days.

If the period occupied in the discharge and shipment of cargo be in excess of thirty working days, together with the additional period (if any) allowed under this section, the vessel shall be charged with the expense of the officer of Customs at a rate not exceeding five rupees per diem (Sundays and holidays excepted) for such excess period.

In calculating any period allowed, or any charge made, under this section, the period (if any) during which a vessel after the completion of the discharge of import-cargo, and before commencing the shipment of export-cargo, is laid up by the withdrawal of the officer of Customs upon application from the Master, shall be deducted.

72. Except with the written permission of the Customs-collector, no goods, other than passengers' baggage, shall in any Customs-port be discharged from any vessel, or be shipped or water-borne to be shipped—

(a) on any Sunday or on any holiday or day in which the discharge or shipping of cargo, as the case may be, is prohibited by the Chief Customs-Authority;

(b) on any day, except between such hours as such authority from time to time appoints by notification in the official Gazette.

73. No goods shall in any Customs-port be landed at any place other than a wharf or other place duly appointed for that purpose, and unless with the written permission of the Customs-collector or when a general permission has been granted under section 74, no goods shall in any Customs-port be shipped or water-borne to be shipped from any place other than a wharf or other place duly appointed for that purpose.

74. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 70 or 73, the Chief Customs-Authority may, by notification in the local official Gazette, give general permission for goods to be shipped or water-borne to be shipped in any Customs-port from all or any places not duly appointed as wharves, and without the presence or authority of an officer of Customs.

75. The Chief Customs-Authority may from time to time make rules for the landing and shipping of passengers' baggage and the passing of the same through the Customs-house; and for the landing, shipping and clearing of parcels forwarded by Her Majesty's or other mails, or by other regular packets and passenger vessels.

When any baggage or parcels is or are made over to an officer of customs for the purpose of being landed a fee of such amount as the Local Government from time to time directs shall be chargeable thereon, as compensation for the expense and trouble incurred in landing and depositing the same in the Customs-house.

76. When any goods are water-borne for the purpose of being landed from any vessel and warehoused or cleared for home-consumption, or of being shipped for exportation on board of any vessel, there shall be sent, with each boat-load or other separate despatch, a boat-note specifying the number of packages so sent and the marks and numbers or other description thereof.

Each boat-note for goods to be landed shall be signed by an officer of the vessel, and likewise by the officer of Customs on board, if any such officer be on board, and shall be delivered on arrival to any officer of Customs authorized to receive the same.

Each boat-note for goods to be shipped shall be signed by the proper officer of Customs, and, if an officer of Customs is on board of the vessel on which such goods are to be shipped, shall be delivered to such officer. If no such officer be on board, every such boat-note shall be delivered to the Master of the vessel, or to an officer of the vessel appointed by him to receive it.

The officer of Customs who receives any boat-note of goods landed, and the officer of Customs, Master, or other officer, as the case may be, who receives any boat-note of goods shipped, shall sign the same and note thereon such particulars as the Chief Customs-Authority may from time to time direct.

The Local Government may from time to time by notification in the local official Gazette, suspend the operation of this section in any Customs-port or part thereof.

77. All goods water-borne for the purpose of being landed or shipped shall be landed or shipped without any unnecessary delay.

Goods water-borne to be forthwith landed or shipped.

78. Except in cases of imminent danger no goods shall be discharged into or loaded in any boat for the purpose of being landed or shipped shall be transhipped into any other boat without the permission of an officer of Customs.

Such goods not to be transhipped without permission.

79. The Local Government may declare with regard to any Customs-port, by notification in the local official Gazette, that after a date therein specified, no boat not duly licensed and registered shall be allowed to ply as a cargo-boat for the landing and shipping of merchandize within the limits of such Port.

Power to prohibit plying of unlicensed cargo-boats.

In any Port with regard to which such notification has been issued, the Chief Officer of Customs or other officer whom the Local Government appoints in this behalf, may, subject to such rules and on payment of such fees as the Local Government from time to time prescribes by notification in the local official Gazette, issue licenses for, and register cargo boats. Such officer may also, subject to rules so prescribed, cancel any license so issued.

Issue of licenses and registration of cargo-boats.

80. The Customs-collector may, whenever he thinks fit, require that goods stowed in bulk, and brought by sea or intended for exportation, shall be weighed or measured on board-ship before landing or after shipment, and may levy duty according to the result of such weighing or measurement.

Power to require goods to be weighed or measured on board before landing or after shipment.

CHAPTER IX.

OF DISCHARGE OF CARGO AND ENTRY INWARDS OF GOODS.

81. When an order for entry inwards of any vessel which has arrived in any Customs-port, or a special pass permitting such vessel to break bulk, has been given, the discharge of the cargo of such vessel may be proceeded with.

Discharge of cargo may commence on receipt of due permission.

82. Except as otherwise provided in this Act, no goods shall be allowed to leave any such vessel, unless they are entered in the original manifest of such vessel, or in an amended or supplementary manifest received under section 55.

Goods not to leave ship unless entered in manifest.

83. If the owner of any goods (except such as have been shown in the import-manifest as not to be landed) does not land such goods within such period as is specified in the bill of lading of such goods, or if no period is so specified within such number of working days, not exceeding fifteen, after the entry of the vessel importing the same, as the Local Government from time to time appoints by notification in the official Gazette, or if the cargo of any vessel, with the exception of only a small quantity of goods, has been discharged previously to the expiration of the period so specified or appointed, as the case may be,— the Master of such vessel or, on his application, the proper officer of Customs, may then carry such goods to the Custom-house, there to remain for entry.

Procedure in respect of goods not landed within time allowed.

The Customs-collector shall thereupon take charge of and grant receipts for such goods; and if notice in writing has been given by the Master that the goods are to remain subject to a lien for freight, primage, general average, or other charges of a stated amount, the Customs-collector shall hold such goods until he receives notice in writing that the said charges are paid.

84. At any time after the arrival of any vessel, the Customs-collector may, with the consent of the Master of such vessel, cause any small package or parcel of goods to be carried to the Custom-house, there to remain for entry, in charge of the officers of Customs, during the remainder of the working days allowed under this Act for the landing of such package or parcel.

Power to land small parcels.

If any package or parcel so carried to the Custom-house remains unclaimed on the expiration of the number of working days so allowed for its landing, or at the time of the clearance outwards of the vessel from which it was landed, the Master may give such notice as is provided in section 83, and the officer in charge of the Custom-house shall thereupon hold such package or parcel as provided in that section.

Notice regarding unclaimed packages.

85. Notwithstanding anything contained in sections 83 and 84 the Customs-collector in any Customs-port to which the Local Government, by notification in the local official Gazette, declares this section to be applicable, may permit the Master of any vessel immediately on receipt of an order under section 57 or special pass under section 59, to discharge the cargo of such vessel or any portion thereof into the custody of the ship's agents if willing to receive the same, for the purpose of landing the same forthwith—Power to permit immediate discharge.

(a) at the Custom-house or any specified landing-place or wharf; or

(b) at any landing-place or wharf belonging to any Port Commissioners, Port Trust or other public body or company;

Any ship's agent so receiving such cargo or portion shall be bound to discharge all claims for damage or short delivery which may be established in respect of the same by the owner thereof, and shall be entitled to recover from such owner his charges for service rendered, but not for commission or the like, where any agent for the landing of such cargo or portion has been previously appointed by the owner and such appointment is unrevoked.

The Customs-collector shall take charge of all goods discharged under clause (a) of this section, and otherwise proceed in relation thereto as provided in sections 83 and 84.

A public body or company at whose landing place or wharf any goods are discharged under clause (b) of this section, shall not permit the same to be removed without an order in writing from the Customs-collector.

86. The owner of any goods imported shall on the landing thereof from the importing ship make entry of such goods for home consumption or warehousing by delivering to the Customs-collector a bill of entry thereof in duplicate, in such form and containing such particulars, in addition to the particulars specified in section 29, as may, from time to time, be prescribed by the Chief Customs-Authority.

The particulars of such entry shall correspond with the particulars given of the same goods in the manifest of the ship.

87. On the delivery of such bill the duty (if any) leviable on such goods shall be assessed, and the owner of such goods may then proceed to clear the same for home-consumption, or warehouse them, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained.

88. If any goods are not entered and cleared for home-consumption, or warehoused, within four months from the date of entry of the vessel, such goods may, after due notice to the owner, if his address can be ascertained, and in the Local official Gazette, be sold by public auction, and the proceeds thereof shall be applied, first, to the payment of freight, primage and general average, if the goods are held by the Customs collector subject to such charges under notice given under section 83, 84 or 85; next, to the payment of the duties which would be leviable on such goods if they were then cleared for home-consumption, and next to the payment of the other charges (if any) payable to the Customs-collector in respect of the same.

The surplus, if any, shall be paid to the owner of the goods, on his application for the same; provided that such application be made within one year from the sale of the goods, or that sufficient cause be shown for not making it within such period.

If any goods of which the Customs-collector has taken charge under section 83, 84 or 85 be of a perishable nature, the Customs-collector may at any time direct the sale thereof, and shall apply the proceeds in like manner:

Provided that, where any goods liable to be sold under this section are arms, ammunition or military stores, they may be sold or otherwise disposed of at such place (whether within or without British India), and in such manner, as the Local Government may from time to time direct:

Provided also, that nothing in this section shall authorize the removal for home-consumption of any dutiable goods without payment of duties of customs thereon.

CHAPTER X.

OF CLEARANCE OF GOODS FOR HOME-CONSUMPTION.

89. When the owner of any goods entered for home-consumption, and (if such goods be liable to duty) assessed under section 87, has paid the import-duty (if any) assessed on such goods and any charges payable under this Act in respect of the same, the Customs-officer may make an order clearing the same; and such order shall be sufficient authority for the removal of such goods by the owner.

CHAPTER XI.

WAREHOUSING.

Of the admission of goods into a warehouse.

90. When any dutiable goods have been entered for warehousing and assessed under section 87, the owner of such goods may apply for leave to deposit the same in any warehouse appointed or licensed under this Act.

91. Every such application shall be in writing signed by the applicant, and shall be in such form as is from time to time prescribed by the Chief Customs-Authority.

92. When any such application has been made in respect of any goods, the owner of the goods to which it relates shall execute a bond, binding himself, in a penalty of twice the amount of duty assessed under section 87 on such goods,

(a) to observe all rules prescribed by this Act in respect of such goods;

(b) to pay, on demand, all duties, rent and charges claimable on account of such goods under this Act, together with interest on the same from the date of demand, at such rate not exceeding six per cent. per annum as is for the time being fixed by the Chief Customs-Authority; and

(c) to discharge all penalties incurred for violation of the provisions of this Act in respect of such goods.

Every such bond shall be in the Form marked A hereto annexed, or, when such form is inapplicable or insufficient, in such other form as is from time to time prescribed by the Chief Customs-Authority, and shall relate to the cargo or portion of the cargo of one vessel only.

93. When the provisions of sections 91 and 92 have been complied with in respect of any goods, such goods shall be forwarded in charge of an officer of customs to the warehouse in which they are to be deposited.

A pass shall be sent with the goods specifying the name of the importing vessel and of the bonder, the marks, numbers and contents of each package, and the warehouse or place in the warehouse wherein they are to be deposited.

94. On receipt of the goods, the pass shall be examined by the warehouse-keeper, and shall be returned to the Customs-collector.

No package, butt, cask or hogshead shall be admitted into any warehouse unless it bear the marks and numbers specified in, and otherwise correspond with, the pass for its admission.

If the goods be found to correspond with the pass, the warehouse-keeper shall certify to that effect on the pass, and the warehousing of such goods shall be deemed to have been completed.

If the goods do not so correspond, the fact shall be reported by the warehouse-keeper for the orders of the Customs-collector, and the goods shall either be returned to the Custom-house in charge of an officer of Customs or kept in deposit pending such orders, as the warehouse-keeper deems most convenient.

If the quantity or value of any goods has been erroneously stated in the bill of entry, the error may be rectified at any time before the warehousing of the goods is completed, and not subsequently.

95. Except as provided in section 100, all goods shall be warehoused in the packages, butts, casks or hogheads in which they have been imported.

96. Whenever any goods are lodged in a public warehouse or a licensed private warehouse, the warehouse-keeper, or, in the case of the Mongal Bonded Warehouse Association, the Secretary of the said Association, shall deliver a warrant signed by him as such to the person lodging the goods.

Such warrant shall be in the Form B hereto annexed, and shall be transferable by endorsement; and the endorsee shall be entitled to receive the goods specified in such warrant on the same terms as those on which the person who originally lodged the goods would have been entitled to receive the same.

The Local Government may by notification in the local official Gazette exempt salt and salted fish from the operation of this section and may in like manner cancel such exemption.

Rules relating to goods in a warehouse.

97. The Customs-collector or any officer deputed by him for the purpose, shall have access to any private warehouse licensed under this Act.

98. The Customs-collector may at any time by order in writing direct that any goods or packages lodged in any warehouse shall be opened, weighed or otherwise examined; and after any goods have been so opened or examined, may cause the same to be sealed or marked in such manner as he thinks fit.

When any goods have been so sealed and marked after examination, they shall not be again opened without the permission of the Customs-collector; and when any such goods have been opened with such permission, the packages shall, if he thinks fit, be again sealed or marked as before.

99. Any owner of goods lodged in a warehouse shall, at any time within the hours of business, have access to his goods in presence of an officer of Customs, and an officer of Customs shall, upon application for the purpose being made in writing to the Customs-collector, be deputed to accompany such owner.

When an officer of Customs is specially employed to accompany such owner, a sum sufficient to meet the expenses thereby incurred shall, if the Customs-collector so require, be paid by such owner to the Customs-collector, and such sum shall, if the Customs-collector so direct, be paid in advance.

100. With the sanction of the Customs-collector, and after such notice given, and under such rules and conditions as the Chief Customs-Authority from time to time prescribes, any owner of goods may, either before or after warehousing the same,—

(a) sort, separate, pack and repack the goods and make such alterations therein as may be necessary for the preservation, sale, shipment or disposal thereof (such goods to be repacked in the packages in which they were imported, or in such other packages as the Customs-collector permits);

(b) fill up any casks of wine, spirit or beer from any casks of the same secured in the same warehouse;

(c) mix any wines or spirit of the same sort secured in the same warehouse, erasing from the cask all import-brands, unless the whole of the wine or spirit so mixed be of the same brand;

(d) bottle off wine or spirit from any casks;

(e) take such samples of goods as may be allowed by the Customs-collector with or without entry for home consumption, and with or without payment of duty, except such as may eventually become payable on a deficiency of the original quantity.

After any such goods have been so separated and repacked in proper or approved packages, the Customs-collector may, at the request of the owner of such goods, cause or permit any refuse, damaged, or surplus goods remaining after such separation or repacking (or, at the like request, any goods which may not be worth the duty) to be destroyed, and may remit the duty payable thereon.

101. If goods be lodged in a public warehouse, the owner shall pay monthly, on receiving a bill or written demand for the same from the Customs-collector or other officer deputed by him in that behalf, rent and warehouse-dues at such rates as the Chief Customs-Authority or such officer of customs as such Authority from time to time appoints in this behalf may fix.

A table of the rates of rent and warehouse, dues so fixed shall be placed in a conspicuous part of such warehouse.

If any bill for rent or warehouse-dues presented under this section is not discharged within ten days from the date of presentation, the Customs-collector may, in the discharge of such demand (any transfer or assignment of the goods notwithstanding) cause to be sold by public auction, after due notice in the local official Gazette, such sufficient portion of the goods as he may select.

Out of the proceeds of such sale the Customs-collector shall first satisfy the demand for the discharge of which the sale was ordered, and shall then pay over the surplus (if any) to the owner of the goods:

Provided that the application for such surplus be made within one year from the date of the sale of the goods, or that sufficient cause be shown for not making it within such period.

102. No warehoused goods shall be taken out of any warehouse, except on clearance for home-consumption or shipment, or for removal to another warehouse or as otherwise provided by this Act.

Goods not to be taken out of warehouse, except as provided by this Act.

103. Any goods warehoused may be left in the warehouse in which they are deposited or in any warehouse to which they may in manner hereinafter provided be removed till the expiry of three years after the date of the bond executed in relation to such goods under section 92. The owner of any goods remaining in a warehouse on the expiry of such period shall clear the same for home-consumption or shipment in manner hereinafter provided:

Provided that when the license for any private warehouse is cancelled, and the Customs-collector gives notice of such cancellation to the owner of any goods deposited in such warehouse, such owner shall in manner hereinafter provided, and within seven days from the date on which such notice is given, remove such goods to another warehouse or clear them for home-consumption or shipment.

Power to remove goods from one warehouse to another in same Port.

When any owner desires so to remove any goods, he shall apply for permission to do so in such form as the Chief Customs-Authority from time to time prescribes.

When any owner desires so to remove any goods for such purpose, he shall apply to the Chief Customs-Officer, stating the particulars of the goods to be removed, and the name of the Port to which it is intended that they shall be removed, together with such other particulars, and in such manner and form, as the Chief Customs-Authority from time to time prescribes.

Procedure.

106. When permission is granted for the removal of any goods from one warehousing Port to another under section 105, an account containing the particulars thereof shall be transmitted by the proper officer of the Port of removal to the proper officer of the Port of destination; and the person requiring the removal shall before such removal enter into a bond, with one sufficient surety, in a sum equal at least to the duty

If such bond is taken at the Port of destination, a certificate thereof, signed by the proper officer of such Port, shall, at the time of the removal of such goods, be produced to the proper officer at the Port of removal; and such bond shall not be discharged unless such goods are produced to the proper officer, and duly re-warehoused at the Port of destination within the time allowed for such removal, or are otherwise accounted for to the satisfaction of such officer; nor until the full duty due upon any deficiency of such goods, not so accounted for, has been paid.

107. The Chief Customs-Authority may permit any person desirous of removing warehoused goods to enter into a general bond, with such sureties, in such amount, and under such conditions, as the Chief Customs-Authority approves, for the removal, from time to time, of any goods from one warehouse to another, either in the same or in a different Port, and for the due arrival and re-warehousing of such goods at the Port of destination within such time as such Authority directs.

Remover may enter into a general bond.

108. Upon the arrival of warehoused goods at the Port of destination, they shall be entered and warehoused in like manner as goods are entered and warehoused on the first importation thereof, and under the laws and rules, in so far as such laws and rules are applicable, which regulate the entry and warehousing of such last-mentioned goods.

Bond under section 92 to continue in force notwithstanding removal.

110. Any owner of goods warehoused may, at any time within three years from the date of the bond executed under section 92 in respect of such goods, clear such goods for home-consumption by paying (a) the duty assessed on such goods under section 87, or where the duty on such goods is altered under the provisions hereinafter contained, such altered duty; and (b) all rent, penalties, interest and other charges payable to the Customs-collector in respect of such goods.

If any goods upon which duties are leviable ad valorem or on a tariff valuation receive damage through unavoidable accident after they have been entered for warehousing and assessed under section 87, and before they are cleared for home-consumption, they shall, if the owner so desires, be re-assessed for duty according to their actual value, and a new bond for the same may, at the option of the owner, be executed for the unexpired term of warehousing.

CHAPTER XII.

TRANSHIPMENT.

128. In the Ports of Calcutta, Madras,

Bombay, Kárwár, Karachi, Aden, Rangoon, Maulmain, Akyab, Chittagong, and such other ports as the Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, direct in this

tion by the owner of any goods imported into such

Port, and specially and distinctly manifested

at the time of importation as for transhipment to some other Customs or Foreign Port, grant leave to tranship the same without payment of the duty, (if any) leviable, at the Port of transhipment, and without any security or bond for the due arrival and entry of the goods at the Port of destination.

In any Customs-port other than a Port in which the preceding clause may for the time being be in force, the Customs-collector may, on application by the owner of any goods so imported and unmanifested, grant leave for transhipment without payment of the duty (if any) leviable at such Port; provided that, where the goods so transhipped are dutiable, and are to be removed to some other Customs-port, the applicant shall enter into a bond, with such security as may be required of him, in a sum equal at least to the duty chargeable on such goods, for the due arrival and entry thereof at the Port of destination within such time as such Customs-collector directs.

129. An officer of Customs shall, in every case, be deputed free of charge to

transhipped goods from vessel to vessel.

130. The powers conferred on the Customs-collector by section 128 shall be exercised, and the transshipment shall be performed, subject to such rules as may from time to time be made by the Local Government.

No rules made under this section shall come into force until after the expiry of such reasonable time from the date of the publication of the same as the Local Government may in such case appoint in this behalf.

131. All goods transhipped under the second clause of section 128 for removal to a Customs-port shall on their arrival at such Port be entered in like manner as goods are entered on the first importation thereof, and under the laws and rules, in so far as such laws and rules can be made applicable, which regulate the entry of such last-mentioned goods.

132. If two or more vessels belonging wholly or in part to the same owner be at any Customs-port at the same time, any provisions and stores in use or ordinarily shipped for use on board may, at the discretion of the Customs-collector, be transhipped from one such vessel to any other such vessel without payment of import-duty.

133. A transhipment-fee on any goods or class of goods transhipped under this Act, may be levied at such rates, on each bale or package, or according to weight, measurement, quantity, or number, and under such rules as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, may from time to time by notification in the local official Gazette prescribe for each port.

134. The Governor-General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, prohibit, at any specified Port, or at all Ports, the transhipment, of any specified class of goods, generally or when destined for any specified ports, or prescribe any special mode of transhipping any specified class of goods.

135. Except as provided in this Act, no goods shall be transhipped at any Port or place in British India.

CHAPTER XIII.

EXPORTATION OR SHIPMENT, AND RE-LANDING.

136. Except with the written permission of the Customs-collector, no goods other than passengers' baggage, or ballast urgently required for a vessel's safety, shall be shipped or water-borne to be shipped in any vessel in a Customs-port until an order has been obtained under section 61 for entry outwards of such vessel.

When such order has been obtained, the export cargo of such vessel may be shipped, subject to the provisions next hereinafter contained.

137. Unless the Chief Customs-Authority shall, in the case of any Customs-port or wharf, or of any class of goods, otherwise direct by notification in the local official Gazette, no goods, except passengers' baggage, shall be shipped or water-borne to be shipped for exportation, until—

(a) the owner has delivered to the Customs-collector, or other proper officer, a shipping-bill of such goods in duplicate in such form and containing such particulars in addition to those specified in section 29 as may from time to time be prescribed by the Chief Customs-Authority;

(b) such owner has paid the duties (if any) payable on such goods; and

(c) such bill has been passed by the Customs-collector.

138. Before any warehoused goods or goods subject to excise-duties, or goods entitled to drawback of Customs-duties on exportation or goods exportable only under particular rules or restrictions, are permitted to be exported, the owner shall, if required so to do, give security by bond in such sum, not exceeding twice the duty leviable on such goods, as the Customs-collector directs, with one sufficient surety, that such goods shall be duly shipped, exported and landed at the place for which they are entered outwards, or shall be otherwise accounted for to the satisfaction of such officer.

139. When goods are cleared for shipment on a shipping-bill presented after port-clearance has been granted, the Customs-collector may, if he thinks fit, levy, in addition to any duty to which such goods are ordinarily liable, a charge not exceeding—

(a) in the case of goods liable to duties on fixed tariff valuations, one per cent. on the tariff value;

(b) in the case of all other goods, one per cent. on the market value.

Nothing in this section shall apply to any shipment of treasure or opium.

140. If any goods mentioned in a shipping-bill or manifest be not shipped, or re-landed, and return of duty thereon. re-landed, the owner shall, before the expiration of five clear working days after the vessel on which such goods were intended to be shipped, or from which they were re-landed, has left the Port, give information of such short-shipment or re-landing to the Customs-collector.

Upon an application being made to the Customs-collector, any duty levied upon goods not shipped, or upon goods shipped and afterwards re-landed, shall be refunded to the person on whose behalf such duty was paid: Provided that no such refund shall be allowed unless information has been given as above required.

141. If, after having cleared from any Customs-port any vessel, without having discharged her cargo, returns to such Port, or puts into any other Customs-port, any owner of goods in such vessel, if he desires to land or tranship the same or any portion thereof for re-export, may, with the consent of the Master, apply to the Customs-collector in that behalf.

The Customs-collector, if he grant the application, shall thereupon send an officer of Customs to watch the vessel, and to take charge of such goods during such re-landing or transhipment.

Such goods shall not be allowed to be transhipped or re-exported free of duty by reason of the previous settlement of duty at the time of first export, unless they are lodged and remain until the time of re-export, under the custody of an officer of Customs, in a place appointed by the Customs-collector, or are transhipped under such custody.

All expenses attending such custody shall be borne by the owner.

142. In either of the cases mentioned in section 141, the Master of the vessel may enter such vessel inwards, and any owner of goods therein may, with the consent of the Master, land the same under the rules herein contained for the importation of goods.

In every such case, any export-duty levied shall be refunded ~~to~~, and any amount paid in drawback shall be recovered from, such owner.

143. The Customs-collector may, on application by the Master of any vessel, which is obliged before completing her voyage to put into any Customs-port for repairs, permit him to land the cargo, or any portion thereof, and to place it in the custody of an officer of Customs during such repairs, and to re-ship and export the same free of duty.

All expenses attending such custody shall be borne by the Master.

CHAPTER XIV.

SPIRIT.

Exportation of spirit under bond for excise-duty.

144. The Chief Customs-Authority may from time to time make rules prescribing the conditions on which spirit manufactured in British India may be removed from any licensed distillery for exportation without payment of excise-duty.

The person so removing any such spirit shall execute a bond with one or more sureties, in the form marked C hereto annexed, or (when such form is inapplicable or insufficient) in such other form as the said Authority from time to time prescribes, conditioned that such duty shall be paid on all such spirit as is

(a) not exported within four months from the date of the bond, or

(b) exported to a Customs-port unless the payment of excise-duty as provided by this chapter in respect thereof at the port of destination is within six months from the date of the bond proved to the satisfaction of the proper officer.

The Chief Officer of Customs of the port of exportation may, on sufficient cause shown, extend for a further term not exceeding four months the period allowed for the exportation of any such spirit, or for the production of such proof that duty has been paid.

145. Spirit intended for exportation under bond for the excise-duty shall be taken from the distillery direct to the Custom-house, under passes to be granted for that purpose by the officers of Excise.

146. Spirit brought to the Custom-house for exportation under bond for the excise-duty shall, previous to shipment, be gauged and proved by an officer of Customs, and the quantity of spirit for which credit is to be given in the settlement of any bond shall be determined in the same manner.

147. Excise-duty shall be recoverable previous to shipment upon the excess (if any) of the quantity of spirit passed from a distillery over the quantity ascertained by gauge and proof at the Custom-house, less an allowance for ullage and wastage at such rates as are from time to time prescribed by the Local Government and notified in the local official Gazette.

148. Spirit exported under bond for excise-duty from any Customs-port to any other Customs-port, shall be charged at the Port of importation with excise-duty at the ordinary rate to which spirit of the like kind and strength is liable at such Port.

149. Spirit brought to the Custom-house for exportation under bond for the excise-duty may, on payment of such duty, be removed for local consumption under passes to be granted for that purpose by the officers of Excise.

Credit for every such payment shall be given in discharge of the bond to which it relates.

Drawback of excise duty on export of spirit.

150. A drawback of excise-duty paid on spirit manufactured in British India and exported to any Foreign Port under the provisions of section 138, shall be allowed by the Customs-collector at the Port of exportation:

Provided that the exportation be made within one year from the date of payment of such excise-duty, and that the spirit, when brought to the Custom-house, be accompanied by a pass in which such payment is certified.

Such drawback shall be regulated by the strength and quantity of such spirit as ascertained by gauge and proof by an officer of customs.

Miscellaneous.

151. If spirit manufactured in British India upon which excise-duty has been paid is exported from one Customs port to another, and the rate of local excise-duty at the port of importation is higher than that already paid upon such spirit, a differential duty shall be charged thereon, at such rate as the Local Government at such Port may by notification in the local official Gazette from time to time prescribe.

152. Rum-shrab, cordial, and other such liquor prepared in a licensed distillery under the supervision of the surveyor or officer in charge of the distillery shall be charged with excise-duty under this Act according to the quantity of spirit used in its preparation as ascertained by such surveyor or officer.

The provisions of this Act respecting spirit, except such as relate to gauge and proof, shall apply to such liquor.

153. No drawback shall be allowed for any spirit on which duty has been paid, nor shall the duty due on any spirit under bond be remitted, unless the spirit is shipped from the Custom-house, and in a vessel whereon an officer of Customs has been appointed to superintend the receipt of export-cargo.

154. No spirit shipped for exportation shall be re-landed without a special pass from an officer of Excise, in addition to any permission of an officer of Customs which may be required by the law for the time being in force.

155. When by any law for the time being in force a special duty is imposed on spirit rendered unfit for human consumption, the Local Government may from time to time make rules for ascertaining and determining what spirit imported into British India shall be deemed to have been effectually and permanently so rendered unfit and for causing such spirit to be so rendered, if necessary, by their own officers, and at the expense of the person importing the same, before the Customs-duties leviable thereon are levied.

In the absence of any such rules, or if any dispute arises as to their applicability, the Chief Customs-Officer shall decide what spirit is subject only to the said special duty, and such decision shall be final.

CHAPTER XV. COASTING TRADE.

156. Except as hereinafter provided, nothing in Chapters VII, IX, X, and part of XIII inapplicable to coasting trade, sections 136, 139 and 141 to 143 inclusive of this Act shall apply to coasting vessels or to goods imported or exported in such vessels.

157. The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules consistent with the provisions of this Chapter,

(a) extending any provision of the Chapters and Sections mentioned in section 156 with or without modification to any coasting vessels or to any goods imported or exported in such vessels;

(b) exempting any such vessels or goods from any of the other provisions of this Act except those contained in this Chapter;

(c) prescribing the conditions on which goods, or any specified class of goods, may be (1) carried in a coasting vessel, whether shipped at a Foreign Port, or at a Customs-port, or at a place declared under section 12 to be a port; (2) shipped in a coasting vessel before all dutiable goods and goods brought in such vessel from a Foreign Port have been unladen;

(d) prohibiting the conveyance of any specified class of goods generally, or to or between specified Ports in a coasting vessel;

158. Before any coasting vessel departs from the port of lading or when there are more ports of lading than one, the first port of lading, the Master shall fill in, sign and deliver to the Customs-collector a manifest in duplicate containing a true specification of all goods to be carried in such vessel, in such form, and accompanied by such shipping-bills or other documents as may from time to time be prescribed by the Chief Customs-Authority.

If the Customs-collector sees no objection to the departure of the vessel, he shall retain the duplicate and return the original manifest dated and signed by him together with its accompaniments; and such manifest shall be the port-clearance of the vessel unless, under the general orders of the Chief Customs-Authority, a separate port-clearance be prescribed.

159. Within twenty-four hours after the arrival of any coasting vessel at any Customs-port, whether intermediate or final, and before any goods are there discharged, the manifest, together with the other documents referred to in section 158, shall be delivered to the Customs-collector, who shall note on the manifest the date of delivery.

If the vessel has touched at any Foreign Port between such Port of arrival and her last preceding Customs-port of departure, the Master shall append to the manifest a declaration to that effect, and shall also indicate on the manifest the portions (if any) of the cargo therein described which have been discharged, and subjoin thereto a true specification of all goods shipped at such Port.

If the Customs-port of arrival be an intermediate Port, and a portion only of the cargo is to be discharged thereat, the Master shall likewise so deliver an extract from the manifest signed by him, relating to such portion, and the Customs-collector shall, after verifying such extract, return to him the original manifest and all documents accompanying it except those relating to such portion.

If in any case the cargo actually on board any coasting vessel on her arrival at any Customs-port does not, owing to short-shipment, re-landing, or other cause, correspond with the specification thereof in the manifest returned to the Master under the second clause of section 158, such Master shall, before delivery of such manifest under this section, note thereon the particulars of the difference.

The Customs-collector, when satisfied with the manifest and other documents, shall grant an order to break bulk.

160. Before any coasting vessel departs from any Customs-port at which she has touched during her voyage, the Master shall re-deliver the original manifest to the Customs-collector, after indicating thereon the portions (if any) of the cargo therein described which have been discharged, and subjoining thereto a true specification of all goods shipped at such Port. He shall also deliver a duplicate, signed by him, of the specification so subjoined.

If the Customs-collector sees no objection to the departure of the vessel, he shall proceed as prescribed in the second clause of section 158.

161. The Customs-collector may, for sufficient reason, refuse port-clearance to any coasting vessel declared to be bound to, or about to tough at, any Customs-port, unless the owner or Master gives a bond with such security as the Customs-collector deems sufficient for the production to the Customs-collector of a certificate from the proper officer of the Port to which such vessel is said to be bound, of her arrival at such Port within a reasonable time to be prescribed in each case by the Customs-collector.

162. When permission has been granted by the Customs-collector for the discharge of cargo from any coasting vessel—

(a) if the vessel has not touched at any intermediate Foreign Port in the course of her voyage, and has not on board any dutiable goods, the cargo may be forthwith landed and removed by the owner, without entry thereof at the Custom-house and clearance for home-consumption, but subject to such general check and control as the Chief Customs-Authority may from time to time by rules prescribe;

(b) if the vessel has so touched at any such Port, or has on board any such goods, such vessel shall be subject to all the provisions of Chapter VII of this Act relating to vessels arriving and such goods, and until such goods have been duly discharged all other goods on board shall be subject to the provisions of Chapter IX of this Act relating to goods imported.

163. If any of the goods on board of any coasting vessel be subject to any excise-duty, they shall not be unladen without the permission of the proper officer of Excise.

164. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, the Chief Customs Authority may authorize the Customs-collector to grant a general pass, on any conditions which such Authority thinks expedient, for the lading and clearance, and for the entry and unlading, of any coasting steam-vessel at any Ports of despatch or destination, or at any intermediate Ports at which she touches for the purpose of receiving goods or passengers.

Such pass shall be valid throughout British India, or for such Ports only as may be specified therein.

Any such general pass may be revoked by order of the Chief Customs-Authority by whom the grant thereof was authorized, by notice in writing under the hand of such Authority, delivered to the Master or to the owner of such steam-vessel, or to any of the crew on board.

165. The Chief Customs-Authority may direct that the Master of any coasting vessel which is square-rigged or propelled by steam shall keep, or cause to be kept, a cargo-book, stating the name of the Master, the vessel, the Port to which she belongs, and the Port to which on each voyage she is bound.

At every Port of lading such Master shall enter, or cause to be entered, in such book the name of such Port, and an account of all goods there taken on board of such vessel, with a description of the packages, and the quantities and descriptions of the goods contained therein or stowed loose, and the names of the respective shippers and consignees, in so far as such particulars are known to him.

At every Port of discharge of any such goods such Master shall enter, or cause to be entered, in such book the respective days on which such goods or any of them are delivered out of such vessel.

The respective times of departure from every Port of lading, and of arrival at every Port of discharge, shall in like manner be duly entered.

Every such Master shall, on demand, produce his cargo-book for the inspection of any officer of Customs, and such officer shall be at liberty to make any note or remark therein.

The Chief Customs-Authority may, in the case of any vessel the Master whereof has been directed to keep a cargo-book under this section, dispense with the manifest required under sections 158, 159 and 160.

166. Any duly empowered officer of Customs may go on board of any coasting vessel in any Port or place in British India, and may at any period of a voyage search any such vessel and examine all goods on board, and all goods then lading or unlading, and may demand the production of any document, which ought to be on board of any such vessel.

The Customs-collector may further require that any such document belonging to any coasting vessel then in Port shall be brought to him for inspection.
